

Army Reported To be Seeking Equipment for Million Men

Roosevelt Is Studying War Department Estimates
MAY HIKE FUND
Approval May Mean Request for 3 Billion For Defense

Washington—(AP)—War department estimates being studied by President Roosevelt today to call for equipment for an army of a million men.

The army high command wants immediately available, authoritative military quarters heard, an "initial protective force" of 600,000 regulars and national guardsmen, full war equipment to expand the force to 700,000 or more in an emergency, and the essential arms for the remainder of the million.

Detailed cost figures are confidential, but it was understood the proposal contemplated total appropriations for the war department exceeding $1,700,000,000.

Navy's Budget
The navy's budget, revised upward because of the European war, will approximate $1,300,000,000, well-informed members of congress already have reported.

The first move to provide the additional manpower was made by Mr. Roosevelt two months ago in ordering an increase of about 52,000 regulars and guardsmen. Subsequently he indicated approval of a further expansion of about 138,000, to provide a ready protective force of 600,000, made up of 280,000 regulars and 320,000 national guardsmen.

START LICENSING
Washington—(AP)—Issuance of licenses for the export of war materials to Britain and France has begun at the state department—but only in dribbles.

Some officials who envisioned long lines of applicants waiting for the state department doors to open every morning this week have been disappointed.

The reason for the delay is the fact that the department had to prepare new application blanks. The new neutrality law requires more detailed information from the manufacturers and exporters of war materials than did the preceding act.

Companies which obtain licenses must submit to the state department all the contractual details of their sales. The national munitions control board must present these to congress in semi-annual reports.

Nearly $50,000,000 in export licenses had to be cancelled when the arms embargo of the old act was imposed, but these will be reissued as fast as the applications come in and are approved. The canceled licenses were almost entirely to Britain, France and Australia, and called principally for airplanes.

Licenses issued in the next month or so are expected to total several hundred million dollars.

Administration of the new neutrality act is imposing more onerous duties on the state department and on the treasury, which supervises much of the "cash and carry" program.

About 160 organizations have registered with the state department for permission to collect funds for charitable distribution in the belligerent countries. Department officials are finding in some cases that they are being called on to act virtually as accountants to help the organizations straighten out their books.

Morgenthau Says He Won't Try to Raise Debt Limit

Also Asserts Roosevelt Will Not Make Request to Congress

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today that neither President Roosevelt nor he would ask congress to lift the federal debt limit.

The chief executive and treasury head had been expected to recommend raising the debt ceiling from $45,000,000,000 to probably $50,000,000,000 in order to clear the way for continued federal deficit spending.

Losers Certificate for His 'Flight to Mars'
Washington—(AP)—Cheston L. Eshelman of Carlisle, Pa., lost his pilot's certificate today for attempting a "flight to Mars."

Eshelman left Camden, N. J., June 5 and landed in the Atlantic ocean about 175 miles off Boston. He told rescuers he was on his way to Mars when trouble developed.

The civil aeronautics authority, in revoking Eshelman's student pilot certificate, said his "recklessness and disregard" of civil air regulations "constitutes sufficient cause to justify" its action.

U. S. Treasury Will Pay About Million in Postage to Move 6 Billion in Gold to Ft. Knox

Washington—(AP)—Inexperienced postmen need not apply, but the treasury is getting ready to mail five or six billion dollars worth of gold.

As soon as congress authorizes the postage—about $1,000,000—the treasury wants to shift part of its huge gold hoards from New York and Philadelphia to the subterranean vaults built for the purpose at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Frey to Urge Heil Action to Recover Fund

CLASH AT HEARING

Contractor Demands Right to Testify at Division's Probe

Madison—(AP)—August Frey, director of the division of departmental research, said yesterday that he would recommend that Governor Heil initiate action to collect $65,000 the state purportedly overpaid for cement for use on highway construction jobs.

Frey did not indicate—in the event a lawsuit would be necessary—who would be named defendants. The division took testimony two weeks ago that the commission paid from 25 to 65 cents a barrel more than several contractors, and a number of counties and neighboring states did.

His announcement was made at the conclusion of a stormy session during which Walter A. Bechtold, vice president and secretary of the Milwaukee contracting firm of Payne and Dolan, delayed the division's examination of Commission Chairman William E. O'Brien long enough to demand an opportunity to testify.

The Milwaukee firm built the 15-mile stretch of Highway 13 between Friendship and the Wood county line upon which a portion of the division's investigation of the highway commission has been based.

Demands to be Heard
Standing directly in front of Frey, Bechtold said:

"I have a subpoena to appear here this morning and I would like to testify. As the contractor in these discussions I have a lot of evidence you (Frey) should be interested in. But you have told me a number of times to go home and get the hell out of here. Could I have the assurance that I can testify today?"

"No, not today," Frey answered. "Well then, can I have the assurance that I can testify later?" Bechtold asked.

"I will reserve my answer to that," Frey said.

"I have never heard more misrepresentations in my life than your attorney (Legal Counsel James S. Fornary) made," Bechtold continued, "and if I don't get a chance to testify I will make out an affidavit, present it to you and to the press."

"I built a good road, and I don't want to be in the middle of a fight," He then strode from the room.

Defends Questions
Frey said later it was "very indecent" whether Bechtold would "be given a chance to testify before the division."

In answer to the charge of "misrepresentations," Fornary said he turned to page 12 col. 7.

Marshal Is Slain; Suspect Arrested

Prisoner Identified as Youth Who Flew State Reformatory Quarry

Postville, Iowa—(AP)—Elmer Lennon, night marshal here for the last 15 years, was fatally wounded early today in a gun battle with a burglarly suspect. The officer's assailant was wounded in the leg.

The suspect was captured about 5 o'clock a. m. at the outskirts of New Albion, Iowa, by Night Marshal Frank Ryan of Lansing, Iowa, who pursued him from the latter town after blocking a toll bridge across the Mississippi river.

The slain man was shot three times. Sheriff John P. King of Allamakee county said the assailant and Lennon engaged in the gun battle at a filling station here. The sheriff said the man was stealing gasoline.

The sheriff identified the suspect as Carroll Berres, 23, of West Allis, Wis. Milwaukee police said Berres escaped from the state reformatory stone quarry at Amberg, Wis., Oct. 14.

Chamberlain Not Optimistic About Early End of War

Must be Assured 'Europe Has Been Freed From Threats'

London—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain declared today that "the stiff-necked men" who run Germany "speak no language but that of force," and, therefore, "I am not very hopeful of a satisfactory response from the German chancellor" to the peace proposals of Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold.

The prime minister's declaration was delivered before the lord mayor's luncheon by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon as Chamberlain was suffering from a cold.

"Everyone will appreciate the lofty motives" of the sovereigns of the Netherlands and Belgium in their peace appeal of last Tuesday, and Great Britain will reply after consultation with the dominions and her allies, the declaration continued.

"We do not want to continue the war a day longer than is necessary if a satisfactory settlement can be obtained in another way," Chamberlain wrote. But he reiterated:

"Since we have been compelled to take up arms we shall not lay them down until we are assured that Europe has been freed from the threats which have so long paralyzed the life of her peoples."

Observing that "this strangest of wars" must seem to many "no war at all but rather a sort of siege," he continued that at any moment it Turn to page 12 col. 2

Boy Confesses He Killed His Chum

Tells Police Quarrel Over Watch Resulted in Stabbing

Detroit—(AP)—A 14-year-old high school boy was held today after police said he confessed killing a chum in an argument over a dollar watch.

Chief Floyd M. Crichton of the suburban Lincoln Park police announced that the boy, George McClelland, had admitted stabbing Howard Rucker, 17-year-old filling station employee, Tuesday night, then arranging it to look as though Rucker had been killed by robbers.

Throughout a day of questioning, Chief Crichton said, the boy had given a detailed account of how robbers entered the station, killed Rucker and knocked him unconscious as he tried to defend his falcon chum. Minute descriptions which he gave of two men set police to watching for them.

Crichton said the boy finally gave this account of the quarrel: "Last week I had a new dollar watch. Howard grabbed it from me. He wouldn't give it back. So I took his clock."

"I went back three days ago and gave his clock back. I thought the joking was over, but Howard wouldn't give me back the watch. Last night I went back again and told him to give me the watch."

"He wouldn't. He was cleaning his nails with his hunting knife. He stuck it in me and I was scared."

"He hit me on the side of the head I fell down on the floor. "Then he dropped the knife. I grabbed it and stabbed him. I don't remember stabbing him again."

Holland Prepares to Flood Villages in Event of War; Belgium Is Increasing Army

Amsterdam—(AP)—The Netherlands cleared out villages in new "water line" regions today preparatory to defensive flooding, and Belgium raised her mobilization to a near peak figure of about 600,000 men.

Passenger service out of Amsterdam was ordered restricted, beginning at 4 p. m., "in view of extraordinary measures taken by the railway company." The order was believed generally to have been due to heavy precautionary movements of troops eastward.

The actions of the two nations were interpreted as evidence of a wary determination to be ready for any turn in the European war.

Official sources in both insisted, however, that they feared no immediate danger for their respective countries.

Military authorities of the Netherlands cleared out several villages in the main flood defense region near Utrecht and also removed the population of the hamlet of Lent, near Nijmegen on the east frontier.

First Line of Defense
(Utrecht is in central Holland while Lent is about 40 miles south-east.)

This is the Netherlands' first line of defense against German invasion.

The Belgians sent troops north to the border of the Netherlands and important defenses there were speeded up against the possibility of a German invasion of the Netherlands which then would sweep south into Belgium to outflank the Maginot line.

(Germany has denied any intention of sending troops through Belgium or the Netherlands.)

Bus routes were requisitioned to provide for the removal of the residents of certain unidentified areas.

Official circles in The Hague said the only direct reaction of the offer of mediation Tuesday by Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold so far had come from the Scandinavian sovereigns.

They described the reception by belligerents as cool but said this did not mean they thought the war situation was more unfavorable.

Leader of Bund on Trial in New York

Kuhn Denied Postponement or Change of Venue on Theft Charge

New York—(AP)—Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American Bund, went on trial today charged with the theft of bond funds, after Judge James G. Wallace denied defense motions for postponement and a change of venue.

Kuhn, who maintained he could not get a fair trial in New York, is being tried on 10 counts of a 12-count indictment.

Dressed in a conservative dark suit, the bund leader arrived in the court room accompanied by his lawyers and by Gustav Elmer, general organizer for the bund. Elmer was ordered to leave, since no spectators were to be permitted until a jury was chosen.

Peter L. F. Sabatino, Kuhn's lawyer, obtained an order yesterday requiring Assistant District Attorney Herman J. McCarthy to show cause why a previous motion for postponement, denied by Judge Wallace, should not be re-argued.

The judge summarily denied the new application and ordered the trial to proceed.

8 Persons Killed and 63 Injured in Beer Cellar

Fuehrer Safe in Berlin; Britain and Jews Are Blamed

Berlin—(AP)—Heinrich Himmler, head of all German police forces, tonight offered 500,000 marks ($120,000) in foreign exchange to anyone abroad providing information leading to the arrest of the persons who tried to kill Adolf Hitler in yesterday's Munich beer cellar explosion.

The reward would be paid at any German consulate in the United States, or anywhere else. The reward is in addition to the 600,000 marks ($240,000) already offered for apprehension of the guilty persons inside Germany.

Berlin—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, safe behind the walls of his new chancellery in Berlin, today viewed photographs of the first officially disclosed serious attempt to kill him since he assumed power in 1933.

Meanwhile the reich's tremendous police power combed the nation for perpetrators of last night's explosion in the Munich Burgerbrau cellar which would have buried the fuhrer under nine feet of debris had he not left the "beer hall" putsch anniversary observance earlier than customary.

The blast in the Burgerbrau hall, a shrine of nazidom, came a few minutes after Hitler had left to train for Berlin and killed seven of his veteran followers and wounded 63 other, 29 of them seriously.

The British secret service and Jews were openly charged with an attempt on the fuhrer's life, but officials said so far there was no trace of persons directly responsible for what "must have been a long and carefully planned attempt."

$240,000 Reward
The original reward of 500,000 marks ($240,000) for information leading to seizure of the guilty was increased today to 600,000 marks ($240,000) by an anonymous additional offer of 100,000 marks ($40,000).

None of the high Nazi officials who accompanied Hitler to Munich for the annual celebration were reported among the killed or injured.

A death list announced by the propaganda ministry disclosed that one of the eight dead was a woman. She was believed to be Frau Maria Henle, cashier of the beer cellar, but was not definitely identified.

Others were Franz Lutz, Wilhelm Kaiser, a radio announcer named Weber, Leonhard Reindl, Emil Kasper, Eugen Schacht and one man still unidentified.

The eight dead were said to have been killed instantly.

Leading Nazis Present
With the fuhrer were Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, Deputy Party Leader Rudolf Hess, Labor Leader Robert Ley, Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick, Labor Service Leader Konstantin Kierl, Alfred Rosenberg, head of the Nazi party's foreign political division; Ritter Von Epp, governor of Bavaria; Wilhelm Schaub, Hitler's personal adjutant, and Julius Streicher, governor of Franconia.

Hitler himself was safe aboard a special armored train at the time, heading toward Berlin after an address which was regarded generally as preparation for his people to face a prolonged conflict.

He returned to his Berlin chancellery about 4 a. m. (9 p. m., C. S. T.) Wednesday.

Witnesses of the explosion said it was so violent that a hand grenade or a machine gun bullet could not have caused it.

The beer hall had been one of the most strictly watched spots in Munich for days and no explanation was offered how a fuhrer or conspirator could have entered.

Officials Frightened
Officials charged with the security of the fuhrer's person had the scare of their lives, and the energy with which they plunged into the hunt was shown by the size of the reward offered for information.

SLAIN BY GANG

Maid Tells About Threat to Bomb Slain Man's Home

Telephone Message Adds To Mystery in Chicago Killing

Chicago—(AP)—An anonymous threat to bomb the home of Edward J. O'Hare added a new element of mystery today to the slaying of the nationally known turfman.

The threat to "blow up" the suburban Glenview residence of the wealthy horse and dog track operator was telephoned last night to a Negro maid whom the caller advised to leave immediately.

O'Hare, 45, and president of Sportsman's Park Race track, was slain in gangster fashion late yesterday after a wild automobile chase along Ogden avenue.

The victim raced his expensive automobile northeast toward the loop apparently knowing he was marked for death. His car smashed into a pole when he turned into a side street. The assassins then slowed almost to a stop and fired two shotgun charges.

An unfired .32 caliber pistol lay on the seat of O'Hare's car. A crucifix, a rosary and a religious medalion in a box marked "Happy Birthday" were among the effects found in his pockets.

FBI Is Silent
Investigators reported they also found a memorandum which indicated O'Hare recently had been in touch with the federal bureau of investigation. This led to a theory that the underworld may have suspected him of having given information to the FBI. The FBI refused to comment.

Investigators also considered the possibility the slaying was the culmination of a quarrel arising from horse racing activities. The police said O'Hare had voiced a desire to quit the racing business because of the "heat."

O'Hare was an attorney in St. Louis before turning to racing more than a decade ago. He waxed prosperous in the greyhound racing business in southern Illinois. Later he became manager of the Hawthorne dog track in Chicago, a place in which the Al Capone gang had an interest.

Plan to Transfer Titles of Ships Raises Question Query Is Whether Sinking Of Such Vessels Would Lead to War

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — If the premise be accepted that sinking of a ship owned by American citizens may drag the United States into war, would this also be true of a ship leased to a foreign company?

This is the basic question involved in the complications that have arisen over the plan of American shipowners to transfer to a Panama corporation the title to their ships.

The Gallup poll's survey shows that the American people overwhelmingly believe that sinking of ships—the cause of the last war—should not be considered a reason for entry into the present European war.

Although congress served notice by the passage of the neutrality law last week that it wanted to avoid any issue with Germany over the sinking of American vessels or cargoes, there are some members of congress who feel that citizens of the United States should deny themselves also the opportunity of leasing their vessels for foreign use, which is, in effect, what transfer of "registry" really means.

The trouble, of course, is that emotion about the possibility of a quarrel over sinking American ships even if transferred to foreign corporations, is so intense that the practical side of the matter has been almost entirely ignored. To the shipowners who face losses of routes and losses of income due to the new law, and who in advance do not ask for the protection of the American government at all and wish to sail the seas at their own risk, the question is one of acute importance. As for the seamen who cannot be employed in European trade anyway, because it is a violation of law to man American ships for contact with the belligerent countries, the new statute throws them out of employment. Few new routes are available for the American ships.

Competitive Business
The theory that all the vessels plying to Europe could engage in the South American traffic is excellent on paper, but there are already in operation shipping lines in a sharply competitive business. Other neutral vessels and British and French merchant ships as well as Italian liners are not going to avoid South America just to please American shipping lines which have been virtually driven off the North Atlantic by war hysteria.

Nobody here is advocating the granting of subsidies or wages to the seamen who have lost their jobs, or will lose them when American ships are tied up. As long as the cry was "keep us out of war" and the argument was accepted as valid that to trade with European countries meant war, no thought was given to the economic effects of the change. The people who cried for absolute embargo on shipping with Europe did not lose anything themselves on the transaction, but the investors in the regular shipping companies will lose unless congress reimburses them, or accepts without objection next January the plans for transferring registry to foreign countries.

The contention is being made that to transfer to a foreign flag is a subterfuge. Certainly it is a subterfuge, but it is no different than the provision in the law which requires payment in cash for arms and airplanes that are exported to Europe and doesn't require cash or transfer of title for cargoes shipped across the Canadian boundary or to ports in the South Atlantic.

Flat Declaration
There will come a time when the present neutrality law will be condemned as a hodge-podge drawn up in panic to meet a war hysteria that could have as readily been satisfied by a flat declaration in advance that all ships and citizens travel at their own risk and that the government of the United States will not use its diplomatic or military powers in behalf of such ships, cargoes or citizens. The law as it stands today contains a major sub-

Pegler Throws Scallions to Los Angeles 'Senior Citizens'

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
Los Angeles—This community lives under ether and utters weird cries in its waking dreams. The dominant thoughts of the majority can be expressed only in double-talk and the bankrupt swindler is respected as living proof that the American way is wrong, while responsible men are reviled as saboteurs against the beautiful ideal of failure. Old men are incited to hate the young and fit and able in Los Angeles and these younger people are moved to anger at the old or to lean upon them for support.

In Los Angeles, and elsewhere in southern California, Americans who profess democracy have invoked the democratic process of the referendum to vote on a loathsome substitute resembling Hitler's national socialism. It is not strange that people who rush like mythological beasts under a spell to worship gods conjured by billboard fakery, should follow political frauds with police records known to all. Nothing is strange in southern California, except sanity, honesty and the acceptance of moral and civic obligations which are standard in communities not yet bereft of the will to try.

Pegler

It was here that old Doc Townsend, while shaving his waxen face one morning, saw an old woman picking garbage in an alley and, in that instant, conceived a plan which, contrary to his own benign intention, has now created mass suspicion and hatred as between the aged and the active generation. Townsend's scheme has been stolen, distorted and souped up by younger men, including one convicted of preying on gray hairs with a fake restorer, and a proposal to pension the senior citizens with counterfeit money has aroused in thousands of Americans a determination to shirk off their parents and be done with an obligation that is respected even in savages.

It is not simply that the young are tempted to avoid their duty. Many of course voted for ham 'n eggs for that reason, but others were further enticed by the thought that a father and mother drawing $80 a week between them, or two fathers and two mothers drawing $120 a week could spare enough to permit a younger married couple to live in idleness. Ham 'n eggs does not stimulate filial decency.

Elders Get Suspicious Of Younger Opponents
On the other hand, the elders voted for ham 'n eggs, hoping that the counterfeit would buy something. At their age the sacrifice of their own liberties would mean little and the freedom of their sons and daughters is equally unimportant. When responsibility goes, dignity goes and liberties are cheap.

The elders, puffed up by the sales term "senior citizens," as a group are suspicious of the younger people because the greatest opposition comes from those below 50.

To an old man or woman who believes in the counterfeit any younger person opposed to the plan is a personal enemy. Jealous, selfish and determined to drive the old to

County Pensions Amount to $27,960

Expenditure in October Is Increase of $212 Over September

Outagamie county pension costs in October amounted to $27,960.07, an increase of $212.11 over September, according to a report of Taber S. Davis, pension director. Increases were shown in the old age and blind accounts, while aid to dependent children showed a drop.

Old age payments amounted to $18,814.65, an increase of $362.72. A total of 843 cases were listed on Nov. 1, there being 19 cases added and 12 dropped during October.

Blind pension payments totaled $1,175.50, an increase of $31.85. There were 52 cases given aid during the month.

Aid to dependent children amounted to $9,969.92, a decrease of $182.49 from the preceding month. With 321 cases at the beginning of October, 3 new ones were reported and 7 dropped, leaving a total of 317 on Nov. 1.

The park benches until at last they die.

Finally, there is another group composed of younger ineligibles employed at small wages who resent being asked to work hard for less money than older people, including many who are by no means decrepit would receive for loafing to the end of their days. The necessities of the aged poor, the greed of many old people who are not in want, and the laziness and unwillingness of many younger ones to make sacrifices for their parents, are being exploited to create a great political turmoil all over California.

Lots Of The Citizens In Class By Themselves

Los Angeles is a city whose people, in the main, are citizens on the town, not of it, drifters from everywhere and campers, not settlers. There is no other region in the country, perhaps no other on this earth, with a like proportion of old people, not all of them sick, inform or poor, without homes in any real sense of the word and with no interest in the community or anything that may happen to it as long as they are paid, fed, housed and bled with the rapid frillery of the term "senior citizens."

Most of them never contributed anything to the building of the region but came late in life to loaf in the sun while men and women of stronger character, greater stability and better report back home remained where they were. It is indelicate but true to say that southern California "senior citizens," as a class, as of even date, represent no spiritual, intellectual, political or economic gain, but a net loss in all departments.

Despite Higher Rate, Dividend Tax Yield Slumps

Heil Advisers Find Little Solace in Study of Figures

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Executive office financial advisers who have been hopefully studying tax statistics concluded today that they can find little solace in the returns from the privilege dividend tax, despite the fact that the Heil administration recently increased the rate of that levy.

During the 9-months period from January to Oct. 1 of this year, the state tax commission disclosed today, the dividend tax brought in only $891,736 to the state treasury, while during the same period last year the tax produced $1,148,147.

Although state tax experts pointed out that the 1938 yield was in large part due to the fact that it was a tax paid on exceptionally good corporate incomes in 1937, they also pointed out that the 1939 yield represents in part at least the receipts from a 3 per cent tax which became effective July 1, while last year the tax was only 2 1/2 per cent.

Studies Figures
Charles McKeown, Governor Heil's financial assistant, has been studying dividend tax figures carefully in the belief that they might enable the administration to revise upward its forecasts on treasury receipts from the normal income taxes during the ensuing year.

While current receipts do not lend encouragement to such hopes, state officials point out that business forecasts are uniformly for good business conditions for the remainder of this year and the early part of next year, which if fulfilled, may change the state's financial outlook considerably.

Yet the tax division is now reporting to the executive office that normal income tax receipts thus far this year are about 26 per cent behind last year, and that the difference in total yield between 1939 and 1938 will be about $3,000,000. Last year the normal income tax on persons and corporations, exclusive of surtaxes and dividend taxes, brought in $12,000,000.

Black Creek Legion Completes Plans for Armistice Day Dance

Black Creek—Twenty-two members of the American Legion attended the meeting at their club rooms Monday evening. Final plans were made for an Armistice dance and old time party for the legion and auxiliary members at the club rooms Saturday evening. After this business meeting cards were played and refreshments served.

The Black Creek Rural Fire Department met in the village hall Friday evening. About thirty members attended the meeting. Badges for the department were distributed to the members.

The Neighborhood Five Hundred club was entertained last week by Mrs. Herman Schmeling at her home. Prizes were taken by Mrs. E. S. Maas, Mrs. N. A. Schaeger and Mrs. Oscar Bartel.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. W. Grunwaldt returned home Monday from a four days visit with relatives at Abrams and Marinette.

Mrs. Mary Magaurn, Green Bay, is visiting friends here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Riehl have moved to Freedom where Mrs. Riehl has opened a beauty parlor.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Brugger have moved into the rooms above the Consumers store recently vacated by Mrs. John Elchoff.

Miss Grace Vogel, Appleton, spent the weekend at the Edward Shaw home.

Mrs. William Eberhard is ill at her home.

OPENING SATURDAY FOR 4 DAYS
Jascha Heifetz, Paul Harvey and Gene Reynolds discuss fine music in an exciting scene from "THEY SHALL HAVE MUSIC," a thrilling new production, which features the California Junior Symphony Orchestra and begins a 4-day run at the Appleton Theatre on Saturday, Nov. 11. Shortages Created During World War Cannot Happen Again, Scientists Assert

(This is the first of two articles comparing the world's dependence on Germany for many scientific discoveries before the World war with the situation today.)

BY ALBERT W. WILSON
New York—(AP)—Remember when hospitals and doctors suddenly found they couldn't buy certain sorely-needed drugs and medicines at any price?

When your colored shirts and dresses came back from the laundry faded white? And textile mills were frantic for dyes?

When tulip oil, carbolic acid, needed for explosives in industry as well as war, reached fantastic prices and special glass products for household and scientific use disappeared from the markets?

The whole world was dependent on Germany 25 years ago for many such commodities, including near essentials of daily human life. Then a war blockade cut off the source of supplies. Worse still, the rest of the world didn't know how to duplicate these products.

Can't Happen Again
Today the scientists of America and other countries have guaranteed that a similar crisis can never come again. American authorities declare that Germany hasn't a single important chemical invention which this country doesn't have.

In the last war, necessity was truly the mother of invention in many fields of activity in this country.

Americans and the rest of the world had to go to the famous Zeiss works in Jena, Germany, scene of Napoleon's great triumph over the Prussians, for high-grade lenses and glassware.

But spurred on to inventive efforts by the American Bureau of Standards, an American glass industry at Corning, N. Y., and a photographic industry at Rochester, N. Y., eventually outshone even the Jena experts with new discoveries.

A special glass for baking dishes and other heat-resistant purposes and mirrors for giant telescopes, better than any Germany had produced, were created in America. These inventions literally opened new worlds to astronomers as well as housewives.

Beat German Monopoly
This country's printing industry depended on Germany for special inks. But in a newspaper plant in New York, a new and even better rotogravure process than had been known up to that time was developed.

Before the World war, the United States imported all its potassium from Germany. The bureau of mines got busy and found potash deposits in New Mexico and California, hardly enough to fill all domestic needs, but enough to free the nation from the exactions of the German monopoly.

Before the war there was no synthetic nitrogen of any kind produced in the United States. Millions of dollars worth of tar, gas and ammonia were being wasted in the old-fashioned "beehive" coke ovens of Pittsburgh and other steel centers.

We followed the lead Germany and other European countries had taken many years before by making use of those wasted materials.

Seized Patents
But necessity was the mother of more than invention—it caused the United States government to simply confiscate about 5,000 German patents and turn them over to American industries. This action was possible only after America entered the war and the patents became enemy property subject to seizure.

In this way we learned to make dyes and certain medicines. And we discovered new ways of making nitrogen products, besides using waste materials at steel centers, for Germany had discovered how to extract nitrogen from the air. About 250 of the seized patents dealt with the Fritz Haber processes and the government used these at Muscle Shoals and in Ohio plants where it made ammonia, nitric acid and cyanamides.

So Now Hoover and Simpson See Football Games Together

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
Washington—In New York over the weekend the sports pages picked up a good political tip, involving a bit of that personal drama which makes American politics good, if not always important, entertainment.

Football reporters mentioned that Herbert Hoover and the New York Republican national committeeman, Kenneth F. Simpson, attended the Army-Notre dame game together. In the Yankee stadium crowd they were just a couple of guys named Joe. But the last time they were seen together in public they were not speaking. The former president, who expects to have almost decisive influence in the coming Republican nomination, and the outspoken progressive boss of the largest state group of Republican presidential delegates were glaring it out in a sulphuric feud.

Young Kenneth Simpson, in his vigorous 40s, is a most unusual kind of political boss. He goes to symphony concerts, is a friend of Gertrude Stein and Kerensky, and collects art. He is sometimes caught reading a book. As county boss in New York he has elected Republicans by dealing with the American Labor party and splitting the proceeds. He told the Republicans they must accept in principle many of the social reforms of the Roosevelt administration. For that he received no thanks from old-fashioned Republicans who still expected to win elections on the McKinley platform.

Among those who looked askance at Mr. Simpson's practical but unorthodox methods was Herbert Hoover. At least Mr. Simpson thought so and felt that the former president tried to shut him out from becoming Republican national committeeman, even after Mr. Hoover denied any such hostile purpose.

Mr. Simpson, angered by his suspicions of Mr. Hoover, flew to Washington for the Republican national committee meeting last winter and let go a few distasteful denunciations of the former president, saying: "The people will turn to the Republican party only if they are sure that it is not under the domination of Mr. Hoover, the Liberty League, and some of the reactionary influences of the past. If we turn that way, we might as well fold up."

Hamilton Stepped In To Help Heal the Rift
Friends of Mr. Hoover were horrified and he was deeply hurt so much so that a few days later he would have nothing to do with Mr. Simpson when they met socially. Mr. Simpson sought to keep the details of that anecdote out of a recent issue of the New Yorker, as by that time there had been a change for the better in his relations with Mr. Hoover.

Many Republican leaders felt the feud between Mr. Hoover and Mr. Simpson was most deplorable and dangerous for the party. John Hamilton, Republican national chairman, determined to heal the break. He worked on both parties. Finally, on Sept. 21, the day after Mr. Simpson won overwhelming reelection as New York county chairman, Mr. Hamilton again appealed to him to be magnanimous in his victory and to check in with Mr. Hoover. So Mr. Simpson telephoned the Hoover apartment at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York for an appointment and asked if he could call to pay his respects. He was received at once, cordially, and was congratulated. After a few minutes of pleasant conversation, the two parted pleasantly. Then a mutual friend entertained both families at luncheon last Saturday and took them to the football game together.

Information from Republicans in various parts of the country indicates that Mr. Hoover will have great influence in his party's next national convention. Any alliance between him and the Simpson forces would be a powerful one. But such an alliance cannot be read into the reconciliation, which this far is limited to a resumption of diplomatic relations. Neither has changed his position with regard to party policies. Nor is it safe to conclude that Thomas E. Dewey is to

Garage Being Built In Harrison Town To House Equipment

Sherwood — The town of Harrison is erecting a county garage about a quarter of a mile south of Sherwood, to be used by the town and the village of Stockbridge for the purpose of storing equipment. A snow plow will be kept there during the winter months. The rest of the acre of land purchased will be used for a road side park.

Many Sherwood residents attended the chicken dinner which was served Sunday in the basement of St. John Lutheran church at Dundas. More than 900 dinners were served.

At 8 o'clock Saturday morning a high mass will be said at Sacred Heart church for peace. The mass was requested by the Knights of Columbus Council of Kaukauna. Masses also will be said at 9 o'clock that day.

Council Approves Refinancing Plan At Clintonville

Sets Nov. 21 as Date for Referendum on $80,- 000 Bond Issue

Clintonville—A resolution providing for an $80,000 bond issue was adopted by the council at its regular November meeting Tuesday evening, Nov. 21 was the date set for the special referendum on the question of accepting or rejecting the issue. This amount will be used to refinance the city's indebtedness on recent civic improvements, and will be paid over a 10-year period. The polls will be located at the usual places, the Odd Fellow hall for voters of the First ward; the Christianson tailor shop for the Second and Third wards; and the city hall for the Fourth and Fifth wards. The polls will be open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5:30 in the afternoon.

Mayor A. Washburn appointed a committee of seven representative taxpayers to study the city's financial condition and make recommendations as to its findings. The committee includes: Dr. W. H. Finney, Walter A. Olen, Max Stieg, William T. Luedke, Reuben Lendved, Arthur Peotter and Russell Weller.

The mayor and city clerk were authorized to borrow up to $10,000 as needed for city expenses. The tax rate will be set following the referendum vote on the bond issue.

The matter of starting a wood-cutting project was discussed and was left in the hands of the poor committee. For the last several years, the city has purchased a woodlot in order to supply work and fuel for families on relief.

E. J. Perkins of this city, a member of the county board, asked the city to give four cords of wood per month during the winter toward the heating of the county surplus commodity warehouse at Waupun. The board voted to comply with this request and the wood will be sent over by truck on its return trips after bringing surplus commodities to this city.

Fund for Decorations

Representing the association of commerce, Max Stieg asked the council for an appropriation to be used for decorating the city streets during the approaching holiday season. The sum of $150 was allowed for this purpose.

Woodrow Williams, recreational director for this city, asked for the use of the large room in the city hall, formerly the firehouse, for indoor games during the winter months. The matter was referred to the public property committee.

A bid of $31.20 was accepted for paint and supplies for the floor, walls and ceiling of the new firehouse adjoining the city hall. The firemen have offered to furnish the necessary labor.

Tavern operators' licenses were granted to Emmanuel Thies and Emma Lange. The remainder of the meeting was devoted to allowing the monthly accumulation of bills, and hearing the reports of the city treasurer, street commissioner and milk inspector.

The Lions canceled their weekly dinner and meeting at the clubhouse Tuesday evening because of the baseball banquet, which they helped sponsor on Monday evenings at the Marion hotel.

Rebekahs from Shawano and Manawa were guests of the Clintonville lodge Tuesday evening when the state president, Mrs. Margaret Brown of Hartland, made her official visit here. A school of instruction of ritualistic work was conducted by Mrs. Brown. The evening closed with the serving of refreshments.

Henry Zoch of this city left Wednesday for the Veterans' hospital at Milwaukee where he will receive medical treatment.

COSMETOLOGY CLASS ENDING

The final meeting of the Appleton Vocational school class in cosmetology will be held Monday evening, it was announced today. After completion of the class, Miss Josephine Cheriot, circuit instructor, will transfer the course to Neenah-Menasha.

A city-owned property that is always thought of as a site for a municipal project is the Atlantic-Packard street ravine and this series is no exception for the property has been suggested as a site for a municipal swimming pool.

The land, owned by the city, lies between Atlantic and Packard streets to the north and south and State and N. Division streets to the west and east. It is cut up considerably by privately owned land but there are two sections that might be used for a swimming pool.

The first would be adjacent to Packard street where an area approximately 225 feet wide and 330 feet long would be large enough for a pool. The other lies nearer Atlantic street and is about 380 by 280 feet in a diagonal line from the street. Both areas are about 20 feet below the levels of surrounding streets.

The property is in the center of a residential district with houses abutting the area on the north, east and west. The south portion, abutting Packard street is open. It is about 2,500 feet from the center of the city the Conway hotel, as the crow flies and is about 4,000 feet from the Fox river, which would involve an added expense if a pool built on the site used river water.

A 42-inch sewer runs under the ravine, about eight feet below the surface so that getting rid of water from the pool would not be a problem. Parking, however, for swimmers would be a problem for the only space available would be on surrounding streets.

The picture accompanying this article was taken from the north to the south and shows the area which now is used as a playground in summer and an ice rink in winter.

Why Former Users of "Expensive" Brands Have Switched To Old Quaker—They're Still Buying a Fine Whiskey, Yet Saving Money Doing It!

● To save money on fine whiskey is not easy. But it can be done. Thousands of men who used expensive brands for years are saving 79c, $1.32, all the way up to $1.48 a quart by switching to rich Old Quaker.

How Do We Know?

We knew men were switching. But we wanted to know why so many had switched from brands costing in some cases twice as much. So 1,156 men were questioned. And what they said is news.

Read This Typical Statement:

"I used to drink a much more expensive whiskey than Old Quaker," says K. R. Anderson of Chicago, "but it's better than my former brand. I save over $1.25 a quart." If your taste agrees with what these men say, Old Quaker can save you money too. Try a bottle today.

WISCONSIN CHEESE: AN OPPORTUNITY

The cheese industry of Wisconsin, one of those in which the people of the state have such a heavy economic stake that it becomes the interest of every citizen to cherish it, during the last year or two has made a discovery which may lead to far-reaching consequences. It has learned—certainly the progressive leaders of the industry have begun to recognize—that it can ill afford to stand still while the rest of the world dashes by.

For a century Wisconsin has boasted the greatness of its cheese industry. Since the first factory was built in Fond du Lac county in a near-wilderness, it has been the backbone of a dairying enterprise which to a larger measure has shaped the economic, and yes, the cultural character of a great state. But for the last decade of that century some of us have worried seriously about its future while we gloried in its past. Prices spiraled downward. Great dairy manufacturers introduced processed cheese, a synthetic product which they made with a natural cheese base bought from depression-ridden Wisconsin cheesemakers at low prices. Meanwhile the natural product lagged. To the state generally that lag had a profound meaning, for when cheese is selling at 12 cents or less, it means that a large share of the people of Wisconsin are not prosperous.

Then about a year ago a few cheesemakers who examined their situation intelligently and realistically decided to strike out in a new method of merchandising. They got the support and the encouragement of the state department of agriculture. They set out to popularize small packages of natural cheese, a radical departure from the huge chunks of that excellent food which have been found in the markets and grocery stores of the state since grandmother's day and earlier. During a single Christmas season they sold 500,000 pounds, half a million pounds of cheese, and they could readily have sold more.

This year the idea has found wider support. This year without any connection with the state a group of cheese makers in northeastern Wisconsin established a warehouse in Green Bay from which they expect to send 400,000 pounds of Yule gift cheese in small packages, and we have the testimony of state agricultural authorities and the cheesemakers themselves that they could sell more if they had it. At the same time Director Ammon of the state department of agriculture asserts that if the cheese makers of Wisconsin were ready to fill the orders, his dairy promotion department could go out next week and sell several million pounds more of natural cheese from Wisconsin factories.

Thus there is the apparently paradoxical situation of an industry which has during recent years uniformly regarded its problems in terms of over-production facing a situation in which it cannot fill orders which are available to it.

To those of us on the outside who wish them well, it appears obvious that cheesemakers owe it to themselves and the several hundred thousand farmers of the state who depend on the sale of milk to the factory to recognize the opportunities in the modernization of the distribution and merchandising system. The men who supply two-thirds of the cheese for the American table have here a pathway of progress which they cannot afford to ignore. We live in a rapidly changing era. While our mothers bought coffee underground and in the bulk, we now find it on the grocer's shelf in neat packages ready for the percolator. Bacon, which generations of American pioneers bought in the slab, is now delivered in half-pound packages. Eggs come in cartons; butter is now divided down to quarter pound packages. The food industry has been revolutionized. And more than ever before, competition is keen and perpetual.

The cheese industry—in which we repeat all of us have a stake large enough to warrant a keen concern for its best interests—must be ready to adopt new methods, must be prepared to compare the salability of the traditional long-horns, daisies, wheels and blocks, with the handy, neatly wrapped one and two pound packages which a two year experiment has proven people all over the country will buy with alacrity.

It is a challenge, and an opportunity.

WISE OR OTHERWISE?

Switzerland is a high class democracy. It has no outlet to the sea but it has a contented people who live in good circumstances.

Practically the same thing can be said about Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland, and only the Kaiser's determination to streamroller Belgium, with the tremendous cost of war thus saddled on the Belgians, keeps that country from the same classification.

There are occasionally groups in all these sound European democracies that favor their country's participation in power politics but the great majority are too well educated, familiar with the past, and not easily duped by promises, even those involving a division of the swag, a string of decorations upon the breast or a page of bloody glory.

Had America steady-headed government when World War No. 1 was on it would not have been so willing to believe the stories poured into its ear for the express purpose of arousing its rage and obtaining its participation.

And that is the very question which should bother America most today—the steadiness of its government. Are we in the hands of impetuous people, more short-sighted than the rulers of Switzerland and Scandinavia? Is our course to be shaped or altered or in any manner affected by the self-same desire for publicity or greatness that appears to motivate Hitler, even though our leaders wear a different coat?

These are critical questions. The course of our ship is much too important for party politics or partisanship.

But sharpened by our former sad experience every sense should be alert to every act of congress or the executive in the only aim America should have—to stay aloof from the futile, fruitless battle fields of Europe upon which these same struggles will probably be occurring a century hence and ten more after that.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Distance no longer is a time waster. Sitting in New York, I can write of Miami, and truly, for though I be here today, I was in Miami yesterday—perspiring in Miami, splashing off Miami Beach in water which at 85 was two degrees warmer than the air itself, motoring leisurely down palm avenues, chatting for hours with Miami men and women—yet today I am in New York, calmly at my desk as though I had never left it.

Nor is it entirely the wonder of Wings. True, I flew down, but it was the train that carried me back. I saw not only Florida under warm skies, and pastel shaded Atlantic sunrises, but saw Georgia, the Carolinas, Virginia, Washington, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey—saw more in a brief weekend than many people see in a life time. It was done swiftly, of course, but with no sensation of swiftness. Actually it was all quite leisurely.

These marvels of covering 3,000 miles on a weekend are really not involved. Instead of going home to sleep on a Friday night, one merely goes to an airport instead. Instead of awakening in a New York apartment to the whistle of a radiator, one steps from a plane door into Miami's moist morning, and it is still night, for the flying carpet sets down well before sun-up. Saturday dawn, and the day is yours, 1500 miles from where you went to sleep.

It is much too hot to dare the beach under the morning sun when one has but a few hours earlier shivered in a topcoat. Automobiles that have stood in the sun are ovens until a short drive has made a breeze to drive out the hot air. The stores are comfortably air conditioned, but the doors are open, letting welcome blasts of cold air roll out across the sidewalk.

If one wishes to drink as deeply as possible of this weekend in Florida he may have all of Saturday and Sunday, and be home early Monday morning for the chores of life. I elected rather to return more leisurely, for America from a train window is a never-tiring adventure to me. That meant leaving Miami Saturday night at 10 o'clock, with 17 hours of Miami under my belt.

When I crawled from my berth, it was Jacksonville outside the car window. Noon saw me past Savannah, Ga., and rolling across verdant land, flat as a carpet and heavily grown with trees. From the branches of many hung the gray moss, like tresses. Rivers wide and rivers small swam calmly under us toward the sea. Patches of brilliant yellow daisies waved us bon voyage from the right of ways. As we moved further north there were patches of deep red in the leaves where frost had printed its cold kiss upon them. Occasionally where a dirt road paralleled the track, we saw men and women, boys and girls, white and colored, trekking obediently to worship. Cows in godly numbers grazed in unfenced lands, even in boggy woods. One wondered how their owners ever got around to finding them.

And the living places; one speculated absent mindedly on how many hundred thousand gallons of paint were needed to dress them up—houses that seemed to serve as home to large families yet never had known the feel of paint brushes.

Cornstalks, khaki-colored in the sun, stood like a regiment of men who had suddenly been frozen dead; with here and there stalks bent at the middle—dead men with broken backs.

The train shot across a Carolina lane and gave a fleeting glimpse of three barefoot boys. One swished the bushes with a stick. Another whistled industriously, and the third scuffed the dust and kept his head down, not bothering even to look up at the train.

Warehouse platforms were filled with baled cotton. A large warehouse flashed by with just enough time to read the lettering on its side: "Imperial Tobacco Co., Ltd., of Great Britain and Ireland." One was a little surprised. Still, the English and the Irish smoke, too.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Steve Early, former ace state department correspondent and now secretary of President Roosevelt, has suddenly appeared, like a magic oasis in the desert, as the most productive fountain of foreign news in Washington.

He occupies a ground floor office on the opposite side of the executive wing from that of the president.

But in recent weeks he has come closer to being an official Roosevelt spokesman than any of the several members of the Brain club who in the early days of the New Deal spoke, or presumed to speak, the White House mind.

At times he has left the state department puffing in the rear as a purveyor of government information on foreign affairs. Early's direct and sometimes sarcastic press conference statements come in sharp contrast to the meatless replies of Secretary of State Hull, who for more than a year has operated on the side of caution. Of late, however, since the blossoming of Early, even Secretary Hull's conferences have become more decisive.

Early's conferences with White House correspondents are not new. He has had them almost every morning for years as a means of posting the reporters regularly assigned to the president. Six to ten reporters was the usual attendance. Recently as many as two score have crowded into his office, for it has fallen to him to deliver big news breaks, along with steaming comment.

Replies to Molotov

Early made the first reply to Premier Molotov of Russia who had ribbed President Roosevelt about being "unneutral" for speaking out for Finland in its dealings with the Soviet.

Early implied that Premier Molotov had timed his comment on American neutrality and the disclosure of the demands upon Finland so they would have most effect upon the consideration by the House of arms embargo repeal.

"It would seem to me," said Early, "that he had the embargo in mind when he criticized the president, probably more because of the neutrality issue than of the moral support which he said the president was lending to Finland."

Such words, implying double-bladed dealing by the Russians, are scarcely diplomatic. Doubtless the many cautious minds in the state department, which Early used to cover as an Associated Press reporter, writhed in diplomatic anguish at such goings on.

But the repeated occasions on which Early has spoken out have convinced observers here that President Roosevelt has found a new way of expressing some of his own views—edged up a bit by the adept Early—without the formality of making the statements himself.

Early is in constant touch with the president. He has come fresh from a regular morning conference with the president each time he has cut loose with some special bit of news of foreign importance. On one or two occasions he has taken pains to suggest that he was speaking for the president. But knowing White House correspondents have been referring to him as a "White House" spokesman, which traditionally has been virtually a synonym for the president.

"Perfectly Legal"

On one or two occasions his remarks have struck sparks in some unexpected directions. Nevertheless he has not been silenced by the president in two months of open-handed speaking, topped off by his impressive challenge to the purposes of Premier Molotov.

When the Athenia was sunk without warning within a few hours of the outbreak of war, Early commented that there could be no doubt that the ship was not armed. It was not what all people would call a strictly impartial comment. He shared with the president the excitement of announcing the various appearances of submarines near the American coast. On the occasion of the capture of the City of Flint he stated that the ship was on a "perfectly legal" voyage.

Equally important, he has spoken liberally "off-the-record" to give reporters the bases upon which to rest quotable news developments.

All in all he has become not only a spokesman of White House policy but more emphatically a reflection of presidential feelings and emotions.

WHAT IS SELF-DEFENSE?

An expression that falls easily from the lips these days is, "I'll fight only in the defense of my country." The meaning is that a man is obligated to and justified in going to war only when an enemy has invaded our land or threatens at its border.

This is an earnest and worthy sentiment, but unfortunately it is based upon a conception of self-defense which now seems outmoded. What are the requirements of self-defense these days? When and where does self-defense begin?

Czecho-Slovakia was conquered without an invasion. When the enemy troops arrived self-defense was futile. It was too late to fight then. Now Czecho-Slovakia is no more, its people are the slaves of a cruel master.

Poland was virtually conquered before the Germans moved in. All that remained then was some mopping up. The Poles had a chance to fight but the chance came too late.

No one recommends that American soldiers ever be sent abroad again. Neither, however, should it be recommended that we sit back and do nothing until the enemy stands at our borders.

The last few months have shown that a nation can be conquered by enemies other than troops. Two of the most deadly of these are propaganda and unpreparedness. Propaganda bores from within. It eats away unseen until too late, like termites. It saps a nation's lifeblood until that nation is not able to fight when it finally sees that the hour for "self-defense" has come. Unpreparedness, the other insidious foe and one of the effects of propaganda, is scarcely less dangerous.

Enough evidence has already been made public to leave no doubt that propagandists of all sorts are at work in America. The Communists and the Nazi bunds are boring from within, hoping to weaken this nation's unity of strength. The time for self-defense is here, now.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO
Thursday, Nov. 12, 1914

Personnel of the Elks bowling league had been completed with six teams entered. The teams and their captains were Tylers, Phil Gearson; Antlers, Joseph Plank; Eleven Hous, Joseph Rossmel; Inner Guards, A. A. Meyer; Outer Guards, F. V. Heinemann; Exalted Rulers, J. R. Scott.

Councilmen John Goodland and Henry Tuttrup and City Engineer A. C. Remley and possibly Mayor August Kruppel were to leave for St. Paul that night to inspect a new sewer tunnel put in there. It was to be the first step toward a $160,000 sewer project in Appleton, the plan being to run a trunk sewer along Atlantic street that would drain the northern section of the city and prevent the flooding of basements in that area.

The allies were holding Ypres in desperate fighting. Russians were retreating to the second line of defense in the Caucasuses. They suffered heavy losses. Servians annihilated six Austrian battalions which crossed the Danube near Szeged. They took about 2,600 prisoners.

Thursday, Nov. 7, 1929

Breaking sharply to new low ground in what appeared to be further distress selling at the opening that day, stock prices thereupon rallied in spectacular fashion, wiping out most of the declines of $5 to nearly $32 a share in the leading issues and converting many of them into gains ranging from $1 to $18 a share. It was one of the most impressive recoveries since the "bear" market started with the disastrous break of Oct. 24.

The state department had been instructed by President Hoover to invite all foreign governments to participate in the World's fair to be held in Chicago in 1933.

Plans for the Christmas bazaar were made by members of the Social Union of Methodist church at a meeting Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. S. C. Rosebush, assisted by Mrs. Frank Wright, was to have charge of the kitchen, and Mrs. W. F. McGowan, assisted by Mrs. John Engel, Jr., was to have charge of the dining room. Mrs. A. B. Fisher was ticket chairman and Mrs. O. H. Fisher, booth chairman.

Failure of the telephone service at the Koffelont Mine near Johannesburg, South Africa, led to the discovery of a crow's nest, constructed entirely of lengths of old wire, which had short circuited the telephone lines. The nest was 20 inches across, eight inches deep and weighed eight pounds. The wires were so closely woven that the weight of the entire nest could be borne by any protruding end. The habitable part of the nest was lined with twigs and pieces of cloth.

The sunshine glorifies my room
And puts unhappy thoughts to flight.
You are my sunlight, and a dream
Of you can steal into my brain,
Banishing sorrow with its beam,
And pointing me to joy again.

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WINGAARD

Madison—This reporter recently dropped in at a meeting of the new state board of personnel, and concluded that Roy E. Reed, Heil appointed chairman of that body, has caught the spirit of what is supposed to be an economy administration if anybody in the capitol has.

In quick succession came five separate requests from state departments for the creation of new job classifications, nearly every one of them accompanied by a recommendation by the department head for filling the job when created.

Every one was turned down, because, as Reed explained, there are already too many fancy titles in the state service, and besides, there is no money to pay more state help.

A HAT IS THROWN

When a politician starts writing letters to his friends inquiring about the strength of another politician, it's a sign of something. So we may consider that Henry Gunderson of Portage, former Progressive lieutenant governor and critic of LaFollette leadership, has his hat in the ring for the governorship.

Mr. Gunderson recently wrote a friend:

"Confidentially, they are going to run Herman Ekern for governor. Will you kindly give me your candid opinion as to his strength in the primary? Every one I have talked with says he cannot win in the general election."

BEAUTY QUEEN

Incidents continue to crop up in the governor's office to show that the trials of a public man are many and varied.

There was the lass, for instance, who wrote the governor this week that she is, to her best knowledge, and complete satisfaction, the most beautiful girl in Wisconsin, and therefore, can she have an interview with his excellency immediately? Why that interview was so important was not made clear, but it could not be arranged during the governor's office hours because of her personal schedule. She listed her open dates in the evenings, and finished: "Answer this note immediately."

GARNER CAMPAIGN

Let there be no doubt about the Garner campaign among the Wisconsin Democrats. While the campaign started several months ago, his headquarters is still sending reams of literature into Wisconsin.

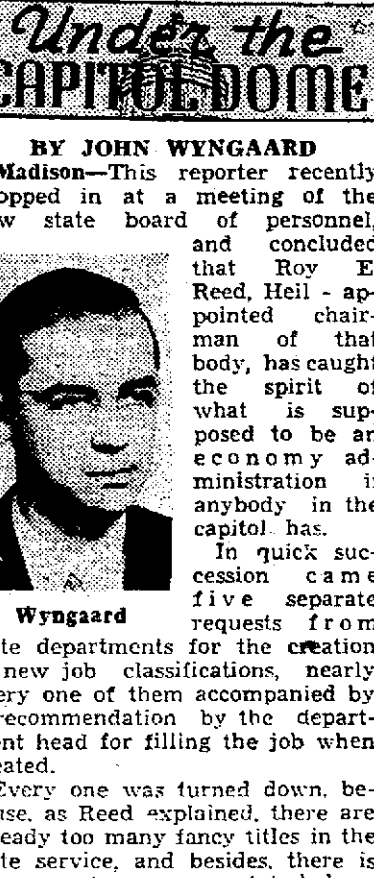

Since the first revelation of plans several months ago, there has been no word of the scheduled appearance of the vice president here this fall under the auspices of conservative state Democratic leadership.

THE COLONELS

A high military officer stopped at a capital barber shop for a shave the other day, and the barber to begin the conversation questioned him about the winter guard encampment just begun. He wondered about "Governor's Day," and asked whether Heil's colonels would attend the ceremonies.

"No," replied the officer with a twinkle.

"We haven't enough barracks," he explained. Heil's colonels have been the best publicity getters for the governor of his administration. The 80 or so of his honorary commissions have been featured in the newspapers all over the country, and particularly in Washington, New York, and other eastern metropolitan centers. Returning trav-

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

FOCAL INFECTION

It is not a theory nor a fad, but a well established principle of practice that certain systemic ailments, such as arthritis, neuritis, valvular heart disease, perhaps some cases of peptic ulcer, are caused by focal infection. That is to say the joint, nerve, heart valve or lining of stomach or duodenum or of living of stomach or duodenum become inflamed from lodgment therein of germs carried thru the blood stream from a nidus or focus elsewhere in the body, in the tonsils, about the teeth or gums, in root canal, where the germs have gained a foothold and multiplied for weeks, months or years before the more or less accidental embolism or traveling of a colony or clump of the germs thru the bloodstream to the place of lodgement occurs. Strains of the notorious Streptococcus are most frequently concerned in focal infection, especially Streptococcus hemolyticus (blood destroying) and Streptococcus viridans (green colonies).

Indiscriminate application of the focal infection principle in practice has brought it into low repute. Certainly many sound teeth have been needlessly sacrificed in a blind hope of "getting rid of the poison." On the other hand, "re-grets over the late discovery of a septic focus heretofore overlooked or ignored" are even greater in some instances than those over the unavailing sacrifice of useful teeth.

It is a matter of the best judgment of doctor and dentist, after consultation in the individual case, whether to attempt to eradicate a presumptive focus when this means removal of a useful tooth. Further than to say that it is always a question of opinion whether an infected tooth is actually the focus, I leave the problem there.

The test of the principle, the only test, is the result of the removal of the focus. Not the immediate result merely; in some cases the immediate reaction is apparently aggravation of the joint trouble or whatever the condition may be; but the ultimate result of such treatment becomes manifest generally several weeks, perhaps two or three months after the extraction or other operation.

In case several teeth are infected, and doctor and dentist agree upon the advisability of removing them, it is usually wise in the presence of systemic trouble of any considerable severity, to carry out the extractions in several sittings at intervals of several weeks, and not to remove more than two teeth at any one time. In this way the patient suffers no overwhelming septic food, but rather gets the benefit of a moderate or therapeutic dose of autogenous bacterin or bacterial "vaccine," the bacteria or their products absorbed from the fresh wound area.

So-called "dead" teeth, properly called pulpless, but not dead as long as the tooth structure gets any nourishment—a controversial point among modern dental pathologists—have so commonly been incriminated and circumstantially proved responsible for focal infection, even though the patient is not aware of any trouble in the tooth, that many good dentists, not all, urge extraction of such teeth as the safest course in any case. If I had a pulpless tooth serving useful purpose in my mouth I'd want more than the mere knowledge of its presence or even an equivocal X-ray shadow around the root, to convince me to sacrifice the tooth. On the other hand if I were de-

Red Sores

As a remedy for bedsores or rather for preventing them, may I offer this suggestion, based on considerable experience in nursing practice. Apply several times daily with a soft cloth but without rubbing, the juice of a lemon. When the skin is red and tender but not broken, the first application smart, but in a few days the skin becomes more hardened and no bedsores develop. (P. A.)

Answer—Thank you. At least it is worth trying in any case. Vitamin C (as in lemon juice) is now used to promote the healing of wounds.

Manganese

Is manganese used as food or medicine? Does it affect the sexual functions?

(W. H. W.)

Answer—Laboratory investigators have inferred that traces of manganese in food or medicine may be a natural stimulant to sexual functions.

Congressman Johns Deplores 'War of Words' With Russia

Washington—If the "war of words" continues between the White House and Russia, Representative Johns (R-Wis.) told the house before adjournment, the United States might find its ambassador sent home.

"The chances are that we will not have to recall him as was suggested by Representative McCormack (D-Mass.), Johns warned.

"It may be only a war of words now, but sometimes words lead to things more serious after they have been spoken.

"If we would have taken just one-tenth of the time in trying to put down the propaganda and acts of violence that have been going on in this country the last six years, we would not have a situation facing us such as we have today."

Johns said that house debate on the pending neutrality bill had only served to strengthen his conviction that lifting of the arms embargo "may and probably will lead to very serious consequences."

Under the existing neutrality law, he said, the United States has been able to stay out of the Japanese-Chinese war, the Spanish civil war and "now let's stay out of this European war."

Roosevelt, Va.—A Roanoke attorney doubts very seriously that the information he gave a young man will ever be of any practical value.

Awakened from a sound sleep at 11 p. m. by the telephone, the attorney was asked the qualifications for becoming President of the United States. He explained politely and after hanging up the phone thought of one thing he had omitted to say—last,

Little Agility Was Needed for Unusual Play

BY ELY CULBERTSON
"Dear Ely: A rare and nameless double end-play has just been unearthed near the foot of Mount Palomar in Southern California. Norman Justice, one of San Diego's young, top-ranking players, unwittingly stumbled into this unusual situation in a recent match-point tournament. He modestly admits that he had deliberately set out to 'end-play' one opponent, only to discover that, through no fault of his own, there was no escape for either adversary.

"Mr. Justice sat South. The four-five no trump bids were under the Blackwood Convention, the first asking for aces, the second for kings. Obviously, the five diamond response announced possession of one ace, and the six club bid denied the holding of any king.
"West opened the heart six, and South took East's jack with the ace. One look at dummy convinced South that his best bet was to try to end-play West in clubs for a heart return. Six rounds of diamonds, followed by the king and queen of spades, failed to bring forth a club discard from West, and South figured that West was protecting the club king. But, actually, the four hands had been reduced to:

"South now played the club ace and ten, and shivered as West played the club queen. Declarer was certain that his attempted throw-in play had failed. But East followed with the club seven and West was trapped; anyway, forced to lead hearts up to South's K-10. Obviously, it would have done East no good to overtake the club queen with the king, since that merely would have end-played him, and forced him to return a club to dummy's jack, or a spade to its ace.
"Was this a grand old backward somersault throw-in, or just a double-jointed strip squeeze?—Harold Sharpsteen, California.
"Without the slightest desire to disparage Mr. Justice's feat, it seems to me that no particular agility was required. All he could do was lead out all his top tricks, except in hearts, then exit with his only 'safe' card, the club ten, and hope for the best. Of course, there was the possibility that the spade jack would fall on the second round of the suit, but this was far too remote to justify an overtake of the second spade honor. In short, there was only one plausible line of play.

My Neighbor Says—
You can put your house plants in the proper soil. You can give them the right amount of air and moisture but unless they have enough light they won't thrive.
Dip thin slices of sweet pickles in mayonnaise. Then place the pickles on crackers or toast spread with fish paste.
If your clothing has become too blue from bluing wash it in plenty of hot water and soap suds. If it is still too blue soak it in three quarts of hot water and to which three tablespoons of vinegar have been added.
Crush chocolate-covered molasses chips, butterscotch candy, glazed nuts, peanut brittle or any other hard candy and add them to pudding sauces just before serving.

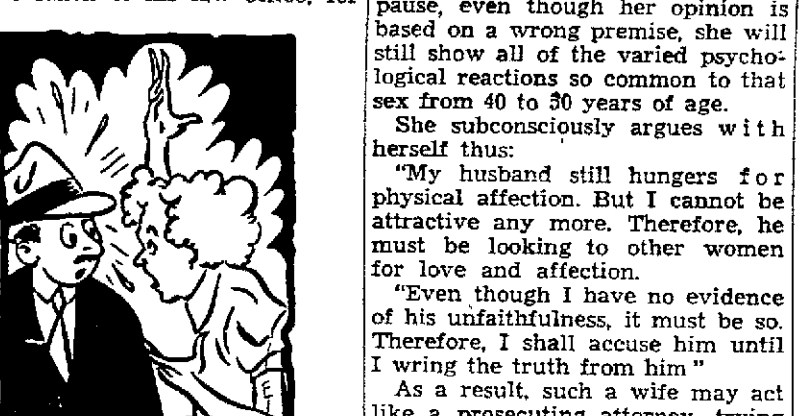

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY
There is no use sitting in the corner and sulking because you do not rate as an All Glamour girl. Few of the glamour girls you so envy are the breathtaking beauties you imagine them to be. In fact, if you rubbed elbows with them and got close enough to scrutinize, you would rate your own beauty a little higher. Those girls are clever enough to dramatize their better points and to be seen at their best advantage.
And right there is valuable beauty advice—who not create a situation to shine? Create an opportunity to look your very best? You may be an out-of-door type of girl. If that is the case, spend a good deal of thought on accumulating a snappy outdoor costume. It might be for skiing; or a football game, or if you skate well get yourself dressed up in a snappy skating rig—even if it was must give up a few dates to make it yourself!
When all is ready—create an opportunity to wear this costume which makes you look pretty stunning. If necessary arrange a skating party—or get the crowd together for a football game—and be sure that the man you want to impress, gets an invitation! Key up your make-up, your hair-do, your accessories, to what you wear, and act with a confident poise, and engaging enthusiasm. But don't overdo it—act as if it was an everyday occurrence!
It's Up to You!
Each girl knows which type of clothes she wears well, and under which circumstances she can shine. It is up to her to see that a time comes when she can dramatize her beauty and strut it before admiring eyes.
Some glamour girls look ravishing in evening clothes, so every time they are invited out they suggest dressing. This keeps their rating high, as far as the male sex goes, for the dear dumb dears are easily impressed with fine feathers. Perhaps if these same escorts saw their glamour girls in tailored tweeds they would run a mile! Why? Well, my dears, some of our most devastating nocturnal beauties have anything but beautiful legs, therefore they wear long evening skirts as often as they can!
Other glamour girls who have beautiful legs, display this beauty asset whenever they can! They might even murmur "Let's not dress," over the telephone because they know their lower extremities are more beautiful than their bony chests which might be revealed by an evening gown! So they stick to tailored suits or short flaring skirts, to show the admiring world their legs are worth looking at!
It is no sin to be aware of your own specific charms. And in this highly competitive world it is thought only just that you display those charms whenever you can without becoming an exhibitionist. Too many women make the mistake of following the herd and wearing a hat, a suit, a color, or a dress that is tagged as "high fashion" whether it flatters her or not. Wear what makes you look your best and get out of that corner where you were sulking and show all that you too have the potentialities of a glamour girl! I'll bet a nickel (perhaps a dime!) that you could look twice as smart and pretty as you do, and you could have twice as much admiration than you get now. Be off—point up your better points before the next party! You have glamour you don't know anything about!
"New Make-Up Colors for You" is a new leaflet listing shades for your specific coloring. Write for it care of this paper and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing 3-cent stamp.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University
Though women want to be distinctive and different in their hair and dresses, they crave to be normal or average in their physical reactions. This is why they develop so many complexes at the menopause. They are afflicted at the thought of being different from young, fertile women.

CASE O-194: Helen G., aged 45, has a daughter in one of my college classes.
"Mother has changed so in the last year," her daughter told me. "She is entirely different from her former jolly self."
"She accuses my Dad of running around with other women, and nags him constantly. She makes him carry his lunch to his law office, for she will not permit him to eat at a restaurant lest he have an affair with one of the waitresses.

"He is loyal and devoted to her, and is altogether innocent of her false charges, some of which are so far-fetched as to be silly. But she keeps on.
"Then she'll suddenly break down and cry, or lock herself in her bedroom and tell him she never wants to see him again. He never knows from one hour to the next just how she'll act or what she'll say.
"Dr. Crane, is Mother losing her mind?"
DIAGNOSIS:
No, this woman is not losing her mind. If she sat passively waiting or toying with her handkerchief day after day while moaning and weeping, we might be more seriously concerned about her sanity. But she is waging an active fight with the most dreaded enemy in women's existence; namely, the menopause.
Every normal woman dreads this period in her life, usually because she has absorbed the widespread but erroneous belief that her sexual attractiveness is then over.
Whether it be in Italy or Germany, France or England, women also have this same mistaken notion that their womb is an integral part of their sexual attractiveness to their husbands. This is a wrong. Menopausal Complexes in Women
But if the average woman believes that she can possess no further physical appeal after the menopause, even though her opinion is based on a wrong premise, she will still show all of the varied psychological reactions so common to that sex from 40 to 36 years of age.
She subconsciously argues with herself thus:
"My husband still hungers for physical affection. But I cannot be attractive any more. Therefore, he must be looking to other women for love and affection.
"Even though I have no evidence of his unfaithfulness, it must be so. Therefore, I shall accuse him until I bring the truth from him."
As a result, such a wife may act like a prosecuting attorney, trying to browbeat a culprit into a confession. She'll be a tennant and shrew of the worst sort.
Then she'll swing her attention back to herself and fall into a fit of weeping from self-pity.
Helen's husband doesn't know what to expect, for she changes from a vigorous accuser to an inconsolable cry-baby within a few minutes.
Sweetest Music At 45
Even if her better judgement tells her that her husband has been forever faithful, she still accuses him. Why?
So he'll vigorously and almost irritably exclaim, "Why, Helen, you know I've never looked at another woman since I married you. Can't you see I love you?"
This is the sweetest music in the world to a menopausal wife's ears.

Without the slightest desire to disparage Mr. Justice's feat, it seems to me that no particular agility was required. All he could do was lead out all his top tricks, except in hearts, then exit with his only 'safe' card, the club ten, and hope for the best. Of course, there was the possibility that the spade jack would fall on the second round of the suit, but this was far too remote to justify an overtake of the second spade honor. Sheer Energy Shouldn't be Mistaken for Bad Behaviour

BY ANGELO PATRI
"How's Toby getting along, John?"
"I don't know, Mother. Somehow, he doesn't seem to be getting on as well as he might. Gets into all sorts of jams with his teacher, or his mother. I don't know—Seems a bit—" Grandmother looked thoughtfully at her grown up son. Then she said, "What kind of things is he doing, exactly, John?"
"Oh, he forgets his homework and has to be sent home for it. And he doesn't always mind his mother. She told him to get home early yesterday so as to have his music lesson early. She wanted to take him down town to buy him a coat. There was a sale. And she fixed it with the music teacher. He got home three-quarters of an hour later than usual. Either he had to skip the music lesson, or go without the coat. His mother took him down and got the coat. But she was upset about it. Kinda thought he did it purposely."
"Did he, John?"
John's mouth twitched, his eyes danced, and finally he laughed outright. "I guess he did, mother, at that. He doesn't care much for the music lesson. He does it but he isn't keen about it."
"Does he lie, or cheat, or steal, or do anything like that, does he, John?"
"Goodness, no. He isn't like that. He's just not so good, and it worries his mother and that worries me."
Grandmother went to the china cabinet and took down a white china mug that had a gold band about the edge, and on the front a gay picture of the Good Shepherd feeding his lambs. "For a Good Boy," was inscribed in letters of gold across its shining surface. "Remember that, John."
"I surely do. That's my mug. For a Good Boy. I wasn't so good either, was I?"
"I thought you were, John. I'd have gone to the stake on that belief. . . . You don't remember, most likely, the day you got that mug? Remember the time you left the yard and went down to Tompkins' farm? You let down the pasture bars and the cows got into the cabbage. And you went into the dairy and dipped your hands into pan after pan and licked off the cream. And then you took a walk down to the village, climbed over the iron fence at the depot and got into an empty freight car. The old station master found you and brought you back home. I was scared to death. Your father and I talked things over that night after we had washed you and put you to bed. He went out and bought you that mug. I read the inscription to you and you learned it right off. You see, we just knew you were a good boy, even if you did not know it yourself. You really are a good boy, John."
Father held the little mug in his hands a while and then he said, "Could you lend me this for a while, mother? I'd like to use it some as I did. He is a good child."
"I've been keeping it for him," said grandmother.
It is meal-time, a problem in your child's life? For guidance in helping him to form correct habits of eating, send for Mr. Patri's booklet, "Eating," enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Mr. Angelo Patri, in care of the Post-Crescent, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.
Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Wife Shouldn't Stand Between Her Husband and His Career

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—My husband and I have been married two and a half years and we have been perfectly happy and contented together. He is a loyal, generous, kind, considerate, everything a wife could want in a husband. Everything would be perfect except that a problem has arisen in our lives. He has received a splendid offer of a business position away from home, one that will eventually mean security and ease for us, but I will not be able to go with him immediately because he will be traveling with other men from city to city. He hates to be parted from me as much as I do from him even for a short while, but if he does not do this traveling he cannot get the job. Now my trouble is that my friends advise me not to let him go. They deluge me with dire prophecies and warnings about permitting him to be away from me, predicting that I will lose him, that he will be lonesome and seek the society of other women. They say that no man is safe away from home, and they have got me nearly crazy. I am of a worrying disposition and I wonder if any of these things could happen to him.
Dorothy Dix Answer:
Anything can happen to anybody. All of us have to take our chances in life. You have no more guarantees that your husband will be faithful to you than any other woman has. So if you are a trouble hound, who can't be happy unless you are miserable, go to it and have a grand time torturing yourself by thinking that every time your husband is out of your sight he is chasing some woman. You will have a happy marriage, I don't think.
Personally, I can't imagine a woman having so little sense as to let what a few evil-tongued, gossip-mongers say overbalance her knowledge of her husband's character. In living with your husband you must have found out what manner of man he is. If you have found him a drunkard and a rouse and a weakling, who can't resist any temptation, and he has been neglecting you for some pretty little blonde, you may be justified in suspecting that he will not live a cloistered life while he is off on this business trip.
But if you have found him upright and honest, moral, loyal and high-principled, and he has been devoted to you, don't you think you are offering him a gratuitous insult by believing that he will wallow in the gutter as soon as he is away from your restraining influence?
Believe me, my dear child, no woman keeps her husband in love with her spying on him nor does she walk the strait and narrow path because he knows she is watching him. If a man is true to his wife it is because he loves her and because he has a sense of honor and responsibility. It isn't because she always has her eye on him. There is always a point where espionage breaks down, and any man who wants to have affairs with women can do so, no matter how energetic is the female sleuth to whom he is married.
In the end you have to trust your husband. The more fully you do it the better for you. There is such a thing as honor, you know, and the husband whose wife puts her faith in his integrity is far more apt to go straight than the one whose wife is always suspecting him.
And, further, let me implore you not to be one of the wives who always tag their husbands wherever they go and who have to be always dragged along to every convention and on every business trip they make. Such a woman is a terrible even though it must be forced from her husband by false accusation. From my extensive consulting experience, I feel convinced that most of the menopausal disturbances in women are psychological. They can be corrected by psychological methods. Every husband of such a woman should read my bulletin on "HOW TO HANDLE NAGGING WIVES." Send for a copy, following the instructions below.

handicap to a man, because he has to be continually looking out for himself. Instead of being able to freely mix with the men where important contacts are made and friendships cemented that lead to big business deals.
No wife ever makes a more fatal mistake than when she stands between her husband and his career. He may give in because she weeps at the thought of parting from him and stay with her, but he never forgives her, and it isn't long before he gets sick and tired of her. It is the women who push their husbands on to success, not the ones who hold them back, whose husbands love them to the end.
Should Fast Follies Be Disclosed?
Dear Miss Dix—My life has never been happy at home, so last summer I married a boy I had only known for six weeks just to get away from it. I didn't love him and only lived with him for four hours. Now we have moved to a different state and I have met a boy who is everything that I have ever dreamed of and we are engaged to be married, but my mother says I cannot marry him unless I tell him everything about my past. I can't do this. He loves and trusts me and would still do so after I told him, but he would never be the same. He will never find out about the Other Boy so why should I tell him. BILLY.
Answer:
Oh, just to keep the record straight, for if your case is as you state it you were honestly married to the boy and you have nothing to be ashamed of except your folly.
Your marriage is a matter of legal record, so is your divorce, or annulment, or whatever method you took to end your brief marriage. Anybody can look them up and somebody is sure to do so and tell about it. Hence it will be far better for you to confess your youthful folly to this boy before marriage than to let him find it out afterward, as he is sure to do.
The chances are that he would think nothing of it, as men marry divorced women every day, but if after you are married he discovers that you have deceived him it will be disastrous to you.
Long Engagements
Mean No Marriage
Dear Miss Dix—How long should a woman give a man to make up his mind about whether he wants to marry her? I have been going with one for seven years who still talks about what we will do when we are married in some indefinite future, but he never asks me to name the wedding day. He is able to support a family. ANXIOUS.
Answer:
I think the time limit is up. The man who puts off marriage for sev-

PEAKED WAIST

BY ANNE ADAMS
When you're playing the gracious "lady-at-home," you'll find this young matron housefrock, Anne Adams' Pattern 4300, fills the role perfectly. Good Taste Today

By Emily Post
"Write her in care of my address," advised the older man. "But don't come down here. No use. I'm not here either. It's a fairly large country to hide in, you know, and Buff's a seasoned traveler. Put your troubles on paper and send the letter here. I'll see that it's forwarded."
With that Tim had to be content. He wrote and re-wrote his letter; used up all the stationery in the hotel bedroom and rang for more. At one o'clock or thereabouts he came to the conclusion that the first letter was about as good as the last; neither representative of what he wanted to say, nor his effort to do so. He tore his effort into shreds, and went wearily to bed. The next day he returned to Boulder to await Buff's answer.
It was Tim's turn to speculate, to analyze, to worry. He turned over and over in his mind the events of the last few months. He tried to convince himself that Buff had betrayed a personal interest in his welfare instead of the characteristic helpfulness he had believed she had shown toward him. He thought of the soap sculptor, and Buff's motherly care of him. He thought of the dozen or more University students who dropped in for tea and sandwiches, for small loans, for advice and help with their work.
Above all, he thought of Iris. Buff's action in rescuing the girl who had been the cause of so much trouble to everyone was proof positive of her goodness. Buff's intrinsic kindness was in a tight place. Lathaw had turned snarling upon her in the real estate office, and accused her of betraying his plans to Tim.
The story of that hasty trip to Denver was sure to leak out, Tim mused. George's exultation was too great to expect complete silence on his part.
"And Buff was quick to realize all that. While I was stunned with what had happened, and wild with anxiety to get Buff, she quietly picked up Iris and took her away. And I flattered myself that she was interested in me, as a man, rather than as a person who needed her friendship and encouragement!"
He was right about the story being known to Boulder. True, it was a garbled story, involving a summons of the police, Iris's flight from legal accounting, Buff's chagrin at discovering her friend to be an adventuress.
Tim learned that Mrs. Webb was returning to the ranch.
Your tip. Otherwise, of course, it can be left on the bureau although it is possible that some one else coming in to tidy the room may think it is for her, or for him.

WHITE WEDDING DRESS AND BUSINESS SUIT

Dear Mrs. Post: The wedding dress I would like most of all to wear has a slight train. But my fiancée is wearing business clothes. I wondered if it would be proper for me to have a slight train on my wedding dress and to wear a short tulle veil.
Answer: Of course you may wear a train, but the dress should be very "tailored" in style. The bridegroom should wear a plain dark tie, a white shirt and a white flower in his buttonhole, and preferably a dark blue suit. Obviously he should not wear tweeds!
Skirt Lengths Of Mothers At Wedding
Dear Mrs. Post: Do the mothers' dresses at the wedding have to be similar in type, and does the bride's mother set the pace? At my son's wedding, the bride's mother is wearing street length day clothes. It is to be an evening wedding and I would like to wear a dinner dress. This means a long skirt and no hat. But since I'm just the "other" mother, I don't know what to do.
Answer: If you are going to receive together, then it is important that you wear clothes that look well together. But if the bride's mother is to receive alone and you can stand elsewhere, it ought not to matter if your clothes are unlike. Naturally you should not wear a sleeveless, backless dress. But a modern dinner dress, which is cut like a daytime one and is rated as an evening dress only because of its material and length of skirt, would not be out of place unless you must receive with the bride's mother. In other words, if she stands at the door and the bride party stands at some distance from her (probably against the side wall or maybe against the opposite wall), then you could stand on beyond the bride party. In fact, it would look very much better to lead up to you in your evening dress than the other way around. By this I mean that if the bride's mother were receiving in evening dress, and beyond her came the bride and her bridesmaids, and then beyond these you were to be wearing a street dress, it would not look as well as the way it is going to be.

Tip A Chambermaid In Hotel:
Dear Mrs. Post: I was particularly interested in the mention you made in a recent column on tipping the maid in a hotel. Since one seldom sees the maid who takes care of the room, how then is a tip left for her and where?
Answer: You ring the bell or telephone and ask for the chambermaid and when she comes you give her

After A Man's Heart

by JEAN RANDALL
Chapter 28
THE MISSING MAID
"You'll have a devil of a time finding Buff," her father told Tim over the telephone, "if she's made up her mind to leave you out on a limb. If you'll take my advice you'll stay in Denver overnight, at least. Tell me your hotel and I'll call you around ten. There may be some word of her then."
There was no alternative. Tim gave the name of an unpretentious hostelry which he and George made use of when business kept them overnight in the city. He spent a long afternoon in his room, trying desperately to remember any reference Buff had made to the place she liked to stay. Gramercy Park, in New York, had appealed to her. Should he try her there? But she couldn't have reached Chicago by now, let alone New York.
In the middle of the afternoon he telephoned George in a forlorn hope that some scrap of news had reached him. It had; a rather surprising scrap, too.
"Iris had checked out at the Boulderado," Weekes said excitedly. "And what's more it looks as if Buff had taken her in her car. Lathaw was in the office today. He's pretty hot under the collar as you might expect. First we busted up his deal with that Detroit buyer, and now we've kidnapped his girl—so he says."
Tim was dumfounded. Buff and Iris together! He didn't know which seemed the more incredible: that Iris would go willingly with the girl who had exposed her deceit or that Buff would want to take Iris. He replaced the receiver dazedly. But protracted thought—had he plenty of time for thought, protected as he otherwise before the call came through from Tucson at ten—showed him that providing for Iris was exactly the sort of thing Buff might be expected to do.
"Taking care of people is a complex with her. And I thought she was going out of her way to look after me! All that talk of marriage was simply her idea of the best way to protect me from"—he winced—"the frises of the world. She'd have done it as readily for George—for that fool VanLander. She selected me because I seemed to her a more desperate case." He thought of his brotherly admonitions to her, of his stubborn resistance to her attempts to help him, and reddened. Buff seemed to stand before him, her blue eyes gentle, her small slim figure at once protective and appealing.
Somehow the hours dragged along until ten o'clock. Tim leaped toward the telephone when Lance Carroll's call came through from Tucson at ten—showed him that providing for Iris was exactly the sort of thing Buff might be expected to do.
"I've heard from her," announced the artist. "You can stop your worrying. She's safe."
"But where is she?" Tim shouted. "Where she prefers to be for a time, at least; without an address." "D'you mean that I—"
"I'm afraid so. She said particularly that no one in Boulder was to know her destination. Sorry, but Buff always has pretty good reason for what she does."
"But—but I—I absolutely necessary that I—that I see her," stammered Tim. "Look here, Mr. Carroll! I—there are things I must say to her. A lot has happened since you were here. It's vital that I see Buff—communicate with her, anyway."
"Write her in care of my address," advised the older man. "But don't come down here. No use. I'm not here either. It's a fairly large country to hide in, you know, and Buff's a seasoned traveler. Put your troubles on paper and send the letter here. I'll see that it's forwarded."

He went into the kitchen of Buff's apartment to say goodby. She had been good to him, and she had watched faithfully over Buff. Tim shook her hand cordially.
"No word, I suppose, from Miss Buff?" He did not pause for an answer but hurried on: "Webby, I want you to promise me something. You have my telephone number, both at the laboratory and the boardinghouse. I don't like the idea of your being alone at the ranch. You might fall ill. Will you call me if you need help of any kind? I'll come right out." Her broad face, rigid at first with some emotion he did not understand, showed a wavering smile.
"I'll call you, Mr. Tim. You—you're a nice man no matter what they say."
He nodded absently. He was past caring what "they" said by now. The answer to his letter to Buff was due, and over due. Each night he searched the table at his boardinghouse, hoping to find the girl's small firm handwriting on one of the envelopes in the pewter plate; and each night he was disappointed.
He questioned George cautiously. "I don't suppose you happened to have heard—er—from Buff? I mean—it's only natural she would write you, considering how friendly you two were."
"Not a word!" was the crisp rejoinder. George's sympathy with his partner flamed as bright as ever, but he considered Tim needed to learn his lesson thoroughly before the call came through from Tucson at ten—showed him that providing for Iris was exactly the sort of thing Buff might be expected to do.
"I Can Do Nothing"
Tim assented unhappily. He had passed the stage where he cared what Weekes thought of him—at least where Buff was concerned. When it became evident that he could no longer expect an answer to his letter—that stiffly apologetic, almost incoherent letter he had written in the hotel room at Denver—he wrote Lance Carroll. He said simply that he owed Buff a great debt and would never be easy in his mind until he had at least acknowledged it. Would the artist give Buff's address since she chose to ignore both him and his apologies?
Carroll took his time to reply and when the letter came, it contained only two lines. "Sorry, but if Buff chooses to disappear from your life, I can do nothing."
Winter which had withheld its violence until now swept down on the little town. The snowflakes were busy every day clearing the roads. The winds came straight from the peaks and were knife-edged.
There was little work for either of the young men. Tim had time on his hands. He tried to miss a straight little figure with blue eyes which looked directly into his, not drooping like Iris's dark ones; time to recall a dozen little gestures, a hundred inflections of the boyish voice, Buff's own contagious chuckle.
He missed her sorely, and as the winter wore on his longing to see her grew almost hourly. Iris faded completely from his mind; or if he remembered her at all it was with the instinctive recoil of a healthy mind from a recollected pain. Night after night he lay in bed, his eyes fixed on the ceiling, but his inward vision busy with Buff, loyal little Buff, friendly and kind little Buff, Buff whose courage was great enough to offer herself in marriage to a man in trouble, since it seemed to her there was no other way to help him.
His infatuation over Iris DeMuth had given him a facility in terms of endearment. He had called her "darling" and "dearest," "sweet," and "heart's delight." Now on the eve of his departure, even in his thoughts he could say no more than the crisp little nickname: Buff. Buff. He threw into it enough agonizing longing to more than fill a volume of love poems.
He woke one morning with a strange purpose. He would drive out to the ranch and see how Webby was getting along.
"You're crazy, man," George told him flatly. "I doubt if you can get through on the highway this early. It's a sure thing you couldn't make the road to the ranch. Webby would have called you if anything was wrong. You told me yourself she promised."
"The line's down," Tim answered. "I tried last night to get her, tried again the first thing this morning. Even if she's well, she may have run out of supplies in that out-of-the-way place."
"Well," George sighed, "if you're dead set on going, I suppose I may as well go also."
"No, you stay here." There was a brusque note in Tim's voice which surprised the other man. "At the last, it'll be no pleasure trip. At the worst, I may get held up out there a couple of days, or more. One of us had better be here. So Tim set off soon after nine, in a storm which rapidly assumed the proportions of a blizzard.
Continued tomorrow

He went into the kitchen of Buff's apartment to say goodby. She had been good to him, and she had watched faithfully over Buff. Tim shook her hand cordially.

American Indian Lore Corn Had Prominent Place in Life and Rituals of Indians

BY PHEBE JEWELL NICHOLS
(Mrs. A. F. Lookaround)

The word 'corn' in the English language is from the Anglo Saxon and means 'kernel.' Strictly speaking, corn is the seed of any one of the cereal grasses, wheat, barley, rye, oats, and maize. It was a general term applied to the principal cereal or food stuffs of any region. Formerly in England, before maize was grown as extensively as it is now, corn meant wheat, and in Scotland it meant oats. In the United States it means maize which has come to be called Indian corn, other cereals being referred to as grain.

Among significant ceremonies of the southern Indians, maize plays an important part. The primitive Indians looked with awe upon the marvels of nature, and such plants as provided them with the food without which they would suffer famine were revered and had their place in the religious rituals. We find ceremonies growing around the planting, tilling and harvesting of maize, and great festivals prepared when the first meal was ground and eaten. This plant's idiosyncrasies also excited reverence. Technically, grass, grown exceedingly tall and sturdy, it had an even number of rows of kernels on each cob and for each grain there was a silk thread. It had long blade-like leaves which made a peculiar rustling sound at the least touch of wind. It had two kinds of flowers; that from which came the edible ear with its pistils of silk, and the tassels from which came the pollen. The Indians were botanists less primitive than we think and evidently knew something of pollination in nature's scheme, for pollen was revered and held an important place in many rituals. Maize was looked upon as the particular gift of the Great Spirit to his children. Especially elaborate were the corn ceremonies among the Hopis. The earliest Mayan records reveal complicated religious rites and practices built around this plant and its uses.

Taught Pilgrims
The corn grown by the Wisconsin Algonquians is essentially the same as that which the New England Algonquians taught the Pilgrims to raise. In clearings where stumps still stood, the Indians taught the white people to make little hills and fertilize them with dead fish and here insert a few grains of corn to a depth of about eight inches. The Indians were accustomed to plant beans, squashes and pumpkins in the corn fields and this the colonists soon learned to do.

The Indian way of preparing corn for food was also learned by the early settlers. There were three principle ways. First, when the corn was 'in the milk' it was scraped from the cob with sharpened shells and dried. Second, the corn was gathered when thoroughly ripe, several ears held together by the husks which were turned back and braided so that the cluster could be hung up to dry. When dry, it was stored in a stone mortar, or parched, or hulled. Parching required that it be spread upon thin slabs of wood under which slow fires were kept burning until the process was completed, the wood giving a special flavor to the corn. Cedar was preferable. Hulling was done by boiling the kernels in lye water made with wood ashes until the hulls broke loose. Repeated washings produced a whitish pop-corn-like mass like that which we think

when you have these signs of Acid Indigestion

- ☐ Heartburn
- ☐ Sour Stomach
- ☐ Nausea
- ☐ "Acid" Headache
- ☐ No appetite
- ☐ "Loosiness"
- ☐ Tired feeling in morning
- ☐ "Gas"

Check these symptoms—and if you suspect excess stomach acids, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. If trouble persists, See Your Doctor.

Today it's so easy to "alkalize" excess acids anywhere you are. Now when distress comes at home, all you do is take 2 tablespoonsful of liquid Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. When you are out with others, simply slip 2 Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets in your mouth like you would candy mints. That's all you do to feel wonderful.

Either form of Phillips' works the same way—very quickly. You can't beat it for welcome fast relief from after-eating distress. Almost at once you feel "gas," nausea, that "lumpy" feeling from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid" headache, "acid breath" are corrected right at the source.

It's a wonderful way to free yourself from distress and embarrassment. Try it. But be sure when you buy to ask for "Phillips'" to insure getting the genuine fast-acting Phillips' article.

of as hominy. Today, this hulled corn is probably the most popular food of the natives Menominees who are experts in its preparation. Cooked with meat or a bit of salt pork, it is a delectable and vastly nourishing dish.

Cleared Land
Indians formerly combined the hulled corn with maple sugar and blueberries, but this practice is no longer common. Some of the older Menominees are planting seeds from their plants that were grown from seeds that came down from season to season like an heirloom in the family. The braided husks which were broken from the dried ears were used for rugs, being soaked in water first and when soft and workable sewed into shape. Food was sometimes wrapped in husks for cooking, as the corn cakes of the Algonquians and the tamales of the southern Indians.

Indians did clear land to the extent of burning out the stumps, and they laid out their cornfields with care and precision. Indian planting grounds showed parallel rows of beds made in plots and intersecting. Between the beds were sunken paths, and the cornfields consisted of little hillocks set apart from one another but not in regular rows. The Algonquians had simple ceremonies surrounding the planting and harvesting of corn, the latter festival being intertwined with our first American Thanksgiving. Women were the planters of the corn and the workers of the garden beds, for they were the symbols of fertility.

The Mondamin of Hiawatha and the Wahpamin of the Menominees is the same sacred meal of the Indians of the southwest.

Band Mothers Outline Plans at Gathering
Hilbert — The Band Mothers club held its monthly meeting Monday evening at the schoolhouse. Plans were discussed for a birthday and Christmas party to be given Dec. 4, at the school for members.

The club decided on several activities such as a galloping card party and sale of a quilt to help raise funds to purchase new uniforms to the band.

The Five Hundred club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Pieper. Honors were won by Mrs. John Laffey and Mrs. Anton Seichter. The club will not meet next week but will meet with Mrs. Anton Seichter in two weeks.

Mrs. Rudolph Schwabenberg who spent the last two weeks with relatives at Athelstone, Wis., returned to her home here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kees entertained at a 12 o'clock luncheon Tuesday for Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Frei and daughter, Marlene of Ferdinand, Idaho. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jenny of Little Chute.

At a recent meeting of the village board it was voted to provide a skating rink at the village park.

U. of W. Making Plans for Gala Homecoming Weekend

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The University of Wisconsin homecoming celebration this fall will be an event to warm the cockles of the old grad's heart, the homecoming committee promised today as it announced details of the festivities for the weekend of Nov. 18.

Promising festive innovations this fall, this is the way the committee announced the event today:

"The oaks on the University of Wisconsin's Murr knoll seem to be taking on an even deeper Canad hue this week, for Homecoming time is here again."

Harry Stuldreher, the pilot of the university's football department, will be the theme of the weekend. The slogan, described as a natural, will be "The Four Horseman of the Fourth Year". Stuldreher this fall is completing his fourth season as head coach at the state school.

Begins Friday
The official weekend program will begin Friday afternoon, according to Robert Heinrichs of Sturgeon Bay, general student chairman. Returning alumni will be given their first chance at that time to tour the new Memorial Union wing, with its workshops, recreational facilities, auditorium, and elaborately constructed experimental theatre.

The pep rally on the campus will include a demonstration by members of Scabbard and Blade, cadet society, and a speech by Clarence A. Dykstra, university president. The university freshmen football team will provide entertainment Saturday morning, while the main event of the weekend, will be the Wisconsin-Purdue game Saturday afternoon. A homecoming ball will follow in the evening.

University authorities expect thousands of graduates to return to the campus for the weekend.

German Club to Present Comedy

'Uebung Macht den Meister' Title of High School Play

"Uebung Macht Den Meister," or "Practice Makes Perfect," is the lesson which members of Der Deutsche Verein, German club of Appleton High school, will learn from the comedy which they will see Monday afternoon at their regular club meeting. The play will be presented by the advance German students of Miss Sophia Haase, who is directing.

The comedy involves the trials of two American girls who are forced by their maid to speak German to their American boy friends because they are in Germany for the purpose of learning the language. Despite the handicap, however, the cause of romance wins out.

The two girls will be played by Lois Bauernfeind and Margaret Baumler. Esther Hattner will be the unrelenting maid. The two boys will be interpreted by Kenneth Zueger and Roland Vogt. Inez Werth will be the mother and Ariene Greco the governess. Bernard Posniak will be stage manager; Edwin Kerswill, property manager; and Marion Witt, costumer. Ruth Cies is general chairman in charge of the program.

E. F. Russell of Sweet Home, Ore., is reported to be using a wagon that came across the plains as a covered wagon in 1852.

Pedestrian Death Held Unavoidable By Inquest Jury

Driver of Truck Involved In Accident Saturday Found Blameless

Albert Pasch, 77, 903 N. Superior street, was killed in an "unavoidable accident" while crossing N. Superior street about 7:20 last Saturday evening, an inquest jury found yesterday afternoon at the courthouse.

The verdict read that he "was killed in an unavoidable accident by being struck by a truck operated by Charles Junior Hermann."

Hermann, 20, 543 N. Durkee street testified that he was driving south on N. Superior street in the 800 block when he struck Pasch. He said he didn't see the pedestrian until Walter Cotton, 302 E. Pacific street, who was riding with him, warned that there was someone in front of him. About the same instant, his truck hit the man, Hermann said.

Driving Slowly

Cotton said they were traveling about 20 miles per hour and that he saw Pasch just before the truck struck him. Pasch was south of the crosswalk and about on the center line of the street when first seen, Cotton told the jury.

Milo E. Swanson testified that Pasch died of internal injuries and that his pelvis was crushed and that there was a compound leg fracture. Pasch was pronounced dead upon entrance to St. Elizabeth hospital where he was taken after the accident.

Lieutenant Herbert Kapp and Sergeant Carl Raskie testified as to measurements taken following the accident.

They said Pasch apparently was walking from the east to the west side of Superior street when the accident occurred. Measurements indicated the accident occurred south of the south crosswalk on Superior street.

Motorcycle Officer Clarence Hopp testified that Pasch was injured in a similar accident last February.

PLANT HOLLAND TULIPS IN BEDS AT CITY HALL

Here are park board workmen with Harold Jerke, park superintendent, center, as they began planting Holland tulip bulbs in a bed on the city hall property yesterday. At the left is Edward Zapp and Andrew Gebhardt. The tulips were given to the city by the Appleton Post-Crescent in an effort to create a civic interest in beautifying the city. Five thousand tulip bulbs and 1,000 hyacinths were included in the gift. The men planted about 1,500 bulbs yesterday and were scheduled to continue the planting today in parks. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Schools Feel They Can Train Citizens to Protect Democracy

Editor's Note—This is the fourth of a series of discussions pertaining to "Education for the American Way of Life," prepared by the Appleton Education Association in observance of AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK.

EDUCATION FOR CIVIC RESPONSIBILITY

It has been said that education of the masses is the hope of democracy. Never was that more true than today. But the dictatorships throughout the world are making it in order to have the backing of public opinion.

In what way must the training of our future citizens differ? They must be taught to critically appraise the work of their government officials and to offer constructive criticism. The schools feel that they can train the future citizens to be ever alert in preserving freedom of speech, the press, and trial by jury in no better way than by developing not only all the latent possibilities for initiative and leadership in each child, but by making each one conscious of his own worthwhileness. As a student if he has been led to make his contribution to the social and civic groups in school, then, as an adult, he will feel that after study his ideas on public questions are of importance, and he will be eager and alert to exchange views with his neighbor. Educators offer many and varied opportunities in the schools throughout the land for this type of training.

When the youth of America leaves our schools, he has been taught an appreciation and respect for the heritage of civil liberties won for him so dearly. How simple a matter it would be if this knowledge on the part of our citizenry guaranteed the perpetuation of our democracy. But he must know that the maxims of civil liberty are mere trash unless supported by citizens in daily conduct. We achieve and maintain democracy by providing the conditions that make for the democratic life, wide-spread distribution of employment, goods and services which mean a decent way of living for all. The leaders in government, business enterprise, agriculture and labor must rise to the occasion as did the creators of the republic. They must realize that our society is not one in which the problems of living and governing have been solved for the indefinite future.

The challenge America faces today in a world of conflicting philosophies, democracy, communism, fascism, national socialism is clear. If we are to have democracy, we must make every adult feel conscious of his responsibility and abilities in preserving the democratic process. To achieve this, we must use all of our available educational facilities—the schools, the press, the radio and the screen. Let us have more enthusiasm for democracy—more town meetings, and

Tiger Doesn't Feel Like Playing After Experience on Hook

Tiger, one of two mousers at the Junction store, likes to scamper and play with her pal, Blackie, but today she is very quiet.

Eating hard food has become a chore for Tiger who ordinarily likes mice just as much as any other cat.

Tiger feels very much like a fish that has been hooked and then thrown back into the water. And that's just about what happened.

J. L. Stelflug, proprietor of the store, came to work Tuesday morning and found Tiger with a fish hook in her mouth and hanging from the end of a line on a pole. She had hooked her front paws on a window bar to take her weight off the hook.

Stelflug doesn't know how Tiger came to be hanging from the end of the fish pole. A veterinarian spent the better part of an hour getting the hook out of Tiger's mouth.

And that is why Tiger doesn't feel like playing today but she's glad someone came along to take her off the end of that line.

Oneida Indian, 19, Given Penal Term On Larceny Count

Coleman Swamp, 19, Oneida Indian, was sentenced to a year in the state reformatory at Green Bay yesterday afternoon by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court after the youth pleaded guilty of larceny from a person.

Swamp admitted picking the pocket of Henry Dorsey at an Oneida tavern Oct. 7. Sheriff John Lappen took Swamp to the reformatory this morning.

Unsettled tonight and Friday; rain probable and rain or snow extreme north portion; warmer south-east and east central portions tonight, colder Friday and Friday night.

General Weather

A storm of considerable dimensions which now overlies the northern plains states is causing cloudy and unsettled weather over all the central states. However, generally fair weather prevails over the southern plains states and over the southern and eastern portions of the country.

It is considerably colder over the central and eastern states, but temperatures are rising over the northern and central plains states.

Rain is expected in this section during the next 24 hours, with rising temperature tonight, followed by colder Friday.

Garner, Wheeler Refuse to Make Bids for Office

Both Have Been Urged to Make Declarations Of Candidacy

Washington (AP)—Friends of Vice President Garner and Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) were urged authoritatively today to have reported them to make formal declarations of candidacy for the next Democratic presidential nomination.

Before leaving Washington last weekend for his Uvalde, Texas, home, Garner was said to have declined a "yes" or "no" answer to these suggestions. Some of Garner's associates were described as believing he should make a general declaration of his views in order to gain the early support of like-minded voters. Others, however, was said, advised him that his position on fundamental policies already was well known and that nothing would be gained from their public reiteration.

Wheeler was understood to have decided to withhold comment on the presidential race. Authoritative sources said he believed any effort to step into the 1940 situation would be politically ill-advised until after President Roosevelt has made known whether he would stand for a third term.

Wallace For Roosevelt

Capital speculation on potential Democratic candidates was stirred anew by Secretary Wallace's reiteration of his belief that Mr. Roosevelt should have another term.

Asked about his statement to that effect in San Francisco, Wallace told reporters yesterday:

"Yes, I said what I thought. I haven't changed my mind."

Stephen Early, one of Mr. Roosevelt's secretaries, said at the time that Wallace should have "consulted the victim" before speaking this was interpreted generally as an indication of White House displeasure.

Asked whether he had apologized for his comment, Wallace replied that no apology had been asked and none made.

Senator Minton (D-Ind.), the Democratic whip, authorized a statement from his midwestern home that the special session fight over neutrality "has brought behind the president the largest following he has had in many months."

Minton contended there was less discord in the Democratic party now than at any time since the 1936 election.

DEATHS

REV. EMIL KLAWITER

The Rev. Emil Klawiter, 72, died at his home in Pasadena, Calif., about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a lingering illness. The Rev. Mr. Klawiter served in the Methodist Wisconsin conference for 15 years before going to California in 1905. He preached at Marion, Chase, Abrams, Maine, Rib Falls and Fond du Lac while in Wisconsin. The last 5 years he was superintendent of a home for elderly persons at Pasadena. The Rev. Mr. Klawiter was born in Fond du Lac.

Treatment Plant Is Being Prepared For Winter Months

Preparations to prevent freezing during the winter months are being made at the Appleton sewage treatment plant, according to Clarence Baetz, plant superintendent.

The flocculator is being emptied this week of water and chemicals. The flocculator, where the sewage is mixed with chemicals and oxygen, is not used during the winter. The contact tank, where chlorine is added to the water going from the plant to the river, also will be emptied for the winter.

The gas unit heaters at the plant are being overhauled and cleaned in the screen and grit buildings while an oil burner will replace a coke burning unit in the furnace in the sludge building.

An area south of the plant road is being seeded and fertilized for a lawn next spring.

Rain Tonight, Colder Friday

Mercury Climbs to 44 Degrees Today as Warmer Weather Prevails

Strange as it may seem, it was warmer today than it was yesterday. Mercury in the thermometer on the roof of the Post-Crescent building registered 44 degrees early this afternoon while the high point for the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning was 41 degrees at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The lowest mark was 26 degrees at midnight, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Unsettled weather is predicted tonight and Friday with rain probable tonight and colder temperatures Friday and Friday night in Appleton and vicinity. Warmer temperatures are expected tonight.

Today got off to a bad start with a fair to middlin' downpour putting in an appearance about 8 o'clock. Heavy, dark clouds curtailed the sun.

Highest and lowest temperatures in the nation yesterday as reported at official weather bureau stations were 83 degrees at San Antonio, Texas, and 20 degrees at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., according to the Associated Press.

Gandhi's Renewed Demand for Indian Freedom Puts Britain In Doubly Serious Situation

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York (AP)—Gandhi's fresh demand on Britain for Indian freedom increases the seriousness of a situation which is doubly bad for England because of her involvement in the European war.

Such a demand from this great nationalist leader is no light matter. The famous little ascetic is by far the most powerful figure in India, and speaks with the authority of many millions of followers, who look to him not only for political but for spiritual guidance.

This new development follows closely adoption of the dangerous weapon for passive resistance against the British government by all India national congress party, which Gandhi controls.

London's undoubted concern must be increased by reports that Russia is planning to take advantage of the European crisis to try to bring India into the communist fold.

Incidentally, a charge that India is oppressed was made in the Communist Internationale's manifesto Monday.

Wholesale Non-Cooperation

Passive resistance, which means wholesale non-cooperation, can be terribly effective if properly handled, and it is an expedient with which the nationalists are quite familiar through past usage.

It was set in motion again by the resignation of six provincial governments controlled by the nationalists, and others are expected to follow. This is of course calculated to stop, or at least impede, the machinery of state.

Gandhi in announcing the start of passive resistance, added: "I will resist civil disobedience (active resistance) unless I find the country prepared for that."

Such an intimation of possible active resistance, even coming from a noted peace-advocate like Gandhi, has a disturbing sound.

Any sort of ferment so going in an empire of 350,000,000 oriental people—roughly a sixth of the world's total population—is something to watch.

And Gandhi is again the man of the hour. He is at once the inspiration and the steady influence in the nationalist party, not a few of whose members are fanatically opposed to British rule. It is to Gandhi that the English must look to keep things in hand while this question of "Puran Swaraaj"—absolute independence—is ironed out.

Worship Gandhi

It seems almost incredible but Gandhi literally is worshipped by countless Indians as a divine being.

Frey Will Urge Heil's Action to Recover $65,000 had based all of his questions on the commission's "contracts, specifications, and figures."

As in the case of Commissioner Thomas F. Darrin and Thomas J. Pattison, formerly examined O'Brien on a $17,000 supplementary claim, filed by Payne and Dolan, which the commission finally paid.

Like Pattison, O'Brien said he thought it was a "good claim," at the time, but "would not approve it today."

While admitting that payment of the claim might have been an "error in judgment," O'Brien defended the project saying:

"We got a better road with more materials for less money than we would have on an ordinary bid."

Contractor Misinformed

O'Brien said the contractor had been misinformed in 1932 by a former commission employee as to the availability of a crushed stone deposit near the project, and that the contractor's expenses were greater than anticipated. On that basis, he said, he felt that it was a just claim, but that he would "gladly submit it to the attorney general" to determine whether the money can be recovered.

At the close of the hearing O'Brien received permission to make the following statement:

"Perhaps one of the reasons for the engineering error (crushed stone deposit) was the press of business in the office. We were working with a tremendous federal grant that had to be placed under contract within eight months. Together with that we had to handle 2,100 jobs on CWA (civil works administration), day labor on the highways, and 400 contracts under NRA, so that during the months of July, August, September, October, November and December, we were in a sort of chaotic condition."

"There was dissension among the men who handled the work; there was something of a carry-over from a preceding investigation, and when I arrived certain of the men would not talk to the others. We worked as hard as we could to get things in shape quickly, to coordinate things to a point where accurate engineering reports could be had."

The probe is expected to be resumed some time next week.

For years he has been going about preaching and teaching, like a prophet of old, clad only in his loin-cloth and living on goat's milk and fruit.

We always used to address him as "mahatma"—a title of reverence meaning "great-souled one"—in the not distant past when I sat cross-legged on the floor and listened to his philosophy. But he disapproves of the "mahatma" just as he dislikes and tries to avoid the adoration of simple Indian peasants who prostrate themselves to kiss his feet. So the title was discarded.

The nationalists are immediately concerned with that section of the Indian empire known as British India, and has a population of 250,000,000.

The rest of the empire comprises "native India" which is made up of many states under British controlled rule of the princes and chiefs. These are the nabobs who in a lot of cases are so rich that they have little notion of what their total wealth may be.

Prahl's News	10 14

New London—Records fell in the Girls club league at Prahl's alleys last night and standings were shuffled as the women hit the pins for new team and individual marks.

Carter-Hansons stepped into first place by trimming Prahl's News three games and collected high team single of 628. Mrs. Earl Meiklejohn smashed a 201 line for high individual game. Daves Service pounded a new high team series of 1,705 as they beat the New London Constructors two games with scores of 558, 554 and 595. Mrs. Leo Schoenrock cracked a 189 game for the losers.

Business Men's Major
Earl Meiklejohn smashed a new high series mark in the Business Men's Major league as he walloped lines of 198, 168 and 209, pacing his Cloines quint to three wins over Crystals and tie with the losers. The squad's 381 game fell one pin below the present league mark. Dr. M. A. Borchardt added a 532 total to the team's high marks. Greenlaw's Garage slipped into second with two wins over Wadham's Oils.

Ladies League
Restie's Ladies remained in the lead of the Afternoon Ladies league when they trimmed Raschke's Roses three games. The trailing Pansies grabbed two games from Unger's Orchids with Mrs. Leo Schoenrock of the Pansies pacing the women with counts of 163 and 426.

Classic League
New London Knapskein Brews dropped two games to Scholz's Sews at the Parish alleys at Waupaca Tuesday night but still remain leaders in the Waupaca county Classic loop. Paced by Keith Prahl with a count of 588 in lines of 214, 175 and 199, the New London quint hit games of 926, 794 and 898 for a total of 2,618 against Waupaca's 934, 537, 860—2,631. Gordon Meiklejohn smashed the pins for a 246 line and 569 total. S. Shambeau smashed 598 for the winners with lines of 195, 187 and 187. H. Schroeder cracked a 295 game.

Burial was in Floral Hill cemetery and bearers were August Matzink, M. H. McDonnell, L. M. Wright, E. C. Oestreich, Victor Thomas and William Sader.

93 Girls Sign Up for Intramural Basketball

New London—Girls Athletic Association will launch intramural basketball at Washington High school Friday with 93 girls taking part, according to Miss Alice Ziemer, girls' instructor. Eight teams have been organized with the following captains: Delores Brault, Jackie Dornbach, Lina Kellogg, Anne Freilinger, Elaine Bork, Dorothy Schultz, Helen Sommers and Marian Wainer.

New Volumes for Children to Be Displayed for Book Week

New London—National Book week Nov. 12 to 18 will be observed by the New London Public library next week with special exhibits in the children's room and many new books for the younger readers are being placed on the shelves, according to Miss Grace Fleischauer, librarian. "Books Around the World" is the theme of book week this year and many attractive new titles are on display.

One of the most charming books designed for young readers is Munro Leaf's "Fair Play." Also for the primary group are "Cock-a-Doodle-Do!" by Berta and Elmer Hader; "The Stuck-Up Prince" by Loris Corcoran; "Susie Marlar" by Lois Lenski; "Going-on-Nine" by Amy Wentworth Stone; "Little Toot" by Harriet Gramatiky; a clever picture book called "Lulu" by Charlotte Steiner; "Phewtus" by Violet Drummond, the story of a stuffed squirrel with a large heart; and "Hoot! Hoot! De-Witt" by Frances Duncombe, the story of a lonely baby owl.

Third, Fourth Graders
For the third and fourth grade group there's a nonsensical book called "With Bertram in Africa" by Paul T. Gilbert, who occasionally writes for Child Life magazine. Books with foreign backgrounds for this age group are "Pot Luck with Lobsters" by Margaret Friskey, a story of France; and "Silk and Satin Lane" by Esther Wood, a Chinese story. "Jan and the Wonderful Mouth-organ" by Leclaire Alger gives a picture of the Slovak people.

For the next age group Carveth Wells has written an excellent travel book "Around the World with Bobby and Betty," with photographic illustrations. John J. Froehner's "Make Way for the Mail" is a fascinating story of the postal service. "The Rug that Went to Mecca" by Yonel Mirza has a Persian background.

Boys will be interested in Lee Wolff's "Let's go Fishing," "Dirk's Dog, Bello" by Meinhardt Dejong is an exciting story of Holland. "The Silver Pawn" by Ann Weil is a Mexican story. All of these books and many others will be found in the children's room of the library during Book week.

The library will be closed all day Saturday in observance of Armistice day and there will be no story hour.

Helble to Talk at Armistice Dinner

Program for American Legion Party Will Include Pageant, Music

New London—H. H. Helble, Appleton, state Americanism chairman of the American Legion and director of the Badger Boys' state camp at Delafield, will be guest speaker at the Armistice Day banquet of the American Legion Norris-Spencer post and auxiliary at the clubhouse at 6:30 Sunday evening.

A program of entertainment will be provided during the course of the dinner and a dance will follow.

Featuring the program will be a pageant depicting America's three wars for democracy, portrayed by high school students under the direction of Miss Mary K. Donohue and Miss Edna Crocker. Other numbers will be given by Duane and Dalton Schoening, a vocal duet by Patricia Egan and Maurice Levine, and a vocal solo by Junior Jagoditch.

The invitation will be given by the Rev. H. P. Rektstad and Mrs. Rektstad will sing "God Bless America." Dr. M. A. Borchardt will be toastmaster. Arranging the program were Dr. M. A. Borchardt, Mrs. Oscar Nemphoff and Mrs. E. G. Jagoditch. Tickets for the banquet went on sale this week under the direction of Mrs. Walter Smith. Mrs. Lenore Wyman and Mrs. Mayme Monahan are in general charge of the dining room and kitchen.

the WORLD of STAMPS

Stamps frequently cause international rows. Since the World War, some nations have even issued stamp maps that included territory claimed by other nations. For example:

Argentina—Out in the Atlantic ocean 250 miles from the lower tip of Argentina's mainland are 100 islands. On most maps they are called the Falkland Islands and described as a British Crown Colony. But to Argentines they are the Malvinas.

In 1933 the Falklands issued a commemorative of the centenary of the islands' occupation by the British. Apparently still irked over this stamp in 1936, the Argentines put out a stamp showing a map of South America. The islands were included as a part of Argentina. In 1937 Argentina revised the map on the stamp by removing lines outlining other nations—but did not alter the shading of the islands, despite British protests.

Only recently there have been reports that Argentina might try to grab the islands, now that Britain is preoccupied with war. Britain granted Ireland dominion status in 1922. The Irish issued a set of map-stamps showing their resentment that Ulster was not included. The map showed the whole island as a part of Eire. Residents and officials of Ulster howled, but Eire was unmoved.

Paraguay vs. Bolivia—These two countries spent 100 years feuding over the almost worthless Chaco jungle, which both claimed. The squabble broke into open warfare in the early 30's. More than 100,000 men were killed.

During this Gran Chaco war both countries issued stamps with maps claiming the jungle. Bolivia came first with a map including the Chaco in its territory. Paraguay retorted with a map-stamp showing the Chaco with the sweeping label, "Chaco Paraguayo." Then Bolivia rebutted with a stamp-map of Bolivia with the Chaco portion labeled "Chaco Boliviano."

The war finally was settled not by stamps nor bullets, but by arbitration. Late last year a commission formed by six neutral countries brought peace to the Chaco by setting a common border which gave three-quarters of the disputed area to Paraguay. Bolivia agreed to the verdict.

Nicaragua—This country helped itself to a big slab of its neighbor, Honduras, when it issued a set of map-stamps in 1937. Several hundred square miles were bitten out of Honduras' southern border area. Honduras complained in vain.

So Honduras refused to accept letters from Nicaragua bearing these stamps. Leaders of the two countries talked of war, but gradually cooled off.

CHRISTMAS SEALS
Philatelists were reminded today to be on the lookout after Nov. 30 for the 1939 Christmas seals which will go in the mails Thanksgiving day. Rockwell Kent, American artist and writer, designed this year's seals. It shows an angel with an arm outstretched against a brilliant blue background. The large, double-barred cross is prominently displayed. To have a complete set of seals, the collector must have 37 different designs.

Maturity Should Determine Child's Readiness for School, Dr. Flory Tells Mothers Club

WHETHER OR NOT a child is ready for the first grade should be determined by his maturity, not by his age, Dr. Charles D. Flory, associate professor of education at Lawrence college, said in a talk entitled "Bone Age and School Progress" before Franklin Mothers club Wednesday afternoon at the school.

Dr. Flory pointed out that years ago a child went to school when the teacher would take him, but now the age limit is set by law. Appleton's age requirement specifies that a child must be 6 years old before Oct. 1 in order to enter the first grade. A child has many ages, he explained, such as life age, chronological, mental and educational age. Dr. Flory showed slides of x-ray pictures of female and male hands taken from infancy through the 17 year old stage showing bone growth and development.

It is possible to push a child ahead but it isn't worth it, the speaker said. The immature learn slowly and soon forget, and pushing children develops bad social habits and work habits, he pointed out. We need to understand the various ages and attempt to adjust experiences to the maturity of the individual. Dr. Flory said, adding that if parents take care of the child, school progress will take care of itself.

Fifty mothers attended the meeting at which Mrs. George Lanier, new president, presided. The club voted to continue to provide milk for undernourished children of the school. The children will be selected by the school nurse.

The following appointments were made for the coming year: Project committee, Mrs. H. C. Crane, chairman; Mrs. L. G. Lurie, sunshine,

Peotter Named New President Of Brotherhood

SYLVESTER Peotter was elected president of Zion Lutheran Brotherhood at a meeting Tuesday night at the parish school building. Arthur Ecker was named secretary, Dallas Janssen was chosen treasurer and Elmer Totzke exchequer.

Dr. E. N. Krueger gave a short talk and showed motion pictures of the New York World's fair to the 45 members present. Two new members were admitted. The Brotherhood will have a Christmas party Dec. 12.

Church school workers and officers of Methodist churches from Neenah, Seymour, Kaukauna and Brillion as well as from First Methodist church, Appleton, will attend a picnic supper and sub district meeting at 5:30 Friday night at the local church. The Rev. George Warren of Seymour Bay will be the speaker. The subject for the "Leadership Training" was Dr. Ira E. Schlegel, general superintendent, will give an inspirational talk.

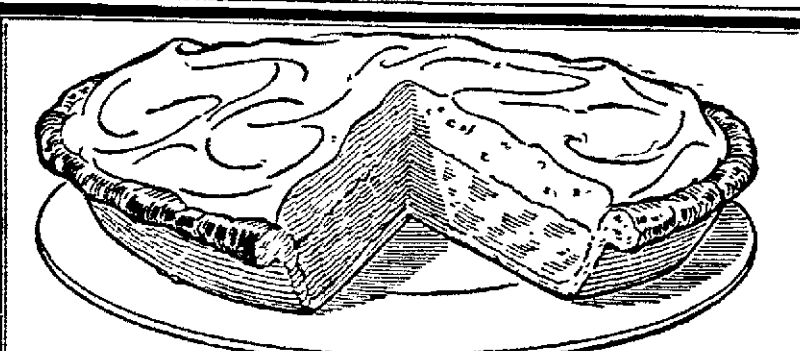

The trip to Europe last summer and something of the background for the present situation abroad were discussed by Louis C. Sakewicz, professor of modern languages at Lawrence college, in an address before Appleton's International association Wednesday noon at the Y. M. C. A. Twelve members were present. The talk was presided by a luncheon.

MARRIED FOR 52 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Glaser, above, 547 N. Superior street, are observing their fifty-second wedding anniversary today. Married Nov. 9, 1887, at Neenah, they have one son, Harold Glaser, Appleton, six grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Except for two years in Cheyenne, Wyo., Mr. and Mrs. Glaser have lived in Appleton all their married life. Mr. Glaser, now retired, was for 20 years an employee of the Conway hotel, serving as a stock man for most of those years. Mrs. Glaser was Mertie Underwood before her marriage. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Appleton Guests at Wedding In North Fond du Lac Church

A number of Appleton people went to North Fond du Lac Wednesday for the wedding of Miss Nathalie Dupies, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Dupies, North Fond du Lac, and Roman Meehl, son of Mrs. Johanna Meehl, route 4, Appleton. The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning in the Church of the Presentation, North Fond du Lac, by the Rev. J. J. Sullivan. Mrs. Joseph Ciske, Appleton, sister of the bridegroom, and Roy Dupies, brother of the bride, attended the couple.

Forty guests were present at the wedding breakfast at Mrs. Groll's coffee shoppe, Fond du Lac. A reception at the home of the bride's mother followed.

Following a honeymoon in northern Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Meehl will be at home after Nov. 15 on route 4, Appleton. The bridegroom is a farmer, and his bride has been employed at the Scolding Locks corporation here.

Appleton guests at the wedding, in addition to the bridegroom's mother, were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Quell, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Meehl, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Meehl and Mrs. Kenneth, Mrs. Charles Becht, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ciske, Miss Millie Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Grover McQue and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burke.

Geiser-Keuler
Miss Loretta Geiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Geiser, Chilton, and Reuben Keuler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keuler, Chilton, were married at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Martin's church at Chilton. The Rev. Clemens Kern, cousin of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony. Miss Viola Geiser, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the Misses Clara Keuler, sister of the bridegroom, and Alice Geiser, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaids. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Edward Keuler, and by Norbert Geiser, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner and reception for 100 guests were held at the home of the bridegroom's parents and supper was served to 200 guests. The event was celebrated by a dance at Keuler's hall in Chilton in the evening. The young couple will reside with the bridegroom's parents.

Holst-Arenz
Miss Merla Holst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Holst, Chilton, and Gilbert Arenz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Arenz, Stockbridge, were united in marriage at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at the rectory of St. Mary church, Chilton. The Rev. H. E. Hunck performed the ceremony. Miss Verna Holst, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Romilda Arenz, sister of the bridegroom, acted as bridesmaid. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Sylvester Arenz, and by Delmar Holst, brother of the bride. A wedding dinner and reception for 40 guests were held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. In the evening a wedding dance was held at Willow Inn. Brant. The young couple will reside on the bride's uncle's farm east of Potter.

WRONG:
Mrs. A. bought in a hurry, dazzled by superficial tricks, forgetting that the purpose of a cleaner is to clean. Now her rugs, draperies and upholstery are getting dingier and dingier — and her cleaner money's wasted.
RIGHT:
Mrs. B. remembered that 85% of the dirt is in rugs — that Hoover Cleaners are famous for having everything other cleaners have and having, besides, a patented Agitator to vibrate rug dirt out. She said: "I'll see the Hoover first." She bought a Hoover — and now her house is shining clean.

Factory Sale of FUR COATS Priced From $49.00 TO $495.00 FRIDAY - SATURDAY ONLY GEENEN'S

Matthew Ladies Aid society will be in charge of the dinner. St. Matthew congregation was organized in 1914 by the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer who became its first resident pastor. During the 25 years of its existence the congregation has been served by the following pastors: the Rev. Mr. Ziesemer, 1914-1915; the Rev. E. Bruns, 1915-1918; the Rev. A. Werner, 1918 to 1920; the Rev. Philipp Froehle, 1920-1938. After the death of the latter, the present pastor, the Rev. Sylvester Johnson, was called.

The present church building which was erected in 1924 has a seating capacity of 325. To make room for the new church building the old chapel was moved to its present location on Lawrence street and converted into a parochial school. This year, with an enrollment of 35 pupils, marks the fifteenth year of the school's existence.

The following have been teachers in St. Matthew school: Miss Ruth Toepel, Arthur Ottenbacher, Armin Albrecht, Herman Fehlauer and Gerhard Roloff, the latter being a teacher at the present time.

The final lecture in a series was given by Dr. Louis C. Baker, professor of modern languages at Lawrence college. Wednesday morning in the little theater of First Methodist church. His subject was "Re-mapping Europe." Circles 2, 3 and 5 were sponsoring groups for the series.

Past Presidents of Auxiliary to Legion Organize Parley

Mrs. Rex Spencer became chairman of the local Past Presidents parley of the American Legion auxiliary at an organization meeting recently with Mrs. A. E. Fisher at Conway hotel. Mrs. Spencer takes that post because she is the oldest past president of the auxiliary in point of service. She has appointed Mrs. C. O. Baetz as her secretary-treasurer. The Past Presidents parley is a state organization but each city with an auxiliary unit has its own chapter. Its purpose is to raise funds for and support the M. Louise Wilson scholarship loan fund, established by the Legion auxiliary in Wisconsin and named after the first state president. The fund assists daughters of ex-service men. Sixty-five Wisconsin girls have received the loan thus far. Members of the parley in Appleton are Mrs. Charles Mory, Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. H. W. Miller, Mrs. A. B. Fisher, Mrs. Floyd Hardacker, Mrs. Stanley Staidl, Mrs. Blanche Jannes, Mrs. C. O. Baetz and Mrs. Carl Schroeder, the latter a past president of the Fond du Lac auxiliary but now a resident of Appleton.

Former Allen Property to Become State Fish Hatchery

Wauwagea—With the purchase Monday of the former Allen farm, in the town of Dayton, Wauwagea county from the Corlett estate, and the recent acquisition of two adjoining tracts of land, the state of Wisconsin now holds title to 350 acres of land in Wauwagea county. Hartman's creek, which is noted as a trout stream, rises in a series of springs on the land just obtained. Also on the land is a small lake formed by numerous other springs. A few years ago, part of this property was used by George Allen as a private hatchery and game preserve. When one of the dams in the creek went out, the state rescued around a million bass, blue gills, perch and crappies, and placed them in the Chain of Lakes, and other lakes in this vicinity. About a year ago, after the conservation commission bought the land of Chris Peterson, Wauwagea, a dam was constructed on the lower waters of Hartman creek through a WPA project.

Commissioner Edward F. Browne, Wauwagea, personally conducted the conservation commission over the Allen property in August, 1939, and conservation experts tested the water and reported favorably as to the temperature and other necessary requirements for the propagation of fish. The conservation commission, with the aid of a WPA project, plans to start immediate improvement of the property and predicts that it will be one of the most important fish hatcheries in Wisconsin.

Membership Drive of Legion Ends Tonight

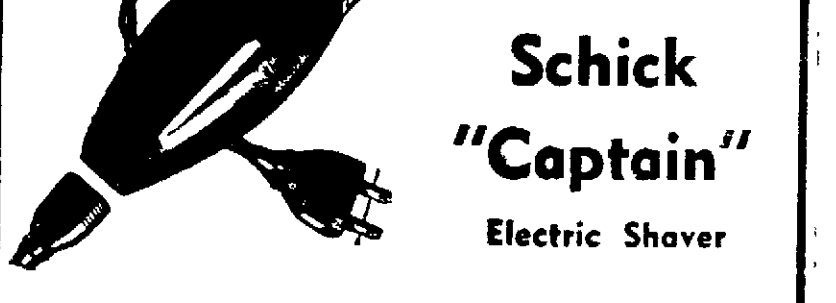

The 3-day membership campaign being waged by the Oney Johnston post of the American Legion will be officially concluded tonight, with tomorrow set aside as the "mopping up" period. The campaign was launched at a meeting of the post Monday evening at the clubhouse, attended by more than 150 members. Edgar P. Schomberg is chairman for the campaign aimed at building up the largest membership in the post's history. Payment of dues by present members, enrolling of new ones, and resigning of men who have allowed their memberships to lapse are objectives.

Injuries Hurt Menasha Jays

Three Regular Linemen Are Battered as They Prep for Neenah

MENASHA — Injuries have hit the Menasha High school football team and will leave the Bluejays in poor condition for the final game of the season Saturday afternoon against the Red Rockets at Neenah, according to Coach N. A. Calder.

Ray Wippich, regular left end through the entire season, injured his shoulder in a game of tag football during the holiday last week. He returned to school for the first time this week on Wednesday and probably will see little action Saturday.

Gene Grode, co-captain and guard, and Harold Funk, another starting lineman, were injured in drill Tuesday. Grode re-injured the shoulder he hurt earlier in the season while Funk received a broken bone in his hand. He may be able to start at a guard position but Grode probably will not.

Robert Nantke, blocking halfback who also had an injured shoulder earlier in the season, has been sick this week and returned to school Wednesday. He also will have little chance for action Saturday.

On the encouraging side, however, Gordon Wasinger, senior end, has recovered from a leg injury and probably will be able to start in place of Wippich. Norman Michie, another senior, will be at the other end.

At the tackles Martell and Woodhead will start while Wolff, co-captain of the team, will start at center. The guards probably will be Funk and DeLong with Franz, Finch and Ohlrogge available for reserve duty if Grode is unable to play.

The Bluejays concluded their heavy work Tuesday and Wednesday started tapering off. The team has shown well on defense this week, a point in which the Jays have been weaker this year than the usual run of Calder-coached teams. In addition the offense looked good at times but also had some bad moments.

Freshmen Bother Marquette Eleven

Yearlings Complete Two Iowa State Passes For Touchdowns

MILWAUKEE — Marquette University gridgers completed their last heavy workout of the week yesterday, the performance bringing some frowns to the brows of the Hilltop mentors.

The squad displayed excellent spirit and snap and looked good except for two lapses against a freshman team using Iowa State relays. Twice the yearlings utilized an Iowa State "screen" pass to carry them 50 yards to touchdowns.

Only six of the regular starters took place in the offensive and defensive scrimmage. Johnny Good-year, sophomore back, remained on the sidelines to guard his injured hand while others of the regulars were given rests from the contact work.

Coach Paddy Driscoll planned tapering off drills for the remainder of the week prior to the game with Iowa State here Saturday. It will be Marquette's last home game of the season.

Women's Bowling Meet Dates are Changed

Iron Mountain, Mich. — The Great Northern Women's Bowling association tournament, scheduled in December, has been postponed to Jan. 19, 20, 21, 26, 27, and 28.

The tournament will be held in the new eight-alley plant being constructed by proprietors of The Recreation, Inc., which recently was destroyed by fire. Recreation officers have assured bowlers the new establishment will be open by the first of the year.

Stars Benched as McMillin Shuffles Indiana Lineup

BLOOMINGTON, IND. — The Bluejays, who team with which Alvin N. (Bo) McMillin threatened the Indiana University football team is a reality today—and on it the white-haired coach pinned hopes for a good comeback to wind up the season.

Only one first-stringer—quarterback Eddie Herbert of Gary—stayed in the backfield. And left halfback "Hurlin" Hal Hursh of Middletown, O., the ace passer who has gained much fame, was one of the three benched.

Last year Indiana lost six of its eight games and finished ninth in the Western conference.

This year it tied one, lost one and then, with the help of Hursh's heaves, won two in a row—over Wisconsin and Illinois.

But last Saturday the Hoosiers slipped again and Ohio State thumped them, 24 to 0.

ON LEHMAN spilled the mapires for a 269 game and George Limpert thumped a 600 series to share individual honors during Western league matches at Elks alleys last night. St. Mary registered top team totals of 932 and 2,704.

California made it three straight over Montana as H. Roeder totaled 573 on games of 207 and 206. A. Hoffman adding 207. G. Marston getting 206 and E. Honkamp shooting 201. High for the losers was Ellenbecker with a 423 total.

St. Mary grand slammed Oregon as Limpert grooved games of 206 and 201 for his 600 count, aided by a game handicap of 50 pins. F. Larson totaled 546 with a 213 game and J. Bushey thumped 208 for the losers.

Washington won the odd game from Stanford as Lehman smacked his 269 game and a 586 series. High for the losers was Len Meyer with a 232 game and 542 series.

Utah picked up two games from Idaho as McKee drilled a 222 game and Goldberg tripled 535. Tops for the losers was Finkel with a 513 series.

25 Boys Seek Posts On Kimberly High School Cage Squad

KIMBERLY — Coach Ray Hamann has had his basketball squad out each afternoon for practice at the high school gym. Fundamentals and general work are included and about 25 candidates are trying for the squad. Coach Hamann will have about ten boys on his first string squad with the same number on the B team.

The Kimberly cagers will open the season on Friday, Nov. 17, on the home floor with Chilton. The following Friday the Papermakers again will be at home with St. John of Little Chute. Dec. 1 Kimberly will play a return game with the Chiltons. Conference play will start Friday evening, Dec. 8, when Coach Hamann's cagers go to Hilbert.

Last year the squad won the Little Nine conference championship and showed in Class B tournament play at Oconto for the first time. It won over Oconto in the opener and although it outplayed Oconto Falls on the following night was defeated. On the last night of the tournament it won over Niagara to take third place honors.

Ernie Ruppel to Play Last Game for Point

Stevens Point — Six Central State Teachers college gridgers will play their final football game for the Pointers at Platteville Saturday.

Seniors on the squad are Captain "Fe" Bohan, Chicago Heights, Illinois, and Henry Warner, Stevens Point, ends; Rodger Bernstein, Brodhead, guard; Ed Slotwinski, Stevens Point, tackle; Jimmy Duecker, Kiel, quarterback, and Ernie Ruppel, Appleton, fullback.

The squad will leave here Friday and drive into Platteville Saturday morning after a stop-over en route Friday night.

Stars Benched as McMillin Shuffles Indiana Lineup

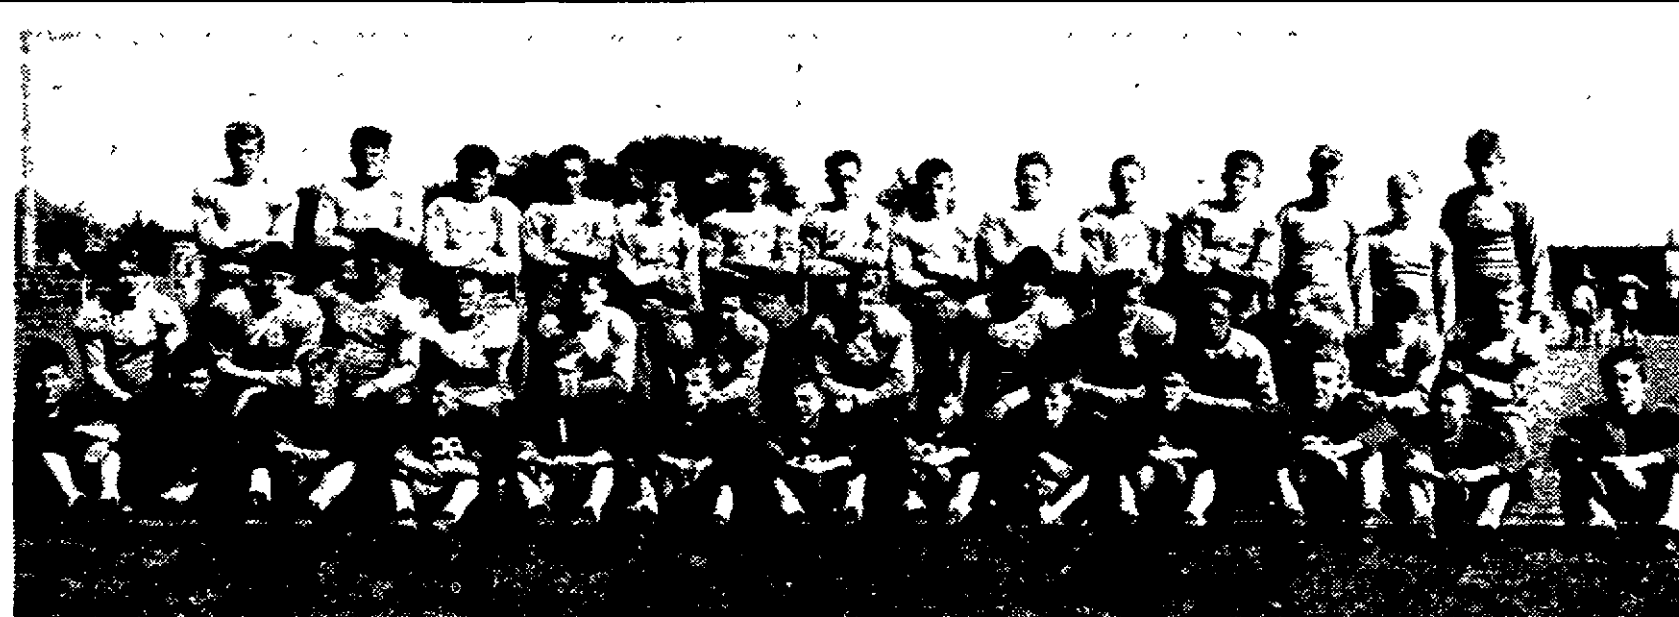

McMillin, whose team will meet Fordham in New York next Saturday, called his players onto the field and told them the starting lineup is wide open.

"There are still eleven hopes on my football team," said the coach and praying college, "and the boys who show up best in our three days of hard practice will play against Fordham."

That was Monday. Yesterday the ax fell.

Hursh went out for James (Mickey) McGuire, 19-year-old sophomore from Kalamazoo, Mich. Joe Toftel gave up his fullback's post to Harry (Tuffy) Brooks of Davton, O., another sophomore. Ray Dumke of St. Joseph, Mich., replaced Cleo Maddox of Kokomo at right halfback.

McMillin watched the new outfit in action and then said he'd seen "the best scrimmage in blocking practice this year."

MENASHA ST. MARY'S REPEATS IN CATHOLIC FOOTBALL CIRCUIT

Menasha St. Mary's football squad, above, won the Fox River Valley Catholic conference title for the third straight year this fall. It defeated St. Joseph, Keshena, 27 to 0, St. Norbert, West De Pere, 6 to 0, and St. John, Little Chute, 38 to 0. The squad was coached by Robert A. Zuercher, having his first season at St. Mary's. Sam Kraus was his assistant. The picture shows, top row, left to right, Elmer Dorzwiler, end; Norbert Giesen, tackle; Ray Huelsbeck, tackle; Len Schipferling, right half; Al Taves, right half; Frank Stanlak, quarter; Bob Rieschl, fullback; William Bayer, center; Don Scovronke, guard; Bob Lalley, tackle; Jerome Schuller, left half; Sylvester Burghardt, guard; Leo Miller, end.

Grid Enemies of High School Days Will Clash Again

De Correvont and Galvin Of Purdue Figured in Big Prep Game

E VANSTON, Ill. — (P) — Bill De Correvont and Johnny Galvin, "enemies" two years ago before the greatest football crowd in Chicago's history, will be on the opposite sides of the scrimmage line again next Saturday at Northwestern's Dyche stadium.

Northwestern and Purdue will come to grips, with De Correvont the sophomore ace of the Wildcat offense and Galvin the first-year star passer and punter for Purdue.

In 1937, with De Correvont the Austin High School sensation and Galvin the big gun in the Leo high attack, they played in a city championship game which jammed more than 100,000 persons in Soldier field.

Austin and De Correvont won that game, and De Correvont's team will enter Saturday's skirmish a slight favorite.

Galvin, whose prep career was overshadowed only by De Correvont's performances, has completed eight of 23 passes for Purdue this season, one completion scoring against Minnesota and another against Michigan State. His kicking has been brilliant.

Purdue was expected to take to the air Saturday and Northwestern has been concentrating on pass defense.

The Wildcats have a lot of respect not only for the pass receiving ability of Dave Rankin but also for the ball tossing talents of this star. Boilemaker flanker Freshmen, equipped with Purdue plays, yesterday tried numerous end-around maneuvers against the Wildcat variety.

Northwestern, after defeats by Oklahoma and Ohio State, trounced Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota in a row and steadily is improving Purdue started off by losing to Notre Dame, tying Minnesota and defeating Michigan State before dropping decisions to Santa Clara and Iowa.

With one exception, Wisconsin's Badgers will be at full strength when they go against Illinois Saturday at Champaign. Tony Gradisnik, veteran back, was confined to the infirmary for a rest and will not make the trip. . . Minnesota's squad, which travels to Ann Arbor and a battle with Michigan Saturday, was cheered by the news that Harold Van every, triple threat back, has recovered from leg bruises and will be ready for the Wolverines. . . The latter drilled on pass defense.

Coach Bo McMillin, whose Indiana Hoosiers face Fordham at New York Saturday, indicated he would start several reserve backs against the Rams, including Mickey McGuire and Ray Dumke at the halves and Tuffy Brooks at fullback. . . Iowa polished its aerial attack in preparation for Notre Dame while the Irish went through a light blocking and tackling drill. . . Notre Dame, with Bill Kerr, Bob Sagga, Tad Harvey and Tom Gallagher apparently back in shape, will be near top strength for Saturday's battle at Iowa City. . . Illinois drilled on pass defense, in anticipation of an overhead attack by Wisconsin. . . Chicago's Maroons looked at Ohio State formations and hoped for the best in Saturday's battle at Chicago with the Western conference leading Buckeyes, who went through a long drill on offense.

Miller High Life grand slammed Stark Hotel to capture the league lead. Mike Ashauer rammed a 233 game and 616 series. B. Eggert slugged a 225 and Pat Ferguson thumped 213 for the winners. High for the losers was J. Gmeinweiser with a 201 game and 579 series.

Adler Brau downed Mellow Brew in two games as Fries whipped a 222 game and his high individual marks, bolstered by A. Knaus with a 222 game and A. Serve with a 208. L. Hanstedt paced the losers with games of 215, 236 and 214 for a 667 series. T. Jansen getting 215 and L. Kugler hitting 212.

Lutz Ice company won the odd game from Century Club as Hy Strutz rattled 214 and 579. D. Strutz getting 211. High for the losers was E. Koerner with a 247 game and 626 series.

O. K. Taxis took two games from Denmark Beers as C. Wagner totaled 589 with games of 231 and 208. F. Johnston cracked 210 and P. Schaefer showed 206 W. Henning counted 207. J. Van Caster bagged 200 and A. Hoppe tripled 347 for the losers.

Chaffin Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

ARNOLD HERBER and Don Hutson of the Green Bay Packers have earned a lot of publicity by their pitching and catching of forward passes. A lot of people would like to know the "inside" of how they turn their tricks and last Monday a Chicago newspaper sponsored their appearance at a meeting of the Chicago Quarterback club. Here's part of the story written by Ed Cochrane of the Hearst papers, the same "Cochrane, Kansas," that you've noticed as referee of several Packer games.

First, we'll give the floor to the man who catches the ball. This is the same gent who went with O. Bama out to the Rose bowl a few years ago, caught Dixie Howell's passes and beat Stanford, 29 to 13. Out in the Golden West Hutson has been a very unpopular gent ever since.

Hutson Tells How

Answering the question, "How do you catch 'em?" he answered: "Well, there are two sides to that question. One is when you catch 'em and one is when you don't. The quarterback calls the play. You know what he supposed to get it. So you start down the field, and there may be several men between you and where the ball is supposed to be when you all get there. You run out and shift a little, then you shift a little again, then you take a little, and then you look up, and sure 'nough, there's the ball. Then all you do is reach up and catch it and keep running, and then you have a touchdown. Simple, isn't it?"

"The other side of the picture is when you're playing those Bears. You take your position on end and look up, and there is a big 230-pounder lookin' right down your throat. You shift a little and

Creighton Back Has Best Yardage

Johnny Knolla Has Gained 887 Yards in Six Games; Harmon Sixth

Seattle — (P) — The American Football Statistical Bureau, which week-by-week compiles individual and team performances of the nation's 112 leading colleges, this week nominates Johnny Knolla of Creighton as the nation's leading ground-gainer.

The bureau has been putting the yardstick on football performances for the last three years, and now is official statistician for the American College Publicity association.

After the bureau poured a load of figures into the maw of a complicated computing machine, Knolla emerged as the nation's number one offensive threat on the basis of the following statistics:

In six games he gained 887 yards via 75 rushing efforts and 52 pass attempts.

Kenny Washington, the U. C. L. A. Negro flash, ranks second with 843 yards in six games. Iowa's Nile Knick, with 769 yards, is fourth, and Tom Harmon, Michigan, sixth, with 742 yards.

Washington has gained more yards net by rushing than any other—560 in 93 tries. Harmon, who was high last week, and Knolla, are deadlocked with 549 yards each.

Ernie Lain of Rice leads in forward pass completions, hitting his receivers 50 times in 122 attempts for 580 yards.

Earl Clark, Texas Christian halfback, and Ken Kavanagh, Louisiana State end, pace the pass snatches with 17 catches apiece.

For the third consecutive week Harry Dunhile, North Carolina, ranks as the country's best punter, with an exceptional 46-yard average for 26 kicks.

Says Herber Greatest

Mr. Hutson then stated: "You can't be a great receiver without a great passer. Give the credit to Herber. He's the greatest passer, especially on long passes, that ever hurled a pigskin, and I've played with Dixie Howell and seen a lot of good chuckers in my time."

Mr. Herber took the floor to answer the question of how he throws those long passes.

"Well, sir," he began, "I take the ball from center, run back, turn around quick and let 'er go. When that ball sails through the air about 40 yards or so down the field, I look up, providing I haven't been knocked down in the meantime, and sure enough, there's Hutson right under it, reaching for the ball and on his way goalward. Of course, you need nine men to keep the opponents away while you're passing."

"You can glimpse the opposition out of the corner of your eye breaking through to get you, and you sidestep a little, and then maybe three of them smother you. But you've tossed that pigskin in the meantime."

Don't Have To Aim

"Do you aim your passes?" I asked.

"You don't have to," he said. "I just throw them as far as I can, and there's usually somebody waiting for them—and that somebody is usually Hutson."

Some one in the audience asked: "What do you do if no receiver is in the open when you try to pass?"

"Well," he said, "in that case you just peel the ball and eat it." He was asked about "spot passes."

"Passes made when you run up to the line and jump up and throw are spot passes," he said. "But not the long ones. We know who is supposed to be under those, and they usually are."

Herber says the longest pass he ever made went 75 yards in the air. That one was in St. Louis recently against the Gunners, and Hutson caught it and dashed over the goal line.

Maybe it wouldn't be a bad idea for the Cubs to sign this pair up as pitcher and catcher. If they can do half as well in baseball as they do in football, they'd be stars of the National league in no time.

Hutson was asked if they were going to play any more in Chicago this year.

"Yeah," he said, "when we play the Eastern winner for the league championship." He may be right. Green Bay is very much in the race.

Gradisnik Lost To Wisconsin

Packers Expect To Bound Back Against Eagles

Battle Philadelphia There Sunday, Brooklyn Following Week

GREEN BAY — The Green Bay Packers squad of 38 players, coaches, officials and trainers left here late Thursday for Philadelphia where on Sunday afternoon the Bays will tackle Bert Bell's Eagles at the Quaker City stadium. The kickoff is at 1 p. m. (C.S.T.).

The Packers arrive in Chicago at 9:40 tonight and a half hour later they will be riding one of the crack limts on the Pennsylvania railroad for Philadelphia. Coach E. L. Lambeau and his hurlings are slated to reach the Quaker City Friday at 4:10 p. m.

While in Philadelphia the Packers will stop at the Malton hotel in the heart of the downtown district at Broad and Locust streets. A workout is scheduled for Saturday morning. Coach Curly Lambeau is pointing the team for its eastern invasion and although the three-point decision gained by the Bears over the Packers at Wrigley field in the "Windy City" last Sunday still smarts the Bay pilot has told the squad to "forget it" and concentrate on the four remaining games which will decide largely whether the four-times National Professional champions will be in the running for the title tilt again this year.

No Wins For Eagles

Although the team suffered plenty of bumps and bruises in its tough battle against the Bears, the squad appeared to be in good condition as all the players showed an earnestness and snappy spirit going through their paces this week for the Eagles' game. After seeing what happened against the Bears, when an almost certain win was turned into defeat, the entire team is displaying a grim determination that "it won't happen again" even though the Eagles are clinging to the bottom rung of the Eastern division ladder with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Eagles have yet to turn in a win this fall and have gained but one tie and lost five.

Monday the Packers will leave Philadelphia for New York City where they will put up at the Hotel New Yorker for the rest of the week as they prepare for the clash on Nov. 19 with the Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets field.

Following the Brooklyn contest, the Packers have two more games abroad. Green Bay plays the Rams in Cleveland on Nov. 25 and a week later, Dec. 3, Lambeau and Company will tackle the Lions in Detroit.

Barn Tavern Breaks Even in Two Matches

Barn Tavern keggers broke even in two recent matches at Barn tavern alleys. The quint lost to Spilker Bakery of Appleton by a margin of 2,514 to 2,420. C. Otto leading the winners with a 532 series and D. Piette getting a 186 game. M. Coenen singled 229 and R. Currie tripled 546 for the losers.

The tavern team defeated Hardwood Products of Neenah by a score of 2,636 to 2,206. Clausen whipped a 533 series for the victors while Stenwey topped the losers with a 496 total.

Offensive Play Is Stress- ed in Wednesday's Workout

MADISON — (P) — Little Tony Gradisnik, the lightest, yet one of the most versatile men on the University of Wisconsin football team, was confined to the infirmary and will not make the trip to Champaign, where the Badgers meet Illinois Saturday.

Gradisnik, who has started three of Wisconsin's five games this season, was injured several weeks ago and his condition has not improved sufficiently, Coach Harry Stuhldreder said.

Once again offensive plays were stressed yesterday. The first string worked long on dummy offense. Their timing was improved and at present is the best of the season. The freshmen turned to the offense later and Wisconsin's regulars stopped their thrusters with small gains.

The first string remained unchanged with Don Farris, sophomore quarterback, still calling signals and Don Kolbusz, who as a sophomore, started his first game two weeks ago against Iowa, was at guard, Bob Eckl, senior tackle, was pushed up to the second team as was Bob Holloway, a guard.

The badger squad, with the exception of Gradisnik, was in perfect physical condition. The open date they had last week gave most of the injured members a needed rest and it also helped the squad's mental attitude.

Wisconsin will take a workout here today and Friday and leave for Chicago late Friday afternoon, where they will spend the night. They will arrive in Champaign Saturday noon.

Injuries Hurt Menasha Jays

Three Regular Linemen Are Battered as They Prep for Neenah

MENASHA—Injuries have hit the Menasha High school football team and will leave the Bluejays in poor condition for the final game of the season Saturday afternoon against the Red Rockets at Neenah, according to Coach N. A. Calder.

Ray Wippich, regular left end through the entire season, injured his shoulder in a game of tag football during the holiday last week. He returned to school for the first time this week on Wednesday and probably will see little action Saturday.

Gene Grode, co-captain and guard, and Harold Funk, another starting lineman, were injured in drill Tuesday. Grode reinjured the shoulder he hurt earlier in the season while Funk received a broken bone in his hand. He may be able to start at a guard position but Grode probably will not.

Robert Nantke, blocking halfback who also at an injured shoulder earlier in the season, has been sick this week and returned to school Wednesday. He also will have little chance for action Saturday.

On the encouraging side, however, Gordon Wasinger, senior end, has recovered from a leg injury and probably will be able to start in place of Wippich. Norman Michie, another senior, will be at the other end.

At the tackles Martell and Woodhead will start while Wolff, co-captain of the team, will start at center. The guards probably will be Funk and DeLong with Franz, Finch and Ohlrogge available for reserve duty if Grode is unable to play.

The Bluejays concluded their heavy work Tuesday and Wednesday started tapering off. The team has shown well on defense this week, a point in which the Jays have been weaker this year than the usual run of Calder-coached teams. In addition the offense looked good at times but also had some bad moments.

Freshmen Bother Marquette Eleven

Yearlings Complete Two Iowa State Passes For Touchdowns

MILWAUKEE—(P)—Marquette University gridders completed their last heavy workout of the week yesterday, the performance bringing some frowns to the brows of the Hilltop mentors.

The squad displayed excellent spirit and snap and looked good except for two lapses against a freshman team using Iowa State relays. Twice the yearlings utilized an Iowa State "screen" pass to carry the 50 yards to touchdowns.

Only six of the regular starters took place in the offensive and defensive scrimmage. Johnny Good-year, sophomore back, remained on the sidelines guard his injured hand while others of the regulars were given rests from the contact work.

Coach Paddy Driscoll planned tapering off drills for the remainder of the week prior to the game with Iowa State here Saturday. It will be Marquette's last home game of the season.

Women's Bowling Meet Dates are Changed

Iron Mountain, Mich.—(P)—The Great Northern Women's Bowling association tournament, scheduled in December, has been postponed to Jan. 19, 20, 21, 26, 27, and 28.

The tournament will be held in the new eight-alley plant being constructed by proprietors of The Recreation, Inc., which recently was destroyed by fire. Recreation officers have assured bowlers the new establishment will be open by the first of the year.

Stars Benched as McMillin Shuffles Indiana Lineup

BLOOMINGTON, IND.—(P)—The shakeup with which Alvin N. (Bo) McMillin threatened his Indiana University football team is a reality today—and on it, the white-haired coach pinned hopes for a good comeback to wind up the season.

Only one first-stringer—quarterback Eddie Herbert of Gary—stayed in the backfield. And left halfback "Hurricane" Hursh of Middletown, O., the ace passer who has gained much fame, was one of the three benched.

Last year Indiana lost six of its eight games and finished ninth in the Western conference.

DON LEHMAN spilled the maples for a 260 game and George Limpert thumped a 600 series to share individual honors during Western league matches at Elks alleys last night. St. Mary registered top team totals of 932 and 2,704.

California made it three straight over Montana as H. Roeder totaled 573 on games of 207 and 206. A. Hoffman adding 207, G. Marston getting 206 and E. Honkamp shooting 201. High for the losers was Elmer Becker with a 423 total.

St. Mary grand slammed Oregon as Limpert grooved games of 206 and 201 for his 600 count, aided by a game handicap of 50 pins. F. Larson totaled 546 with a 213 game and J. Bushey thumped 208 for the losers.

Washington won the odd game from Stanford as Lehman smacked his 269 game and a 588 series. High for the losers was Len Meyer with a 232 game and 542 series.

Utah picked up two games from Idaho as McKee drilled a 222 game and Goldberg tripled 535. Tots for the losers was Finkel with a 513 series.

25 Boys Seek Posts On Kimberly High School Cage Squad

Kimberly—Coach Ray Hamann has had his basketball squad out each afternoon for practice at the high school gym. Fundamentals and general work are included and about 25 candidates are trying for the squad. Coach Hamann will have about ten boys on his first string during the week with the same number on the B team.

The Kimberly cagers will open the season on Friday, Nov. 17, on the home floor with Chilton. The following Friday the Papermakers again will be at home with St. John of Little Chute. Dec. 1 Kimberly high plays a return game with the Chuteers. Conference play will start Friday evening, Dec. 8, when Coach Hamann's cagers go to Hilbert.

Last year the squad won the Little Nine conference championship and showed in Class B tournament play at Oconto for the first time. It won over Oconto in the opener and although it outplayed Oconto Falls on the following night was defeated. On the last night of the tournament it won over Niagara to take third place honors.

Ernie Ruppel to Play Last Game for Point

Stevens Point—(P)—Six Central State Teachers college gridders will play their final football game for the Pointers at Platteville Saturday.

Seniors on the squad are Captain "Fe" Bohan, Chicago Heights, Illinois, and Henry Warner, Stevens Point, ends; Rodger Bernstein, Brodhead, guard; Ed Sliwinski, Stevens Point, tackle; Jimmy Duecker, Kiel, quarterback, and Ernie Ruppel, Appleton, fullback.

The squad will leave here Friday and drive into Platteville Saturday morning after a stop-over en route Friday night.

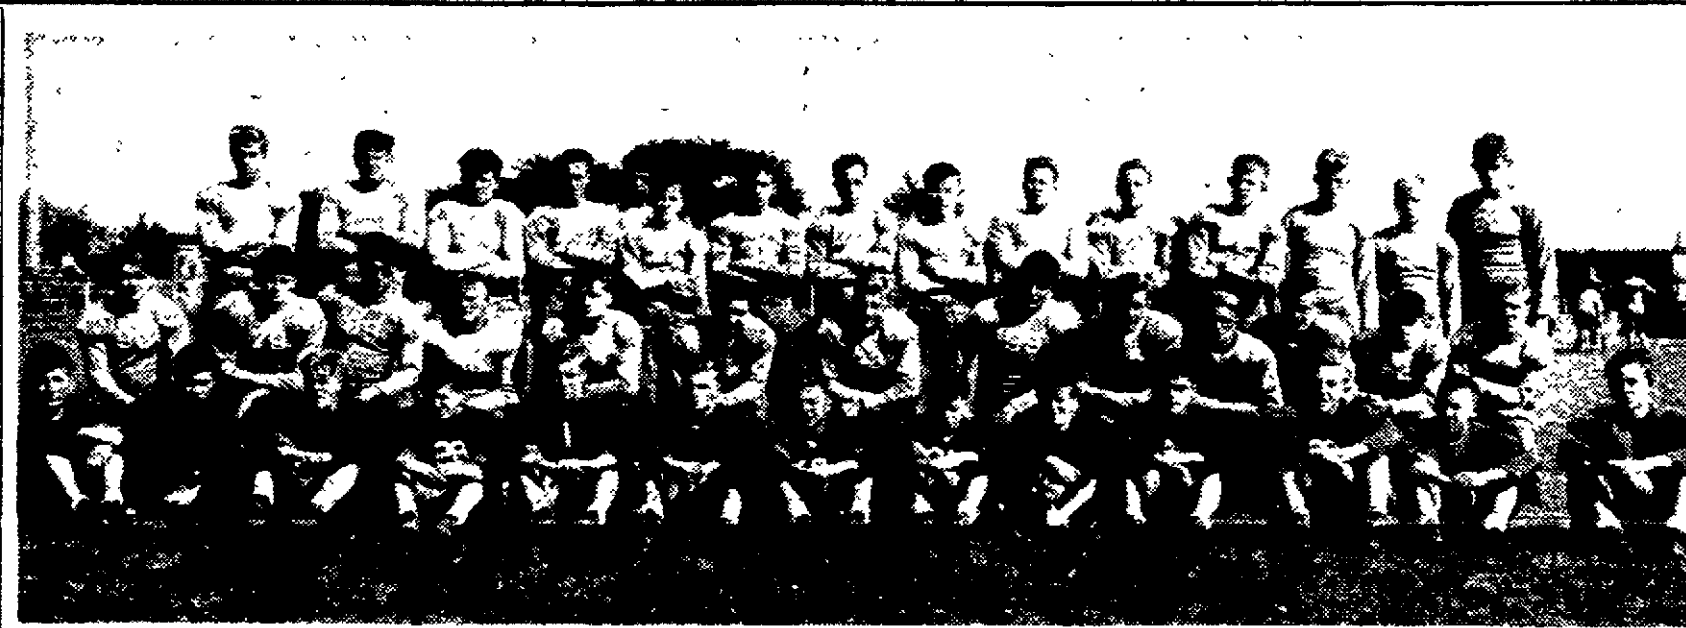

McMillin, whose team will meet Fordham in New York next Saturday, called his players onto the field and told them the starting lineup is wide open.

"There are still eleven places on my football team," said the hoping and praying colonel, "and the boys who show up best in our three days of hard practice will play against Fordham."

That was Monday. Yesterday the ace fell.

MENASHA ST. MARY'S REPEATS IN CATHOLIC FOOTBALL CIRCUIT
Menasha St. Mary's football team, above, won the Fox River Valley Catholic conference title for the third straight year this fall. It defeated St. Joseph, Kenosha, 27 to 0, St. Norbert, West De Pere, 6 to 0, and St. John, Little Chute, 38 to 0. The squad was coached by Robert A. Zuercher, having his first season at St. Mary's. Sam Kraus was his assistant. The picture shows, top row, left to right, Elmer Dorzweiler, end; Norbert Giesen, tackle; Ray Huelsbeck, tackle; Len Schipferling, right half; Al Taves, right half; Frank Staniak, quarter; Bob Rieschl, fullback; William Bayer, center; Don Scovronke, guard; Bob Lalley, tackle; Jerome Schuller, left half; Sylvester Burghardt, guard; Leo Miller, end; Emmet Hoks, right half; and Tom Verbrick, end; second row, left to right, Don Thorne, right half; Norman Griesbach, quarter; Tom Day, end; Wilbur Foth, tackle; Virgil Lingnolski, guard; Carl Rothe, center; Robert Birling, guard; Jerome Lingnolski, tackle; Don Hoks, quarter; Farnham Johnson, end and half; Vernon Coopman, left half; Ed Mott, fullback; William Resch, fullback; first row, left to right, Frank Albert, Jerome Laux, George Enders, William Dorzweiler, Richard Laemmrich, Francis Pakalske, Tom Kolanski, Cyril Bayer, Harold Zimmer, Norbert Bayer, Richard Mayefsky, James Brethauer and Jerome Monarski.

Grid Enemies of High School Days Will Clash Again

De Correvont and Galvin Of Purdue Figured in Big Prep Game

EVANSTON, Ill. — (P)—Bill De Correvont and Johnny Galvin, "enemies" two years ago before the greatest football crowd in Chicago's history, will be on the opposite sides of the scrimmage line again next Saturday at Northwestern's Dyche stadium.

Northwestern and Purdue will come to grips, with De Correvont the sophomore ace of the Wildcat offense and Galvin the first-year star rasser and punter for Purdue.

In 1937, with De Correvont the Austin High school sensation and Galvin the big gun in the Leo high attack, they played in a city championship game which jammed more than 100,000 persons in Soldier field.

Austin and De Correvont's team will enter Saturday's skirmish a slight favorite.

Galvin, whose prep career was overshadowed only by De Correvont's performances, has completed eight of 23 passes for Purdue this season, one completion scoring against Minnesota and another against Michigan State. His kicking has been brilliant.

Purdue was expected to take to the air Saturday and Northwestern has been concentrating on pass defense. The Wildcats have a lot of respect not only for the pass receiving ability of Dave Rankin but also for the ball touting talents of this star. Boiler-maker flanker, Freshmen, equipped with Purdue plays, yesterday tried numerous end-around maneuvers against the Wildcat variety.

Northwestern, after defeats by Oklahoma and Ohio State, trounced Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota in a row and steadily is improving. Purdue started out by losing to Notre Dame, tying Minnesota and defeating Michigan State before dropping decisions to Santa Clara and Iowa.

Gradisnik Out
With one exception, Wisconsin's Badgers will be at full strength when they go against Illinois Saturday at Champaign. Tony Gradisnik, veteran back, was confined to the infirmary for a rest and will not make the trip. . . Minnesota's squad, which travels to Ann Arbor and a battle with Michigan Saturday, was cheered by the news that Harold Van every, triple threat back, has recovered from leg bruises and is ready for the Wolverines. . . The latter drilled on pass defense. . .

Coach Bo McMullin, whose Indiana Hoosiers face Fordham at New York Saturday, indicated he would start several reserve backs against the Rams, including Mickey McGuire and Ray Dumke at the halves and Tuffy Brooks at fullback. . . Iowa polished its aerial attack in preparation for Notre Dame while the Irish went through a light blocking and tackling drill. . . Notre Dame, with Bill Kott, Bob Saggan, Tad Harvey and Tom Gallagher, apparently back in shape, will be near top strength for Saturday's battle at Iowa City. . . Illinois drilled on pass defense, in anticipation of an overhead attack by Wisconsin. . . Chicago's Maroons looked at Ohio State formations and hoped for the best in Saturday's battle in Chicago with the Western conference leading Buckeyes, who went through a long drill on offense.

Chaffin Chatter

Arnold Herber and Don Hutson of the Green Bay Packers have earned a lot of publicity by their pitching and catching of forward passes. A lot of people would like to know the "inside" of how they turn their tricks and last Monday a Chicago newspaper sponsored their appearance at a meeting of the Chicago Quarterback club. Here's part of the story written by Ed Cochran of the Hearst papers, the same "Cochran, Kansas," that you've noticed as referee of several Packer games.

First, we'll give the floor to the man who catches the ball. This is the same gent who went with O'Brien to the Rose bowl a few years ago, caught Dixie Howell's passes and beat Stanford, 29 to 13. Out in the Golden West Hutson has been a very unpopular gent ever since.

Hutson Tells How
Answering the question, "How do you catch 'em?" he answered: "Well, there are two sides to that question. One is when you catch 'em and one is when you don't. The quarterback calls the play. You know you are supposed to get it. So you start down the field, and there may be several men between you and where the ball is supposed to be when you all get there. You run out and shift a little, then you shift a little again, then you fake a little, and then you look up, and, sure 'nough, there's the ball. Then all you do is reach up and catch it and keep running, and then you have a touchdown. Simple, isn't it?"

"The other side of the picture is when you're playing those Bears. You take your position on end and look up, and there is a big 230-pounder lookin' right down your throat. You shift a little and there is another one ready to eat you alive. Then you get by the line—maybe—and you start running and shifting as you run to avoid those big tacklers, but sometimes you can reach up just the same and there is that ball waitin' for you.

"Harry Stuhldreher tells you about tough assignments in football. He'd better add that job of playin' end against those Bears."

Play Is Disputed
Hutson, greatest pass receiver of all time, was asked about the play in Sunday's game when the Bears claimed Mullenbaux was ineligible to catch a pass. On the play, Hutson is supposed to drop a yard back, thus making Mullenbaux eligible—he being, then, on the end of the line. In this case it is necessary for one of the backs to go up on the line, because there must be seven men on it.

The Bears claimed Hutson was not a yard back, and thus Mullenbaux was not eligible for the pass. Both sides claimed they were right. It is, and will be, a much disputed play. Fortunately, it did not cost the Bears a moment later Luckman intercepted a pass and ran to the Packers' 6-yard line.

Hutson was told that Coach Curly Lambeau had said between halves that the former was back a yard and that a back had gone up on the line, thus making the play legal. He was asked his version of it.

"Well," said the former Alabama star, in his southern drawl, "Mr. Lambeau is the man who signs our pay checks, so if he says I was a yard back, I sure was a yard back."

Says Herber Greatest
Mr. Hutson then stated: "You can't be a great receiver without a great passer. Give the credit to Herber. He's the greatest passer, especially on long passes, that ever hurled a pigskin, and I've played with Dixie Howell and seen a lot of good chuckers in my time."

Mr. Herber took the floor to answer the question of how he throws those long passes.

"Well, sir," he began, "I take the ball from center, run back, turn around quick and let 'er go. When that ball sails through the air about 40 yards or so down the field, I look up, providing I haven't been knocked down in the meantime, and sure enough, there's Hutson right under it, reaching for the ball and on his way goalward. Of course, you need nine men to keep the opponents away while you're passing."

"You can glimpse the opposition out of the corner of your eye breaking through to get you, and you sidestep a little, and then maybe three of them smother you. But you've tossed that pigskin in the meantime."

Don't Have To Aim
"Do you aim your passes?" I asked.

"You don't have to," he said. "I just throw them as far as I can, and there's usually somebody waiting for them—and that somebody is usually Hutson."

Some one in the audience asked: "What do you do if no receiver is in the open when you try to pass?"

"Well," he said, "in that case you just peel the ball and eat it." He was asked about "spot passes."

"Passes made when you run up to the line and jump up and throw are spot passes," he said. "But not the long ones. We know who is supposed to be under those, and they usually are."

Herber says the longest pass he ever made went 75 yards in the air. That one was in St. Louis recently against the Gunners, and Hutson caught it and dashed over the goal line.

Creighton Back Has Best Yardage

Johnny Knolla Has Gained 887 Yards in Six Games; Harmon Sixth

Seattle—(P)—The American Football Statistical Bureau, which weekly compiles individual and team performances of the nation's 112 leading colleges, this week nominates Johnny Knolla of Creighton as the nation's leading ground-gainer.

The bureau has been putting the yardstick on football performances for the last three years, and now is official statistician for the American College Publicity association.

After the bureau poured a load of figures into the maw of a complicated computing machine, Knolla emerged as the nation's number one offensive threat on the basis of the following statistics:

In six games he gained 887 yards via 75 rushing efforts and 52 pass attempts.

Kenny Washington, the U. C. L. A. Negro flash, ranks second with 843 yards in six games. Iowa's Nile Kinnick, with 769 yards is fourth, and Tom Harmon, Michigan, sixth, with 742 yards.

Washington has gained more yards net by rushing than any other—560 in 93 tries. Harmon, who was high last week, and Knolla, are deadlocked with 549 yards each.

Ernie Lain of Rice leads in forward pass completions, hitting his receivers 50 times in 122 attempts for 580 yards.

Earl Clark, Texas Christian half-back, and Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana State end, pace the pass snatchers with 17 catches apiece.

For the third consecutive week Harry Dunline, North Carolina, ranks as the country's best punter, with an exceptional 46-yard average for 26 kicks.

Beloit Plans to Stop Vike Forward Passes

Beloit—(P)—Coach Bud Butler is working on pass defense in Beloit college football practice this week in the expectation that Lawrence college will unleash its customary air raid in the schools' annual game at Appleton Saturday.

The game will wind up Beloit's season.

Butler said his backfield was complete with regulars for the first time since the Simpson game, and that the line, with the exception of tackle Reggie French, also was relatively free of injuries.

Barn Tavern Breaks Even in Two Matches

Battle Philadelphia There Sunday, Brooklyn Following Week

GREEN BAY—The Green Bay Packers squad of 38 players, coaches, officials and trainers left here late Thursday for Philadelphia where on Sunday afternoon the Bays will tackle Bert Bell's Eagles at the Quaker City stadium. The kickoff is at 1 p. m. (CST.)

The Packers arrive in Chicago at 9:40 tonight and a half hour later they will be riding one of the crack limiteds on the Pennsylvania railroad for Philadelphia. Coach E. L. Lambeau and his hirelings are slated to reach the Quaker City Friday at 4:10 p. m.

While in Philadelphia the Packers will stop at the Malton hotel in the heart of the downtown district at Broad and Locust streets. A workout is scheduled for Saturday morning. Coach Curly Lambeau is pointing the team for its eastern invasion and although the three-point decision gained by the Bears over the Packers at Wrigley field in the "Windy City" last Sunday still smarts the Bay pilot has told the squad to "forget it" and concentrate on the four remaining games which will decide largely whether the four-times National Professional champions will be in the running for the title tilt again this year.

No Wins For Eagles
Although the team suffered plenty of bumps and bruises in its tough battle against the Bears, the squad appeared to be in good condition as all the players showed an earnestness and snappy spirit going through their paces this week for the Eagles' game. After seeing what happened against the Bears, when an almost certain win was turned into defeat, the entire team is displaying a grim determination that "it won't happen again" even though the Eagles are clinging to the bottom rung of the Eastern division ladder with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Eagles have yet to turn in a win this fall and have gained but one tie and lost five.

Monday the Packers will leave Philadelphia for New York City where they will put up at the Hotel New Yorker for the rest of the week as they prepare for the clash on Nov. 19 with the Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets field.

Following the Brooklyn contest, the Packers have two more games abroad. Green Bay plays the Rams in Cleveland on Nov. 25 and a week later, Dec. 3, Lambeau and Company will tackle the Lions in Detroit.

Offensive Play Is Stressed in Wednesday's Workout

MADISON —(P)— Little Tony Gradisnik, the lightest, yet one of the most versatile men on the University of Wisconsin football team, was confined to the infirmary and will not make the trip to Champaign, where the Badgers meet Illinois Saturday.

Gradisnik, who has started three of Wisconsin's five games this season, was injured several weeks ago and his condition has not improved sufficiently, Coach Harry Stuhldreher said.

Once again offensive plays were stressed yesterday. The first string worked long on dummy offense. Their timing was improved and at present is the best of the season. The freshmen turned to the offense later and Wisconsin's regulars stopped their thrusts with small gains.

The first string remained unchanged with Don Farris, sophomore quarterback, still calling signals and Don Kolbusz, who as a sophomore, started his first game two weeks ago against Iowa, was at guard. Bob Eckl, senior tackle, was pushed up to the second team as was Bob Holloway, a guard.

The badger squad, with the exception of Gradisnik, was in perfect physical condition. The open date they had last week gave most of the injured members a needed rest and it also helped the squad's mental attitude.

Wisconsin will take a workout here today and Friday and leave for Chicago late Friday afternoon, where they will spend the night. They will arrive in Champaign Saturday noon.

INDIVIDUAL Industrial league honors were distributed during the night when Wally Gresens and Roy McCallum each walloped games of 246 and Wally Klein clustered a 672 series. Atlas Printers registered top team totals with a 1,053 game and a 2,953 series.

Pond Sports upset Frederick Barbers in three straight games and went into a first place tie with the latter. Bob Schmidt paced the victors with a 216 game and 565 series. Joe Reinebeau was high for the losers with a 201 single and 566 total.

Chair Factory continued to climb with a 3-game win over Wire Works. Harold Vester tripled 575. M. King grooved 215 and E. Liss topped 210 for the winners while Don Mueller had 198 and 546 for the losers.

Woolen Mills picked up two games from Post Office as Oscar Stadke smacked a 231 game and 560 series. C. DeYoung getting 203 and E. Herb counting 200. Wally Grimmer totaled 552. G. Grimmer pegged 213 and W. Horn thumped 204 for the losers.

With Klein smashing games of 238, 228 and 208 for his topheavies, Atlas Printers won the odd game from Al's Bar. Urban Vandenham pumped a 224 for the winners while McCallum combined a 216 with his high game for a 623 to top the losers. Dimms showing 224 and Schmidt totaling 200.

Montgomery Ward downed Coated Paper in two games as Joe Herman pounded a 538 series with a 190 game. Topp for the losers was Wilbert Schmidt with a 493 series and Ted Fischer with a 193 single.

Gresens rattled his big game and a 622 series and Bob Esselzyng counted 201 as Mellow Brew took two games from Schlafers Supply company. Clarence Below was high for the losers with a 520 series.

Power Company Washers edged Tuttle Press in two games as Ralph Piper totaled 514 with a 213 game and Hilbert Weller singled 209. Chet Merkle mainstayed the losers with a 226 game and 592 series.

HOW TO LOSE GUN CONSCIOUSNESS
ANY inexperienced hunters are much less effective shots because they are almost constantly thinking of their guns which keeps them from concentrating upon the object or target which they desire to hit. It is far better to think of the game or target than to divide the attention.
A skillful hunter will handle his gun correctly without being conscious of it at all in making a shot. He of course sights correctly and pulls the trigger at the correct time, but he forgets the gun.
The beginner or novice who is always aware of the length of his gun, the weight of his gun, and the fact there will be a recoil when the weapon is discharged cannot concentrate in a way to make certain good accuracy.
The best plan for the beginner with any type of firearms is to familiarize himself with their reactions and make them his servants by almost force of habit. The man who has shot a great deal will do the correct thing subconsciously and be able to concentrate better on his objective.
Much poor shooting when the "chips are down" or when game of any sort is the target can be avoided by practicing some sort of target work. The scatter gun shooters will do well to some trap shooting before their season for wild fowl opens. This trap shooting is the same in principle as game shooting and will enable the hunter to learn to handle his gun automatically and with proper speed.
Some individuals have better coordination than others but any individual can improve his shooting immeasurably with practice. By trap shooting for practice the men-

'IRON MAN' READY FOR IRISH

"Iron Man" Mike Enich, 212-pound tackle, has played the full sixty minutes of three University of Iowa football games this fall and is all set for Notre Dame when the teams clash at Iowa City. Enich tore big holes in the Purdue line and blocked two punts that resulted in safeties for Iowa. Enich, a junior, is a revamped backfield man.

Texas Aggies Expecting Sugar Bowl Invitation

Pro Gridders in Fight for Honors

Maniacs of Bears Leading Ground Gainer; Hall Is Best Passer

New York.—(AP)—The race for individual leadership in the National Football league is narrowing down to two-and-three-man battles right down the line, according to official statistics released today.

In ground-gaining Joe Maniaci of the Chicago Bears, with 501 yards, is only nine ahead of teammate Bill Osmanski, pro "freshman" from Holy Cross; Parker Hall, of Cleveland's Rams, leads Ace Parker of the Brooklyn Dodgers in pass completion, but Parker tops Hall in efficiency; Perry Schwartz of Brooklyn has only a four-catch margin over Don Hutson, Green Bay Packers, and Sam Boyd, Pittsburgh Pirates, in pass receiving; Ralph Karcher, Brooklyn veteran, is one field goal ahead of Ward Cuff, New York Giants, and there is only one touchdown separating John Drake of Cleveland from Osmanski in the scoring race.

Two players equalled league records last Sunday. Phil Martinovich, in his second league game for the Detroit Lions, kicked three field goals to tie the record first set by Harry Newman of the Giants in 1934, and tied this season by Cuff and Karcher. Dwight Sloan, also of the Lions, completed 15 passes to share the one-game record with Parker, who did it this year, and Pat Coffey of the Chicago Cardinals, who hit that high in 1937.
Osmanski made one of the week's best gains. While Maniaci was idle, the former Holy Cross star rose from sixth to second in scoring, with 7 touchdowns for 42 points to Drake's 8 and 48, and raised his yardage to 492. Hutson, veteran pass receiver, has jumped from seventh to a tie for second with Boyd at 332 yards gained on the receiving end of aerials, and is tied with Jim Benton of Cleveland with five catches of touchdown passes.

State Skating Group Sets Tourney Date

Milwaukee.—(AP)—The Wisconsin Skating association yesterday set Dec. 31 as the date for its state championships to be held here at Washington park. Grover Petersen, of Milwaukee, was reelected president; Fred Milverstedt, of Madison, was named first vice-president and Merle Steele, of Milwaukee, secretary-treasurer.

tal hazard of live game is avoided and there is no "duck" fever or buck fever.

Practice shooting should be at a reasonable range which is practical. The gunner should not attempt to shoot at clay pigeons at too great a distance or to his bull's eyes that are so far away that an Annie Oakley couldn't score well.
There is considerable difference between shooting at an inanimate object and at live game or birds, but the experience gained in target practice of any sort will do much to relieve any undue unfamiliarity.

Hotel Appleton Barbers won the odd game from Ideal Photos as R. Russe counted 190 and 503. C. Griem and A. Jahnke each had totals of 461 for the losers.

Two games went to Bieritz Music in a match with Lemke Meats. Kranzsch topped the winners with a 483 total while V. DeLong showed 472 for the losing unit.
Reetz Shoes scored a 2-game win over Best Tea Company as E. Reetz tripled 508 and O. Meltz bagged 200. The Rev. Mr. Reuter topped his high game and Gillis hit 523 for the losers.

Davis Cup Netter Is Lowly Reserve On Navy Grid Squad

Annapolis, Md.—(AP)—A big, blonde kid who ranks among the world's best tennis amateurs, is just another muddly face when Navy's varsity eleven starts tramping the "B" squad.
Midshipman Joe Hunt, late of the 1939 Davis cup team, is taking it the hard way, minus limelight, these days as a fourth-string "B" squad halfback.

He picked his thankless, anonymous spot himself, risks to his tennis future notwithstanding, and he's stuck to it along with the other nameless workhorses who catch it plenty when the first-string bears down.

Navy athletic policy frowns on much publicity for "B" squad men and plebes. Coaches say, briefly, that Sophomore Hunt—180 pounds of trained reflexes—has promise in prep school and he never played football, so he's green at the game.

Tulane Points for Alabama Battle

Victory for Green Wave Will Rate It With Tennessee's Vols

New Orleans, La.—(AP)—Coach Jim Crowley of Fordham, about a month ago, called the turn on the Tulane-Alabama clash here Saturday when the Green Wave will endeavor to fend an anticipated 55,000 crowd to end talk that Tennessee is supreme in the south and in the Southeastern conference.

"Alabama's got a better defense. Tulane a better offense, and it should be a whole of a game," Crowley said. "None should know better, for his Rams were defeated 7-6 by Alabama and 7-0 by Tulane."

With an off day last Saturday Coach Lowell (Red) Dawson has for the first time this season been able to point his Greenies for a victory local enthusiasts could use to support their theory that mighty Tennessee could be taken by Tulane if the teams met. They won't meet, however, unless it be in the Sugar Bowl on New York's day.
After a series of "breather" games, Tennessee beat Alabama 21 to 0, Tulane, in its first chance for a comparison with Tennessee, would need to do approximately as well to sustain the claim of many here that the Volunteers never would crack the Tulane powerhouse.

Furthermore, a Tulane victory could set up a claim as co-champions of the Southeastern conference, assuming Tulane later beats Louisiana State University, and Tennessee isn't tripped up by Kentucky.

Neither is defeated or tied in conference, Tennessee has won three, Tulane two, and both have three games to go.

Loberg Autos Defeat Petcka Bar Keglers

Clintonville.—Loberg Autos of Waupaca took three straight games from Petcka's Bar at Ideal alleys here last Tuesday evening in the County Classic circuit. I. Mertz of the Autos took high honors with a 616 series on games of 213, 203 and 200 and tied for high single game with his teammate, R. Holly, who also had a 213 game. Joe Petcka had high single game for his squad with a 198 count and added counts of 191 and 193 for a high 572 series for the losers.

Illinois Schedule For 1940 Is Tough

Champaign, Ill.—(AP)—Illinois, having knocked Michigan's hopes for national gridiron honors into the discard, apparently is ready to "meet all comers."
The student senate committee on athletics has officially approved the 1940 football schedule, made some three years ago and now rated one of the most difficult in the school's history. The Illini will open against Bradley Oct. 5 and play these teams on successive Saturdays: Southern California here; Michigan away; Notre Dame here; Wisconsin away; Northwestern away; Ohio State here and Iowa away.

St. John High to Play Menominees

Meets St. Joseph Sunday
At Keshena in Home-coming Feature

Keshena.—Rather elaborate plans have been completed by the faculty and the athletic association of St. Joseph Menominee Indian High school, to stage the first homecoming, an all-day event, on Nov. 12. The usual preliminaries, consisting of a parade and snake dance and culminating with a huge bonfire on the campus, are in order. The day's festivities will open with a solemn high mass in St. Michaels church, the celebrant being the Reverend Father Engelhart, O.F.M., pastor and director of the Indian school. At noon a luncheon will be served the visitors, followed by a football game at 2:30 in which Coach Ladd's Indians will try their skill against St. John High school of Little Chute.

While the Menominees have had a losing season, it is predicted both by the coach and those who have witnessed the last few games, that the victory will go to Keshena.

Following the game both teams will be feted at a banquet at which the Most Reverend Paul P. Rhode, D.D., will award the letters and numbers for the football season.

A score of clergy from the Shawano Diocese are expected to be in attendance.

The alumni dance will be the feature of the evening in the gymnasium at the government school in Keshena. Coach Ladd will announce his basketball schedule at this affair.

St. Joseph high is a complete four year school and is the youngest in the schools of the Catholic conference.

Junior Ski Club Will Have Membership Drive

Appleton Junior Ski club, recently organized, will hold a membership drive it was decided at a meeting of the group last evening at the Y. M. C. A. The group also decided to name a vice president at its next meeting on Nov. 22 at the Y. Several persons from Kaukauna attended last night's meeting.
The club has adopted a constitution and by-laws and efforts will be made to secure a sound movie on skiing and construction of a slide.

Plans for the club's ski slide and a toboggan slide are complete and as soon as official approval is given will be started. The slide will be at Pierce park.

PIRATES SIGN SCOUT

Pittsburgh.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates have signed Fred F. (King) Lear of New Dorp, Staten Island, N. Y., as scout, completing the scouting staff. Lear was a former infielder for the New York Giants, Chicago Cubs, Toronto, Milwaukee, San Antonio, and other clubs.

Kimberly A. A. Cagers Work At Club; May Join League

KIMBERLY — Kimberly AA cagers may join the newly organized Wisconsin-Michigan basketball league this season. At a recent meeting of the officials the matter was discussed but tabled for the time being.

Buck LeMay, captain of the team, had the squad out Tuesday evening on the club gym floor and will have another workout Thursday evening. The A's are looking for scrimmage games. Interested teams can phone the clubhouse, 4672-R, for arrangements.

Drek Van Dyke and Elmer Vanden Boogaard of high school fame and Ray Hamann, high school coach, worked out with the team Tuesday evening and probably will show this year. The team will be decked out with new uniforms.

The Wisconsin-Michigan league expects to open its season about Dec. 1 and close on March 1. Wisconsin teams will include Elm Tree

Ned Demming Lost To Carroll Eleven

Waukesha.—With Ned Demming, New London halfback, definitely out of the St. Norbert's game Saturday with an injured shoulder, Carroll will depend more on passing. Coach John Breen indicated Wednesday afternoon in a short practice. Demming has been the spearhead of the running attack all season.

A short time was spent on pass defense and signals. The passers, Louis Beach and Billy McDonald, looked good, but defense against St. Norbert aerial plays was ragged. There was no scrimmage because Breen is afraid of further injuries.

John McGrath, a De Pere senior end, will be captain Saturday, Breen announced. Carroll freshmen will meet the Lake Forest yearlings here Friday afternoon.

CHAMPS LEAD LOOP

The Champs defeated the Giants 15 to 13 in the noon hour volleyball league Tuesday at Appleton High school to take the loop lead. The Champs have won four games while the Giants won three and lost one game.

St. Joseph high is a complete four year school and is the youngest in the schools of the Catholic conference.

Chicago Bookies Continue But Their Lot Isn't Easy

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO — (P) — As long as the horses are running the bookmakers will book them. That appeared to be the general attitude today of nearly a thousand Chicago bookmakers as they faced loss of direct wire service for the first time in 40 years. The Illinois Bell Telephone Company had arranged to cut off their service at noon in compliance with a request from United States District Attorney William J. Campbell, who is prosecuting M. L. Annenberg, owner of the Nationwide News Service, for alleged income tax evasion.

Nationwide serves the entire country with horse racing information.

Chicago reputedly is the biggest betting center in the country with an estimated $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 being wagered on the "gee-gees" daily.

The bookmakers plan to meet the new situation by taking wagers as usual, but will accept no bets later than two or three minutes before the scheduled post time of the race. Before they pay off, however, they will wait for the official "off-time" of the race, checking it with the time the wagers were made so as to reduce the chances of any better "cheating" on them.

Nationwide News will continue to disseminate its racing information as usual by telephone but it will not be relayed by private telephone hookup to all betting establishments simultaneously. The handbook operators plan to station runners at the nationwide headquarters to obtain race information as it comes in by telephone and then telephone it to the books from public phones.

It was the general impression that the amount wagered daily in Chicago probably would be cut in half.

Begin Cage Work At Clintonville

Graduation Causes Five Vacancies on Truck-
er First Team

Clintonville — With the football season climaxed last Saturday in a stirring 7 to 6 victory over Neenah, Clintonville athletic minded are turning their thoughts to the coming basketball season. Coach Arthur E. Johnson this week called out his cage prospects and at the present time has about 25 boys selected and within a week the squad will be cut to 20. About 70 boys tried out for the 1939-40 edition and the remaining enthusiasts will be placed on intra-mural teams which will swing into action shortly.

The biggest problem Coach Johnson will have to face this year is filling vacancies caused by graduation of five of last year's first string. Most notable among the losses were Jack Martin, diminutive guard, and Cezie Goerlinger, 4-year veteran who was the backbone of last season's squad.

This year's schedule will include several non-conference games the first of which is scheduled for 8 o'clock Friday evening with Shiocton High school on the Clinton floor, the second squads clashing at 7. Coach Johnson plans on using most of the boys out for the squad and the game will give him some idea of this season's chances in the Northwestern Wisconsin conference, Western division. Five lettermen are returning this season and the rest of the first team will be composed of boys who have come up from the second squad of last year.

The five returning boys include Jim Billmeyer, last year's captain, Herby Huffman, Art Zemske, Lyle Roloff and Bent Greb. Some of the other boys who are fighting for a place on the first squad are Jim Brecht, Ray Mech, Will Sasse, Jim Smith, Cal Haase, and Gib Roepke.

This week's practice has consisted of fundamentals with a little scrimmaging thrown in for good measure. The starting lineup which will face Shiocton Friday evening has not as yet been announced but it is possible that Coach Johnson will start his five returning letter winners with Jim Billmeyer and Herby Huffman at forwards, Bent Greb and Art Zemske at guards, and Lyle Roloff at center.

Jimmy Dykes Hopes to Play Few More Times

Chicago — (P) — Jimmy Dykes' legs say "no" but his heart still says "yes."

The 42-year-old Chicago White Sox manager, in announcing the 1940 reserve list of 39 players for his club, disclosed he is remaining on the active list for next season, even though it is unlikely he will get into more than one or two games. The one-time star third baseman for the Philadelphia Athletics played in two or three games last summer.

While his legs no longer will stand the strain of constant play, Dykes still can throw with the best of them, his great arm remaining one of baseball's mysteries.

Prepare for War To Stay Out of It

Of St. John Military Academy

Oconomowoc — (P) — Col. Roy F. Farrand, president of St. John's Military Academy, declared last night that "one of the surest means of keeping out of this present European mess may be to proceed exactly as if we expected to be involved tomorrow."

Addressing the chamber of commerce, Col. Farrand suggested two steps to keep America out of war. "The first is to avoid foreign entanglements," he said. "And the second necessary step is that, in the words of Washington, 'We must be at all times ready for war.' Neither Germany nor Italy nor Japan has thus far invaded any nation that was not weaker than themselves."

"But being ready for war implies far more than merely the assembling of man power and material. It means also what I have sometimes called spiritual preparedness."

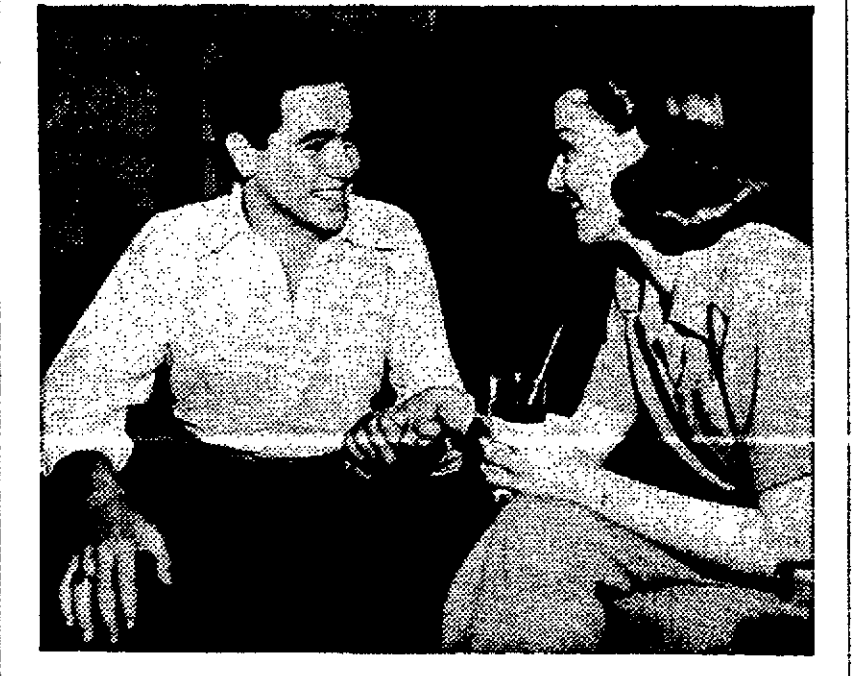

We must have legitimate and legal means of ridding our country of the growing crop of bums and strutting little fuchers. We must legitimately eliminate those foreign elements which give allegiance to the red flag."

Sign Missionary society and friends from this city went to Maroon Wednesday afternoon to attend the lecture by Miss Edna Hutchins, formerly of Milwaukee, who has spent many years as a missionary in India. Miss Hutchins was a supply pastor at the Marion Methodist church before entering the missionary work nearly twenty years ago. The Clintonville group included the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Wiese, Mesdames S. J. Churchill, Henry Anthes, R. W. Mossholder, James Smiley, A. B. Mayhew, John Depson, Sr., Harry Isaacson, John Meinhardt, S. J. Tilleson, S. H. Sanford, Paul Wirth, Elmer Quall and Julia Tilleson.

The S. O. E. club will sponsor a card party at the Masonic temple Friday afternoon, Nov. 10. Each member of the club may invite a guest. The hostess committee includes Mrs. B. C. Donley, Mrs. H. V. Larson, Mrs. G. H. Billings and Mrs. J. R. Shannon.

Hollywood — I've always argued that contract stars, as long as they are accepting big weekly checks, should also accept their employers' judgment without squawks. But after seeing Robert Taylor's recent pictures—climaxing by "Remember"—I'm willing to make an exception in his case. He has a right to protest. Personally, I would not blame him if he ran amuck through the plush-lined halls of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, intent on homicide. (Perhaps a crueler revenge would be to force the executives responsible to sit through repeated screenings of Bob's late films.)

Taylor is being dragged down by poor roles. A few more lemons and he may be too far gone for cure. Under the circumstances, he is faced with a very simple choice. On the one hand, he can be a "good boy," accept his mishandling as something regrettable but compensated for by his multi-thousand-dollar-a-week salary, and hope for a miracle. On the other, he can take a militant stand, warn the studio to expect war unless he gets better pictures, and then stick by his guns.

I would advise him not to give too much thought to his big salary in deciding which course he's going to take. Unless his parts change for the better—and quickly—there will be no salary to consider. Film companies never seem to lack a ruse for getting rid of players who have become box-office deadwood, even though the studios themselves are to blame.

The fact that Taylor was tremendously popular two years ago indicates that he can be tremendously popular again. But "time's a-

After you've found those, we'll take up the tougher needs.

2 Lettermen Will Return to Neenah Basketball Team

Jorgensen Faces Necessity Of Developing New Cage Squad

Neenah—Coach Ole Jorgensen faces the necessity of developing practically a new Neenah High school basketball team as drills get underway for the opening of the 1939-40 season next month.

The Neenah mentor has been working out with a squad of 35 players this week, and from the squad, he will select 15 next week. They will be joined by the football players for the grid season closes Saturday afternoon with the annual Neenah and Menasha football game.

Only two lettermen return to the squad this season. They are Crutain Harland Hesselman and Buxton Kettering. Kettering is a forward while Hesselman, the tallest man on the squad, will be converted from a guard to the center.

U. of W. Professor To Speak at Neenah Armistice Program

Neenah — Dr. Paul Sheats of the University of Wisconsin will speak at the Neenah High school Armistice day program at 10:50 Friday morning in the auditorium.

The observance will open with presentation of the colors, "Star Spangled Banner" by the band under the direction of Lester Maus, salute to the flag and taps.

A reading, "America," a Pulitzer prize editorial, will be given by June Wolthuis, and the glee club, under the direction of Lester Loehr, will sing "Our America" and "The Shepherd's Song."

Roy Matzdorf will introduce Dr. Sheats. The band will play patriotic numbers while Lauralee Ward and the chorus will sing "God Bless America" with George Wilcox at the piano. The student body also will sing.

John Kuether, commander of the Junior U. S. Marine Corps American Legion, will attend the program. Ivan Williams has charge.

Poynette Pastor To be Speaker for Armistice Dinner

Neenah Legion Auxiliary To Hold Annual Banquet and Dance

Neenah — The Rev. Arthur Hill Poynette, will be the speaker at the Armistice day dinner sponsored by the James P. Hawley post, American Legion, and auxiliary at 6:30 Saturday evening at the Trinity Lutheran school hall.

The Rev. B. J. Suther, pastor of Our Saviour's Lutheran church, Fond du Lac, who was scheduled to talk at the banquet, was unable to keep the appointment.

The dinner will be followed by a dance at the S. A. Cook Armory at 9 o'clock. Fred Nixon will be the toastmaster at the dinner, and a local group of musicians, the Star Makers, will furnish the music during the banquet. A Hilbert orchestra will furnish the music at the dance.

The auxiliary committee, which will be in charge of the Armistice day observance, is composed of Mrs. Leo Madison, chairman, Mrs. John Lisk, Mrs. Ray Vanderwalke, Mrs. Kai Schubart, Mrs. Ed Jape and Mrs. Robert Wood, while the post committee is composed of Emmett Wood, chairman, Al Cummings, Herbert Dorow, Fred Bentzen, Jack Meyer, John Kuether, John Christian, Tom Kurtz, Ray Vanderwalke, Willard Gore and Dr. R. C. Lowe.

More than 150 former service men and their families, members of the auxiliary and their husbands are expected to attend the dinner and more are expected at the dance. The dinner will be served by the Mothers and Daughters circle of the Trinity Lutheran church. Because of the anticipated large attendance, Mr. Wood requested today that all those planning to attend the dinner turn in their cards.

Complete Plans For Menasha Red Cross Campaign

Booster Meeting Scheduled for Workers at Church Tonight

Menasha — Final plans for the annual roll call drive of the Menasha chapter of the American Red cross are being completed. A booster meeting will be held at 8:30 tonight at the First Congregational church for all leaders, ward captains and workers.

Red Cross posters have been placed in display windows of the Menasha business district this week by Boy Scouts under the direction of Mrs. Mae Belle Collipp. Several commercial trucks also are carrying the Red Cross banners.

The Red Cross flag will fly with the United States flag in the triangle Saturday and through the roll call period which ends Thanksgiving day. Saturday morning all dairies in the Twin Cities will place Red Cross collars on all milk bottles distributed in the two communities.

Several special Red Cross window displays will be placed in the business district this week. Stores which will have special windows include Menasha Furniture store, Voelkers, Patzels, Bachs, A. and P. store, Kroger's, and the Grove building. Mrs. Russell Anderson will have charge of window arrangements.

Red Cross Films
The Red Cross film, "Footsteps," and the Red Cross trailer starring Norma Shearer in "Let's Carry On" will be shown at the Brin theater during the drive. The national Red Cross roll call will be opened with a radio program at 9:30 Saturday night over the three major networks. Talks by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Norman H. Davis, national Red Cross chairman, will highlight the program, which will include 17 stars of radio, screen and opera. Brief appeals will be made on more than 80 nation-wide programs during the drive in an attempt to create support for the greatest drive in the last 20 years.

Supply envelopes for distribution to the workers were prepared by the ward captains this week at the home of Mrs. A. J. Hoffensperger, co-chairman of the drive with Mrs. Ira Catlin. Mrs. George Sine has been added to the volunteer workers in the town of Menasha and Mrs. Kenneth Carriek will assist with the drive in the Second ward.

Appleton Man Talks At DeMolay Meeting

Menasha — Winnebago chapter, Order of DeMolay, observed Patriot's day, one of the obligatory days of the order, Wednesday night at the Menasha Masonic lodge rooms. Karl Haugen of Appleton gave a lecture on life in Labrador and Nova Scotia and showed motion pictures of those regions.

In his talk, the traveler pointed out the poverty of those countries and the poor living conditions. If the war gets any worse it will affect those people drastically for it will cut off their only source of trade, the speaker said. Haugen also related many of the experiences he had in his travels last summer.

The meeting of Winnebago chapter next Wednesday night will be at the Neenah Masonic temple. Business to be considered will be arrangement of a social program.

Neenah Lions Club to Sponsor Benefit Dance

Neenah — The Neenah Lions club will stage a benefit dance at 8:30 Tuesday night, Nov. 14, at the Valley Gardens, it was decided at a noon meeting Tuesday at the Valley Inn.

Entire proceeds from the dance will be used for the club's annual children's Christmas party and the milk fund. Floyd Bricknell is in charge of the dance.

MODEST MAIDENS

Pythian Sisters Will Hold Friendship Night Program

Neenah—Valley Temple, Pythian Sisters, will hold its Friendship Night program at 7:30 Friday evening in Castle hall. Temples from Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Waupaca, Waupun and Manitowoc will be represented. Candidates will be initiated with officers from visiting temples exemplifying the initiatory work. A social hour and buffet supper will follow. Mrs. George Sherman is chairman of the arrangements committee.

Neenah grade and high school faculty members will be entertained at a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Neenah Public library by the library staff of which Miss May Hart is director. The tea will be in observance of the formal showing of a group of water colors by Carl Christensen, Neenah vocational school director, and of National Book Week Nov. 12-18. Mr. Christensen's art work will be exhibited for several weeks in the club room of the library.

Two School Bands to Play for Armistice Program at Menasha

Menasha—Both the Menasha High school and the St. Mary High school bands will play at the annual observance of Armistice day sponsored by Henry J. Lenz post of the American Legion. The program will be at 2:15 Friday afternoon at the St. Mary's school auditorium.

The speaker for the program will be the Rev. Anselm Keefe, O. Praem, dean of St. Norbert college at De Pere. Hugh Geibel, commander of Henry J. Lenz post, will have charge of the program which has been arranged by C. A. Loescher, past commander of the post.

Students of both Menasha and St. Mary High schools will be dismissed from classes Friday afternoon to attend the program.

The annual Armistice day banquet of Henry J. Lenz post will be at 8:30 Saturday night at St. Patrick's school hall with the Rev. H. E. Mansfield of Allentown as the speaker. Waldo Friedland will act as toastmaster. The annual dance at Elks hall will start at 8:30.

Neenah Teacher Gives Report on Convention

Neenah—Marvin Olsen, delegate to the annual Wisconsin Education association convention last week at Milwaukee and president of the Neenah Teachers association, reported at a teachers meeting Wednesday at Neenah High school that delegates decided to acquaint Wisconsin people on the purpose of the teachers tenure law.

Fundamentally, the purpose of the law, Olsen reported, is to give teachers the right to know why they are discharged when they lose their jobs. The law makes a teacher's position more secure and makes for better teaching.

Trends in education in the different fields were discussed, and it was reported that the present trends seem to be toward conservatism and away from the progressive methods.

A referendum on the tenure law will be held in the spring.

Twin City Mayors to Take Part in Ceremony

Neenah — Mayors Edwin A. Kalfahs, Neenah, and William H. Jensen, Menasha, will take part in a ceremony preceding the annual Neenah-Menasha football game Saturday afternoon at the Neenah High school athletic field.

The ceremony will get underway at 2 o'clock with the Neenah and Menasha bands participating in a flag raising ritual. The James P. Hawley post, American Legion, color guard will present the colors, and Mayor Kalfahs will give a short address of welcome with Mayor Jensen giving the response.

ACTRESS DIES
Philadelphia—(P)—Anna Bates, who played many roles on the stage, died yesterday after a year's illness. She would have been 70 tomorrow. Miss Bates was a native of Massville, Ky. Her last stage appearance was as Mammy Lou in "My Maryland" in 1927.

Menasha Woman Is Chosen President Of Twin City VNA

Mrs. Chester Shepard Succeeds Mrs. George Banta, Jr., as Head

Neenah—Mrs. Chester Shepard, Menasha, was named president of the Twin City Visiting Nurse association at the Wednesday meeting in the Neenah-Menasha Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Shepard succeeds Mrs. George Banta, Jr., who was president for three years. Mrs. F. E. Sensenbrenner was chosen first vice president and Mrs. Donald Turner was elected second vice president. Other officers of the association are elected on alternate years and their terms are not completed. Mrs. I. J. Stafford is secretary and Mrs. D. L. Kimberly is treasurer.

Miss Lydia Bourassa, staff supervisor, reported a total of 697 calls during October, a lower number than usual due to the illness of one of the nurses. The average daily calls were 8.13. The last few weeks have been comparatively free from contagion, Miss Bourassa reported.

Mrs. Donald Turner reported 21 children attended the last child health center. Another center will be held Tuesday, Nov. 14. Mrs. K. B. Mory reported nine dental clinics in Neenah and Menasha during October.

The educational committee reported a tea given for board members, auxiliary members and the nurses Monday at the home of Mrs. D. L. Kimberly, E. Wisconsin avenue. Mrs. W. Haupp, director of nursing service for a national insurance company, was the speaker. Miss McClellan, state advisory service member, visited the VNA offices last week.

Neenah — Plans for a children's Christmas party will be made at a meeting of the Fellowship club of the First Fundamental church at 7:45 Friday evening at the church. A guest speaker will be secured for the meeting. The Christmas party will be open to all children of the church. The time and place will be set at Friday's meeting.

Woman's Relief Corps will Entertain at Public Card and Came Party Wednesday Evening, Nov. 15

S. A. Cook, auxiliary Mrs. Max Radtke and Mrs. Lucille Radtke will be co-chairmen. Mrs. Ralph Suess will be chairman of games. Mrs. Leo Cyrinus will be chairman of cards and Mrs. Conrad Peterson will be luncheon chairman. Games will begin at 7:30 and cards at 8 o'clock.

GANGSTERS DISPOSE OF CHICAGO TRACK OPERATOR

A man identified by police as Edward J. O'Hare, horse and dog race track operator, was killed by a fusillade of shots as he drove along a southwest Chicago boulevard. Police said the shots were fired from one of three cars which had been trailing him for several blocks. Apparently realizing he was being trailed, O'Hare tried to turn a corner at too great a speed and crashed into a lamppost. Wreckage of the auto is shown here.

Neenah Jace Head Tells BPW About Citizenship Program

Neenah — Bunds and similar groups have gained great headway in the United States during the last several years while American people have ignored them in self-satisfied contentment, declared Elmer Radtke, president of the Neenah Jace as he explained to members of the Twin City Business and Professional Women's club Wednesday evening at the Valley Inn the citizenship plan in which Neenah and Winnebago county will participate this winter and spring in order to interest young voters in the United States form of government and its privileges.

Mr. Radtke, who is a member of the local executive committee planning the citizenship day program, originated in Manitowoc county last year, told the club members that a survey of the city will be made to obtain the names of all young people who will be 21 years of age between May, 1939 and May, 1940. These young people will attend forum sessions on local and county as well as state and national government in their respective wards. A man and a woman from each ward will act as forum leaders. The leaders will attend institute classes in Oshkosh Nov. 14, Nov. 28, Dec. 12 and Jan. 9 to prepare for the work of conducting forums.

Recognition Ceremony
The forums, which will be held from three to twelve weeks, will culminate with a recognition ceremony at Oshkosh the third Sunday in May. Winnebago county young people who attend this ceremony will be given certificates. It is probable that a parade will be held at the conclusion of the forums. Each ward class would build a float for the parade.

H. P. Buck Witness In Anti-Trust Suit

Former Neenah Man Is Called to Refute Government Witness

South Bend, Ind. —(P)—Defense lawyers continued today to offer testimony intended to refute government evidence in the federal trial of the general motors anti-trust case here.

The big automobile corporation, three affiliates and 17 officials are accused of conspiring to force dealers to finance installment sales through factory-controlled credit companies.

Yesterday both Henry G. Krell of Minneapolis, Buck zone manager, and H. P. Buck of Duluth, Minn., formerly of Neenah, Buck district manager, denied statements W. A. McDonald of Duluth, government witness, had attributed to them.

McDonald had testified the two men told him he should finance Buick time sales through the General Motors Acceptance Corporation but had added they said Buick did not "put pressure on dealers" as did Pontiac and Chevrolet.

Both insisted to the jury yesterday they never said such things.

Russell Leshar of Minneapolis, Oldsmobile zone manager, denied taking part in a conversation which Fred G. Berger of St. Joseph, Mo., had described in testimony for the government. Leshar is a defendant.

Neenah Thespians to Stage 3-Act Comedy

Neenah—Rehearsals on the first act and the first scene of the second act of the Neenah High school Thespian society's 3-act comedy, "Life Begins at Sixteen," by Hilda Manning, have been completed, according to Miss Ruth Chamison, director.

The play will be presented in the auditorium Tuesday evening, Nov. 28. The cast is composed of 15 players, including six seniors, four juniors and five freshmen. Only four have had experience.

Menasha Rotarians to Attend Grid Banquet

Menasha—Members of the Menasha Rotary club will attend the annual Rotary football banquet for senior players on the three Twin City high school teams at the Valley Inn at Neenah tonight. Because of the banquet, no meeting of the Menasha Rotary club was held Wednesday noon.

Twin City Births

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Greenwood, 514 Washington avenue, Neenah, Wednesday afternoon at Theda Clark hospital.

Bear Creek High Planning Comedy

'Sunbonnet Jane of Sycamore Lane' to be Presented Nov. 28

Bear Creek — Bear Creek High school has announced that Wilbur Braun's comedy, "Sunbonnet Jane of Sycamore Lane" will be presented at the high school gymnasium on the evening of Nov. 28.

The following cast has been selected: Jane Jasper—Marion Flanagan; Miranda Jasper—Jean Long; Grace Jasper—Virginia Dempsey; Olive Dinkley—Lucille Moriarty; Nola Miller—Valda Stoehr; Crystal Cluett—Sally Hurley; Schuyler Pell—Donald Reinke; Tony Simpkins—Gerald Lorge; Jason Gouch—Dan Flannery; Douglas Smith—David Flanagan. Mar on Marsh—Marjorie Batters.

Banns of marriage were announced Sunday at St. Mary's church by the Rev. J. G. De Vries for Miss Delilah Stulen Maple Creek, and Louis Barlow, New London.

Basketball practice has started at the high school gymnasium with S. B. Helms as coach. The following boys have reported: Norman Paul, Charles Jepson, Gerald Lorge, Jack Mares, Gerald Norder, Marlin Paul, Ralph Hurley, Kenneth Klemm, Ralph Norder, Melvin Spence, David Flanagan, Nathan Wied, Homer Homrig and Harry Homrig.

A meeting of the Band Booster club was held at the high school Tuesday evening. The entertainment committee included Mrs. Frank Flanagan, Miss Neva Stoehr, Mrs. Gertrude Long and Miss Katherine Batters. After a business meeting the time was spent at cards.

Winners of prizes were Mrs. F. M. Dempsey, at bridge, and Mrs. Henry Flanagan, at schafkopf. New members who joined were: Mrs. Albert Lehman, Mrs. Henry Zempke, Mrs. Durrell Bechard, Miss Marie Bricco, Mrs. Hilda Mares, Mrs. Pat Rohan. Other women who attended were: Mrs. T. E. Gaugh, Mrs. C. F. Kuehner, Mrs. J. J. Dempsey, Mrs. John P. Mullarkey, Miss Margaret Dixon, Mrs. Irvin Paul, Miss Eunice Esentrout, Mrs. L. J. Rehman, Mrs. Henry Flanagan and Mrs. P. C. Batters. The next meeting will be the Christmas party which will be held Tuesday evening, Dec. 5.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zitske were: Mr. and Mrs. Otto Dorschner of Hortonville, Mrs. David Zelter of Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Schmidt of Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Walker of Manawa, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Zitske and son of Maple Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sommer of Madison, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wiedemeck of New London.

Mrs. Joseph Babano was taken to the Community Hospital at New London Monday for treatment.

Mrs. Mabel Shannon of Appleton was in the village Tuesday in the interest of the Red Cross and plans to organize a Red Cross group here. Mrs. Miles P. Dempsey, is in charge of the local drive.

L. J. Rehman spent Monday and Tuesday in Milwaukee where he attended a convention.

Herd Group Fieldmen Will Go to Madison

Chilton—Alfred Fyckron, John W. Doherty and Russell Gasch, fieldmen for the three Calumet county dairy herd improvement associations in Calumet county, will spend two full days, Nov. 10 and 11, at the college of agriculture at Madison discussing problems pertaining to herd testing improvement work and recent developments in the ways of improved herd management and testing programs. Dr. E. E. Heizer of the college will discuss a testing program for Wisconsin dairymen. The short course dormitories will be used by the fieldmen during their stay at the conference.

Brillion Department Has 3 New Members

Brillion — Three new members were admitted into the Brillion Fire department Monday evening. They are Gilbert Gast, George Beilke, and Gilbert Lindner. The resignation of Adolph Lippert as a member was accepted. A committee consisting of Lloyd Wordell, chairman; Percy Lindner and Karl Kleiber was appointed to investigate the cost of sponsoring the annual community Christmas tree celebration. Lynn Williams was elected as delegate to represent the department at the meetings of the Eastern Wisconsin Volunteer Firemen's Safety League for the next year. Karl Kleiber was elected as alternate.

Hopkinsville, Ky. —(AP)—Abe Carter declined to participate in a jail break when several prisoners escaped. A month later he won his freedom in court. On a commonwealth motion, charges against him were filed away.

OVERHEARD AT TREASURE ISLAND:

"No wonder the coffee is fresh whenever you buy it"

Hills Bros. Exposition Theatre at the Golden Gate International Exposition where the sound picture in Cinecolor, "Behind the Cup," was shown.

"The Correct Grind Suits Me PERFECTLY"

"I can make delicious coffee in any type of coffee-maker by using The Correct Grind. Of course, I'm careful to follow directions... also Hills Bros.' advice—never regrind. The Correct Grind. Regrinding means loss in flavor, aroma, and freshness."

IMPORTANT: Carefully observe timing for each method. Measure 2 level tablespoons of coffee to each cup of water. Vary water slightly for exact strength desired. Keep coffee-maker clean.

DRIIP METHOD: 6 to 8 minutes preferred. If less than 2 1/2 capacity is made, water will drip too fast giving weak brew.

GLASS VACUUM MACHINES: Put upper bowl on after water boils. Coffee and water should be in contact 5 to 7 minutes.

PERCOLATOR: Start with cold or hot water. "Perco" 7 to 10 minutes after steady pumping starts.

COFFEEPOPS: Bring coffee and water to boiling. Stir well. Add small amount of cold water and let stand 5 minutes to settle grounds.

STEeping: Pour boiling water on coffee. Stir well. Stir again in 5 minutes. Steep for a total of 10 to 15 minutes.

Johns 'Afraid' Most Census Enumerators Will be Democrats

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — Congressman Joshua L. Johns, Appleton Republican, said he is "afraid" that the census enumerators who start their work in January will be mostly Democrats, and "figures do lie," he added.

The census taken in 1930 during the Hoover administration was by Republican appointees. But January, 1940, finds the Democrats in power.

"There should be no discrimination against Republicans, Democrats, or members of other parties in census-taking," Johns stated.

"If the census is taken by members of different parties, it will be accurate, without bias or prejudice."

Fifty per cent of American home exteriors are painted white, less than one per cent red or blue.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

"ARCH OF FIRE"

Oliver Cromwell had been dead only eight years when the Great Fire of London took place. England had become a kingdom once more, and the power of Puritan leaders was a thing of the past. England still contained many Puritans, however, and their style of dress was followed by many of the "plain people." It was very simple compared to the laces and ruffles and wigs of the noble and richer folk of the time.

After telling about his fire warning to the Lord Mayor, Pepys went on with the story in his diary: "People were almost out of their minds. They had no way of putting out the flames. The houses were full of matter of burning, such as pitch and tar. There were warehouses of oil and wines and brandy and other things.

"I met the King and Duke of York in their barge, and joined them. Their order was to pull down houses fast -- but a little could be done since the fire was spreading with such speed.

"We went as near the fire as we could without getting into thick smoke. All over the river, with face to the wind, one was almost burned with a shower of fire-drops. These drops and flakes of fire were blown from house to house, setting one after another aflame.

"We stayed until dark, and then saw a great arch of fire running from the bridge to a point a mile up the hill. It made me weep to see it. Churches and houses were all burning at once, and there was a horrid noise as the buildings cracked and fell to ruin.

"So I went home with a sad heart, and began to pack my goods. I moved my iron chest into the cellar, and got my bags of gold into my office ready to carry away.

"At four o'clock next morning, I put as much of my goods as possible in a cart, and rode in the cart, clad in a nightgown, to Bednall Green. How crowded the streets were with people running and riding, and gettings carts to fetch things away!

After taking one load to safety, Pepys returned for his wife and for more goods. It seemed at the time that his house was not in close danger, but he feared the wind would change and sweep the flames to his dwellings.

Champions Ready For Battle With E. DePere Eleven

Powerful Kaukauna Running Attack Groomed For Closing Game

Kaukauna—Determined to uphold the prestige of the Northeastern conference's western division against East DePere, 1938 champs of the eastern division, Kaukauna high school gridders will go into Saturday afternoon's battle with a week of satisfactory practice behind them. Coach Paul E. Little's problem was not to whip the squad to a peak, but to prevent it from losing the form it displayed last week in smothering West DePere, 31 to 13.

Coach Dad Braisher's Redbirds have lost only one game this year to Sturgeon Bay, 1939 champs of the eastern division. Kaukauna has won seven in a row, averaging more than 21 points a game.

Judging from the performances of other teams this season DePere has every right to expect to score against the Kaws. No team has failed to cross the Kaukauna goal line, although most of the scores have come against the reserves, and 41 of opponents' 53 points have been made in the last quarter.

The DePere problem will be to stop Kaukauna's running attack, an accomplishment which no team has

District Deputy Will Visit Kaukauna Elks Lodge Tonight

Kaukauna—Dr. C. O. Fillinger, Marinette district deputy of BPOE, will make his official visit to the Kaukauna Elks lodge this evening. The program will open with a 6:30 dinner at Elks' hall on Second street. After an inspection of the lodge by the district deputy the local degree team will initiate a class in his honor. The orchestra of the Green Bay lodge will play. Delegations are expected from various cities in this district.

Knights of Columbus will hold their annual thanksgiving party Monday evening at K. of C. club-rooms on Wisconsin avenue. Al A. Martineau, grand knight, announced this morning. Wilfred Brown is in charge of the program, which will consist of vocal solos by Clarence DeBruin and Rita Belongia; a ventriloquist act by Harold Hoolihan and a dance by Kathryn Anderson. Lester J. Brenzel is master of ceremonies. Games will be yet achieved. Karl Giordana, boasting an average of 10 yards per try all season, sparks the Kaw ground attack, supported by Willis Ranquette, Bob Danner and George Steffen.

Pass Defense
The Redbird passing attack, a strong point of the eleven all year, has been prepared for by the Kaws. All season only 16 enemy aerials, out of 75, have been completed, and 5 have been intercepted. Kaukauna has thrown only 3 1/2 times, completing 16.

Starting for the Kaws Saturday will be Leo Rohan and Bill Alger, junior ends; John Wandell, a junior, and John Wandell, a senior; tackles; Steve Andrejeski, senior guard; Ray Hurst, junior guard; Captain Leo Wolfe, senior center; Karl Giordana, Bob Danner, Willis Ranquette and Joe Regenfuss in the backfield. Danner and Ranquette are sophomores and Giordana and Regenfuss juniors.

Kaukauna—Hass Grocers took three games from Ideal Cafe last night in Commercial league competition to go into sole possession of first place, breaking a tie with the K. E. W. quintet, which dropped three to Berens Clothiers. Ray Vandenberg hit 513 for the Grocers, while Frank Wittman's 440 topped the Ideal outfit. Ray Morgan's 538 paced Berens over the K. E. W. team, with Ralph Johnson collecting 540 for the losers.

Leo King cracked out 569, high for the evening, on 210, 164 and 195 as K. M. C. won two from Jirlikowics. L. Kemp's 515, including a 212 game, led the losers. In the final match Mellow Brews won two from Thilmans, Dick Oudenhoven getting 518 for the winners and Joseph Scherer 552 for the losers.

PIG FAIR SATURDAY
Kaukauna—The monthly pig fair sponsored by the Tri-County Pig Fair association will be held Saturday on the Dodge street fairgrounds.

Catholic Parishes Will Hold Special Services for Peace

Kaukauna—Special peace services will be conducted Saturday morning in the ten parishes whose members make up the Kaukauna council of Knights of Columbus. The churches in which special high masses will be read are Holy Cross and St. Mary's, Kaukauna; Holy Name, Kimberly; St. Francis, Hollandtown; St. John, Little Chute; St. Nicholas, Freedom; Holy Angels, Darboy; St. Paul's, Wrightstown; St. Paul's, Combined Locks, and Sacred Heart, Sherwood.

Confessions will be heard at each church on Friday evening. John Van de Loo, chairman of the Kaukauna council's Catholic interest committee, is in charge of arrangements.

It Is Said--

Telephone girls at the Kaukauna office of the Wisconsin Telephone company were not too enthusiastic because Henry Wilpolt, Kaukauna, received $2,800 from the sponsor of a national radio program because that first telephone call was just the signal for countless others. The girls were rushed all day Wednesday connecting well wishers to the Wilpolt home while housewives calling their friends to talk over Wilpolt's good luck really kept the girls busy along with their regular work.

For those who sometimes have wondered, Hollywood screen stars listen to radio programs too. And to prove it, Henry Wilpolt, Kaukauna, who received $2,800 from the sponsor of a national radio program Tuesday night, also received a wire from Hugh O'Connell, Broadway, and Hollywood comedian, congratulating him. The screen star formerly lived at Kaukauna and worked for the same railroad which employs Wilpolt. O'Connell was a call boy at Kaukauna for the Chicago and North Western road before he made his mark in the theatrical world.

Staff Prepares For Senior Play

Properties for Western Comedy Offer Variety Of Problems

Kaukauna—Pistols, holsters, belt, hammer and nails, kerchief, keys, books—all are problems of the property staff of "Ride'em Cowboy," senior class play to be presented Nov. 22 in the civic auditorium. Mary Alice Flanagan and her assistants are busy collecting still more articles—guitars, gourds and woven baskets, all contributing to the western atmosphere of the production. Assisting the property manager are Charlotte Derus, Mary Brewster, Marion Mereness and Mildred Balgie.

Not so easily obtained are the filled saddlebags and fancy saddle, with the large amount of furniture offering another problem. Butcher knives and knitting have been located in the home economics room.

Interest centers around the sound effects. The students have been brushing up on how to produce the sound of horses' hooves, motors, auto horns and pistol shots. The cowboys must be supplied with currency, jackknives and tobacco.

The presentation date has been advanced a day to the 22nd. In the cast are Werner Altman, Jack Winn, Ruth Baker, Louise Nelson, Virginia Strick, Clarence DeBruin, Rita Belongia, Marie Walker, Margaret Picard, Sherman Powers and John Wandell.

Church History Film Will Be Shown Nov. 17

Kaukauna—"Through the Centuries," a talking motion picture showing the history of the Catholic church from its earliest days to the World war will be presented at Holy Cross church hall Friday, Nov. 17, with a 2 o'clock afternoon showing for children. Tickets for the picture are now on sale.

International Head Of Paper Workers Is Invited to Conclave

Kaukauna—John P. Burke, president of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Papermill Workers, has been invited to be the main speaker at the Tri-State council of paper workers' unions here Sunday, Nov. 10. Invited by Mayor L. F. Nelson, Burke replied his future plans were in doubt, but he would know soon if he could be here. Hundreds of delegates from Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan unions are expected to attend.

Students Will Give Armistice Program

Kaukauna—Speeches and music make up the Armistice day program to be given tomorrow morning by High school students in the civic auditorium. Mary McGrath is student chairman.

Lee Gifford will speak on "The Conflict in Europe and Asia Today," with Magdalen Orte discussing "Citizenship." "The Origin of Armistice Day," is the subject of Mary Lou Vanevenhoven, while John Clancy will hold forth on "America's Position Today." Rita Belongia and Clarence DeBruin will sing solos. Patriotic songs will be sung by the assembly.

Dr. Leigh Tells Club About Surgeons Parley

Kaukauna—Dr. Albert B. Leigh spoke on his trip to the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons last month at Philadelphia, before Rotary club members yesterday noon at Hotel Kaukauna. Dr. G. J. Flanagan of Kaukauna also attended the sessions of the congress.

V.F.W. Post to Hold Thanksgiving Party

Kaukauna—A thanksgiving party will be sponsored by Veterans of Foreign Wars Tuesday evening at Martens hall. The affair will begin at 7:30 and last until 11 o'clock.

Armistice Program To Be Presented at Fremont Village Hall

Fremont—A program will be given at the village hall at 9:30 Saturday morning in observance of Armistice day, under the auspices of Wolf River post, No. 391, of the American Legion. The Rev. Ralph Holiday, New London, past chaplain of the the state department, will be the guest speaker. An Americanism program will be presented by the Fremont graded and the Beaver Dam schools under the direction of Miss Freda Zuehlke, and Mrs. Doris Van Cramm, teachers. Several numbers will be played by the Fremont High school band.

Miss Delores Dobbins and Miss Dorothea Dobbins entertained the Westminister Guild of Weyauwega at their home at Fremont Tuesday evening.

Kaukauna Police Will Hear F.B.I. Teachers

Kaukauna—All members of the Kaukauna police department will attend the police training course in Appleton Nov. 13 to 24, sponsored by the Wisconsin Chiefs of Police association. Federal Bureau of Investigation experts will be in charge of afternoon and evening sessions at Appleton Vocational school.

Rain in Drought Area Cause Wheat Prices to Slump

Weakness of Securities Also Adds to Market's Selling Burden

Chicago—(7)—Rains that splattered upon drought stricken plains of Kansas, in the heart of the hard winter wheat belt, caused enough selling of wheat futures here today to push prices about 2 cents a bushel lower.

Partial reports from the south-west indicated rains were received in Pratt, Holsington, Hutchinson, McPherson, Lorraine, Salina, Wichita and Great Bend. The official forecast predicted unsettled weather with possible showers in many districts of the belt.

Weakness of securities also added to the market's selling burden but reports of sale of 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat to Europe on top of 4,000,000 bushels sold yesterday.

Receipts were: Wheat 5 cars, corn 185, oats 17.

Wheat closed 11-11 lower than yesterday, December 87-86, May 85-1/2, corn 1-1/2 down; December 50-50, May 52-1/2, oats 1-1/2 down.

Candidate for Vice President Makes Appearance

Rep. Short of Missouri Announces He's Seeking the Job

BY W. B. RAGSDALE

Washington — (AP) — The middle-western scramble to get men on next year's presidential tickets has developed a highly-unusual product — a real, live candidate for vice president.

He is Rep. Dewey Short of Missouri, the "unsophisticated hillbilly" who was educated at Baker, Boston, Harvard, Heidelberg, Oxford and Berlin. For eight years as a Republican member of the house he has been thinking up harsh things to say about the New Deal.

Very rarely does a man run for the vice presidential nomination openly and obviously. Even less often does a man try for that nomination and get it.

Not since Charles Gates Dawes in 1924 and Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1920 has any convention picked for its vice presidential candidate anyone except a contender for first place on the ticket.

The Missouri Republican committee has endorsed Short for vice president, however, and he is embarking on a series of speeches through the middle west.

There are several versions of why it was done. One is that if Short gets on the ticket, or even gets a good run at the convention it will give the Missouri Republicans a shot of enthusiasm for the campaign and heighten their hopes of winning. Another is that it helps to build up Short in his home district. Short says, somewhat enigmatically, "Maybe it will give me a chance to help some of my friends."

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all. Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough remedy. Promptly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results. Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaracol in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.
